

THE WILSON ADVANCE.

Wilson, N. C., Jan. 10, 1889

The Wilson County Farmer's Alliance met Friday last.

The County Commissioners met last Monday in regular monthly meeting.

The Fayetteville Observer wants a Savings Bank established in that town.

The Advance Job Office is doing an amount of work that "surprises the natives."

There were no services at the Presbyterian church last Sunday either morning or night.

Saturday last was old Christmas and some of the boys celebrated the occasion with fire work.

One hundred and eighty-seven marriages license issued in Wilson county during the year 1888.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Green gave Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Pell a reception at their residence on Friday night.

Forty four marriage licenses were issued in Wayne county during the month of December, says the Argus.

The new Railroad station house at Black Creek is a beautiful and substantial building and adds to the place.

"Tom" Sutton has a strong hold upon the people of his own county, we should say, after a recent visit to Fayetteville.

"Now is the winter of our discontent" when every body that you own wants to settle up and nobody that owes you wants to do so.

We see from the Raleigh letter in the Wilmington Messenger that J. R. Green, Sheriff of Nash county, settled with the State Treasurer paying $5,854.18.

The road bed of the W. & W. Railroad between Black Creek and Wilson has recently been gravelled and is a great convenience of the pedestrian tourists.

The Clinton Caucasian noting the great improvement in that town says—"Clinton made more progress in the year 1888, than in any ten years of its corporate existence."

We returned thanks to J. C. Ayers for a copy of Ayers' Almanac for 1889. It is in twenty one different languages and of course a source of great joy to us, as we read of the life of mankind in these various languages.

Pitt County Superior Court is in session this week. The ADVANCE is represented by our Mr. C. F. Wilson. We hope many of our subscribers will meet him there and that his cash account may show up well for this term of the court.

The ADVANCE feels compliment at the manner in which the members of the Farmers Alliance express themselves towards the paper. It affords us pleasure to do services to our people whether they be joined together in an organized movement that is calculated to do good or as individual citizens.

Quite a number of the friends of Mr. Herbert Rountree and his bride, Miss Adie Marsh assembled at Mr. Rountree's residence on Tuesday night last, to welcome them home from their bridal tour. There are few people who have a stronger hold upon the affections of our people than have Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rountree.

A gentleman who has recently been through Johnston County, says Mr. Joseph Fuller is one of the best farmers in that county, abounding in good farmers.

The negroes go South to work in turpentine in large numbers. Quite a number have left this section and there is quite a competition between the Railroads to decide who shall have the coons.

Assignment. THE ADVANCE regrets to announce to its readers that one of Wilson's young merchants has made an assignment. On Monday last J. E. N. Gorham made an assignment to John Y. Moore for the benefit of creditors. Liabilities about $15,000, assets we are informed are about the same. We are told that the cause of the assignment is that money which Mr. Gorham had made the promise of, he was disappointed in securing.

An Ugly Case. The Case against Godwin in which he is charged with having forged two notes in order to secure possession of the stock of goods recently transferred by sale to Messrs. Lawter & Jones has created quite a sensation throughout the community.—Dunn Sign-board.

J. J. Wilson of this county was the owner of the store disposed of, we learn. He was probably doing something by the transaction.

An Entertaining Citizen. The Goldsboro Argus never spoke truer words than when it said: "One of the most truly energetic and representative men in the development of Eastern North Carolina is Mr. W. E. Fountain, Mayor of Tarboro, and one of the telegraph line through that whole section of country, we believe. This gentleman was in the city yesterday to place an order with some one of our three brick yards here for brick to complete the large cotton factory that the above trying town has under full head way of construction, and in which Mr. Fountain is a large stock holder.

Maj Campbell. The people of Fayetteville, we learned last week while in that pleasant old town, are very anxious that Maj. W. E. Campbell, of the Fayetteville Light Infantry, shall be made Adjutant General of the State Guards. He fought gallantly in the late war and is a thorough soldier. He is modest and true and would make an officer of whom the State would feel proud of, we should say from the estimation in which his held by the good people of Fayetteville. He belongs to a company that has done active service in three wars and was organized in 1793. The recognition of one of the best men in the State at the same time of the oldest company in our borders, would be appreciated by the people of the Cape Fear section.

CANE PRESENTATION. The Mechanics of Wilson do Honor to Themselves and to Our Senator.

The editor of the ADVANCE regrets the fact that he was unable to be present at one of the most pleasant occasions that Wilson has seen in a long while. The occasion we refer to was the presentation of gold-headed canes to Dr. R. W. King by the mechanics of Wilson as a testimonial to their appreciation of him.

The presentation took place in the hall of the W. P. Woodson, Esq., presided over the meeting. The cane was presented by H. E. Murray, Esq., in words well chosen. Dr. R. W. King responded as follows:—

I am not a mechanic or the son of a mechanic. I cannot even do the work of a mechanic. I am an architect and I have just finished the architect of his own fortune. Considering I have no fortune I feel sorry to-night that I ever did before the I am without one. But oh, if I were only rich enough, what a banquet I would offer to the noble men who whose hospitality and honors still fill my heart this evening with numberless emotions. But alas! I am a beggar, even in words—though were I as rich as Hercules, in that golden cottage of the brain, in which the heart of the eloquent may happily pay tribute of gratitude, yet in glory of my present feelings, I should esteem myself without wit or words, action or utterance. I hope though, that I shall be able hereafter to testify my appreciation of your kindness in something better than expressions, which any man can make, and which too often are, but our Mr. Murray has just said that you are "world builders." I cannot detain you to describe even an outline of your Titanic exploits. The vast and splendid pagodas and temples of Asia, the glories of Babylonian workmanship, the stupendous productions of your skill and genius, scattered all over Europe, from St. Peter's, to Westminster Abbey, are undying witnesses of your antiquity and power. Well may you point to these eternal testimonials, and say with just pride, "My monument acquires its grandeur, if I should ask a monument to our labors, look around!" Since the days of Solomon, King of Israel, who organized and marshalled for defensive work the architects of his metropolis and descended nationalities, who by their skill and fidelity, brought into existence that model of human excellence (the temple of Solomon) to surpass which has baffled the skill of genius ever since. The workingman, from that time, has been enabled to raise his head and claim for himself a distinction and position equal in influence and importance to that of the best of any land. The Savior of the world, the Son of the Most High God, the Prince of Peace, led the courts of Heaven, where angels and principalities worshipped Him, humbled himself to be born of woman, not a princess or of noble birth, but a mechanic's wife—He enabled and dignified labor by working himself at the bench, and being not ashamed to be called the carpenter's son. He was poor too; because for our sakes, thus consecrating poverty and exalting men of low estate.

Miss Rosa Young left Saturday last for Greensboro Female College.

Miss Rhann of Richmond Va., is on a visit to the family Mr. J. T. S. Young.

J. A. Duvall Esq. is on a business trip of several days to Salisbury and Charlotte.

The family of Mr. E. S. Warlocks of the firm of the Landmark's offices have moved to Wilson to live.

Misses Julia Gay and Henrie Green left for Raleigh Monday to resume their studies at Peace Institute.

Rev. J. H. Gordon passed through Wilson yesterday. He spent the day in Soisnot and was returning to his home in Raleigh.

Dr. F. M. Moyer and Mr. J. K. Peacock, of Moxie and Geo. W. Blount Esq., are at Raleigh attending a meeting of the Grand Lodge Masons. They left Monday on this pleasant mission.

Mr. E. B. Phillips, of this county, who is now teaching school at Cedar Creek, Cumberland county, called to see us last week. We were pleased to learn from him that he has a splendid school and is doing well.

We were pleased to see Minister Jarvis and his estimable wife last Saturday. They were on route for Raleigh. We think the ex-Governor is looking thinner than when we last saw him. He will be on hand to see who lands the Senatorship.

Mr. Doane Herring left yesterday evening for Olive to be present at the marriage of Miss Mollie Herring, of that place, who is well known and has many friends in Wilson, where she taught school for several years, to Mr. Mordecai Witherington of Goldsboro. They were married last night and we extend to them our congratulations.

On Wednesday last week a marriage took place at Fayetteville of which the Observer says: A large assemblage gathered at the Presbyterian church to witness the marriage of Miss Annie H. Shepherd, of this place, to the Rev. R. P. Pell pastor of the Presbyterian churches of Wilson and Rocky Mount. At the appointed hour, eight o'clock, the "Wedding March" was rendered by the organist, Mrs. W. G. Hall, and the ushers, Messrs. Geo. P. Pell, E. H. Evans, M. C. Daniels, and Dr. J. A. Rodgers marched to the altar railing and took their positions; then the groom attended by Mr. C. C. Daniels, as his best man, and the bride tastefully dressed in white satin with lace over it, in demit orange blossoms escorted by her brother-in-law, Mr. G. P. McNeill, approached the altar preceded by two beautiful little flower girls, who stationed themselves on each side of the couple.

The ceremony was the former of the Rev. A. L. Phillips, pastor of the church. After the ceremony the invited guests repaired to the home of the bride which had been beautifully decorated by her friends and where the wedding presents in honor of the profession greeted the eye, and passed a pleasant evening. The church was very handsomely dressed, and the ceremony was performed under an arch dressed with mistletoe and evergreens, from which hung a horse shoe of beautiful white roses.

Miss Shepherd, the bride, is one of Fayetteville's most accomplished young ladies, the daughter of the late Judge Jesse G. Shepherd, whose memory is held dear by all who remember his largeness in the discharge of life's duties.

The groom, son of the late Rev. W. E. Pell who is well remembered here, while not a native of this place, spent his early boyhood here and as a student at the University of N. C., or in his ministerial career has gained for himself a reputation that is enviable.

The ADVANCE tenders its congratulations to the happy couple. Mr. Pell is one of the most intellectual and earnest men we know. He is fervent and earnest and enjoys the deep love and respect of his people. Miss Shepherd is a young woman of many traits of character both of head and heart that make her a woman fully capable of making the man of her choice happy. She will by good sense and last strength of character be truly and a help meet to her husband. For their future we wish our richest blessings of matrimony.

Mr. J. H. Hassell, wife of Eld. Silvester Hassell, departed this life at Wilmington, last Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, in the 29th year of her age. She leaves a husband and five small children to mourn their irreparable loss. She was a daughter of the late Mr. Calvin Woodard and his mother, Mrs. Woodard, and her mother, where they went to wait on Miss Mary Farmer, who was married on Wednesday last, Miss Farmer formerly of this place.

Mr. Sid Wells, from Wake Forest College, Mr. Watson, from Oxford and Messrs. Pridden and Doles, drummers, have been spending a part of holidays at their homes in this place.

Mrs. Everett re-opened her school on Monday.

Three young men driving out of town carelessly permitted their horse to leave the road and run the buggy against a tree, when it was broken badly, harness torn to pieces and all three bumped out on the ground. No bones broken. Moral—Be careful how you drive out of town. Old Christmas, three in a buggy.

The first Saturday of the new year is rapidly drawing to its close. God grant that it may find you and your readers peacefully sleeping free from care or trouble. Good night.

Toisnot N. C. Jan 5 1889.

PERSONAL MENTION. Miss Sarah Edmondson, of Greensboro, was in town Monday.

W. B. Young Esq. was at Fayetteville last week on business.

Dr. R. W. King and Nat. Van Buren Esq., left Monday last for Raleigh.
