NOT ONE SORE NOW
 Baby Afflicted with Bad Sores and Eruptions. No Relief. Permanently Cured by the Cuticura.

During the summer of 1889 my eighteen month old infant was so afflicted with eruptions that only a little white rice water, and on other parts of his body had sores came and remained till I procured the Cuticura Remedies. For some time I used the soap and salve without a blood medicine, but they did not do so well as when all were used together. It has now been nearly a year since the eruption was healed, and very much feared. I would have been in my grave had it not been for your kindness. Allow me to return my sincerest thanks.
W. H. QUALLS, Paducah, Ky.

Sore from Waist Down
 I had three of the best physicians in Paducah, and they did me no good. I used your Cuticura Remedies, and they have cured me sound and well. I was sore from my waist down with eruptions. They have cured me with no sign of return. I used your Cuticura for without a doubt, I would have been in my grave had it not been for your kindness. Allow me to return my sincerest thanks.
W. H. QUALLS, Paducah, Ky.

Cuticura Remedies
 If the thousands of little babies who have been cured of scurvy, itching, burning, bleeding, and blotchy skin and scalp diseases could only see the Cuticura Remedies, they would be the most grateful of mortals. Few medicines so gratefully receive their relief as the most distressing eruptions and itching and burning skin diseases, and point to a speedy and permanent cure. It is positively infallible and does them without a moment's delay.

HOW MY SIDE ACHES!

INTERVIEW WITH THE PRINCE NAPOLEON.

OTWITHSTANDING
 I hadn't write much for the papers of late nobody needn't flatter themselves that the underlined is dead. On the contrary, "I still live," which words was spoken by Dan'el Webster, who was a able man. Even the old-line whigs of Boston admit that.

Webster is dead now, however, and his mantle has probably fallen into the hands of some dealer in 2nd hand coats, who can't sell it. Leastways nobody seems to be goin round wearin it to any perticuler extent, now days. The rigiment of whom I was 'burned, finely concluded they was of c. adapted as Home Guards, which accounts for your not hearin of me, ear this, where the bauls is the thickest and where the cannon doth roar. But as a American citizen I shall never cease to admire the mastery of our troops made on Washington, away from Bull Run, a short time ago. It was well done. I spoke to my wife 'out it at the time. My wife sed it was well done.

It havin thered bin determined to perfect Baldwinville at all hazards, and as there was no apprehensions of any immedijt danger, I thought I would go on to a pleasure tour. Accordingly I put on a clean Biled Shirt and started for Washington. I went there to see the Prints Napoleon, and not to see the place, which I will here take occasion to observe is about as uninteresting a locality as there is. It is easy enough to see why a man goes to the poor house or the penitentiary. It's bec'uz he can't help it. But why he should voluntarily go and live in Washington is intirely beyond my comprehension, and I can't say no fairer no that.

I put up to a leadin hotel. I saw the landlird and sed, "How d'ye do, Square?"
 "Half-a-dollar. We charge twenty-five cents for lookin at the landlird, and fifty cents for speakin to him. If you want supper, a boy will show you to the dinin room for twenty-five cents. Your room bin in the tenth story, it will cost you a dollar to be shown up there."

"How much do you ax for a man breathin in this equinomial turbin?" sed I.
 "Ten cents a Breth," was his reply.
 "Washington hotels are very responsible in their charges. [N. B.—This is Sarkassum.]

I sent up my keerd to the Prints, and w' immedijly ushered before him. He reciev'd me kindly, and axed me to sit down.
 "I hav cum to pay my respects to you, Mister Napoleon, hopin I see you hale and hartly."
 "I am quite well," he sed. "Air you well, sir?"
 "Sound as a cuss!" I answered.

He seemed to be pleased with my ways, and we entered into conversation to o'net.
 "How's Lewis?" I axed, and he sed the Emperor was well. "Eugene was like wise well, he sed. Then I axed him was Lewis a good provider? did he cum home arly nites? did he perform her bedroom at a oneseasonable hour with gin and fanzy? did he go to the 'Lodge' on nites when there wasn't any Lodge? did he often hav to go down town to meet a friend? did he hav a extensiv acquaintance among poor young widders whose husbands was in Califony? to all of which questions the Prints perperly replied, givin me to understand that the Emperor was behavin well.

"I ax these questions, my royal duke and most noble hiness and imperials, bec'uz I'm anxious to know how he stands as a man. I know he's smart. He's cunning, he is long headed, he is deep—he is grate. But unless he is good he'll come down with a crash one of these days and the Bonyparts will be Bustid up again. Bet yer life?"
 "Air you a preacher, sir?" he inquired, siltly sarkastical.
 "No, sir. But I bleeve in morality. I likewise bleeve in Meetin Houses. Show me a place where there isn't any Meetin House, and I'll show you a place where old hats air stuffed into broken winders, where the children air dirty and ragged, where gates have no hinges, where the women are slipshod, and where maps of the devil's wild land air painted on the men's shirt bosoms with tobacco jooce! That's what I'll show you. Let us consider what the preachers do for us before we abuse 'em."

He sed he didn't mean to abuse the clergy. Not at all, and he was happy to see that I was interested in the Bonypart family.
 "It's a grate old family," sed I. "But they scooped the old man in."

"Napoleon the Grand. The Britishers scooped him at Waterloo. He wanted to do too much, and he did it! They scooped him in at Waterloo, and he sedultently died at St. Heleny! There's where the greatest military commander the world ever produced pegged out. It was rather hard to consine such a man as him to St. Heleny, to spend his last days in catchin mackerel, and walkin up and down the drabry beach in a military cloak drawn tildy round him, (see pict'er-books), but so it was. 'Hed of the Army! Them was his last words. So he had bin. He was grate! Don't I wish we had a pair of his old boots to rommand sum of our Brigades!"

This pleased Jerome, and he took me warmly by the hand.
 "Alexander the Grate was punkins," I continued, "but Napoleon was punkins'er. Alec wot becaus there was no more worlds to scoop, and then took to drinkin. He drownid his sorrows in the flonin bole, and the flonin bole was too much for him. It giterally is. He undertook to give a snake exhibition in his boots, but it killed him. That was a bad joke on Alec!"
 "Since you air so sollicitous about France and the Emperor, may I ask you how your own country is gettin along?" sed Jerome, in a pleasant voice.
 "It's mixed," I sed. "But I think we shall cum out all right."
 "Columbus, when he disklivered this magnificent continent, could hav had no idea of the grandeur it would one day assume," sed the Prints.

 "It cost Columbus twenty thousand dollars to outfit his expedition," sed I. "If he had bin a sensible man he'd have put the money in a hoss railroad or a gas company, and left this magnificent continent to intelligent savages, who when they get hold of a good thing know how to keep it, and who wouldn't have scooped, nor rebelled, nor knoekt Liberty in the hed with a slungshot. Columbus wasn't much of a feller, after all. It would hav bin money in my pocket if he'd staid at home. Christ, man, but he put his foot in it when he sailed for America."
 We talked sum more about matters and things, and at last I riz to go. "I will now say good bye to you, noble sir, and good luck to you. Likewise will I bid you adieu. I will be in the States in a few days, and I'll be in a man of him. You find us sumwhat mixed, as I before observed, but come again next year and you'll find us clearer nover. The American Eagle has lived too sumptuously of late—his stomach is cumt out, and he's takin a siltie emetic. That's all. We're gettin ready to strike a big blow and a sure one. When we do strike the fur will fly and secession will be in the hands of the undertaker, sheeted for so deep a grave that nothin short of Gabriel's trombone will ever awaken it! Mind what I say. You've heard the showman!"

Then advisin him to keep away from the Peter Funk auctions of the East, and the proprietors of corner-lots in the West, I bid him farewell and went away.
 There was a levee at Senator What's-his-name's, and I thought I'd jine in the festivities for a spell. Who should I see but she that was Sarah Watkins, now the wife of our Congress, sittin in the dance, dressed up to kill in her store cloze. Sarah's father used to keep a little grocery store in our town and she used to clerk it for him in busy times. I was rushin up to shake hands with her when she turned on her heel, and tossin her hed in a contemptuous manner, walked away from me very rapid. "Hallo, Sal," I hollered, "can't you measure me a quart of them best melasses? I may want a codfish, also. I guess this reminds her of the little red and white, and 'the days of her happy childhood.'"

But I fell in with a nice little gal after that, who was much sweeter than Sally's father's melasses, and I axed her if we shouldn't glide in the mussy dance. She sed we shouldn't, and we glide.
 I intended to make this letter very seris, but a few goals may have accidentally crept in. Never mind. Besides, I think it improves a komick paper to publish a goak once in a while. Yours Munchly.
WARD (Artemus).

NOTES FROM BOSTON.
MR. FANUEL.
 Old Mr. Fanuel is dead, but his Hall is still full blarst. This is the Cradle in which the Goddess of Liberty was rocked, my Dear. The Goddess hasn't bin in the Hall since the Boston Tea Party, and the num'r's quack doctors she called in didn't help her any; but the old gal's physicians now are men who understand their business, Major-generally speakin', and I think the day is near when she'll be able to take her three meals a day, and sleep nights as comfy as in the old time.

HARVARD COLLEGE.
 This celebrated institution of learnin' is pleas'd to announce that the Rev. Parker's, in School street, and has pupils from all over the country.
 I had a letter, yes'd'y, by the way, from our moortal son, Artemus, Jr., who is at Bowdoin College in Maine. He writes that he's a Bowdoin student, and it cum to this: Is this Boy, as I nurr'd with a Parent's care into his childhood's hour—is he goin to be a Grate American humorist? Alars! I fear it is too troo. Why didn't he bind him out to the Patent Travellin' Vegetable Pill Man, as was struck with his appearance at our last County Fair, & wanted him to go with him and be a Pillist? Ar, these Boys—they little know how the old folk worry about 'em. But my father he never had no occasion to worry about me.

You know, Betsy, that when I first commenced my career as a moral inhibitor with a six-legged cat and a Bass drum, I was only a simple peasant child pleasured by Summers' had flow'rs, and my youthful hed. But I had sum mind of my own. My father understood this. "Go," he said—"go, my son, and hog the pig with the next 'knock em,' but the old man was allus a little given to slang. He put his withered hand tremblinly onto my hed, and went seddly into the house."

A Dangerous Period.
 As the season moves swiftly toward the boundary lines that lie between winter and Spring, it frequently happens that the human system, which has borne the strain of Winter, shows signs of relaxation. In all ages this period has been noted as a dangerous one. A course of the great blood purifier and tonic, S. S. S., will enable the most delicate to face the season's changes with impunity. It is a medicine that not only strengthens the weak and the delicate, but is an additional safeguard for those who consider themselves strong.

MONEY IN TOBACCO!
 That is the Verdict of those who use

The "Snow Stick" for Log Barns.

No planter who raises Tobacco can afford not to use them. It is the simplest, and most complete, arrangement yet devised to save all the tobacco leaves grown, commonly called "primings," and make them marketable at the highest prices, and the only mode whereby you can save them in such manner that every leaf catches the same amount of heat and air on every side at the same time, thus insuring a uniform cure. There is no chance to crowd the leaves (as is the case when strung on cords) even if you tried. Don't flatter yourself that you can do more than those who have spent a life time in handling tobacco. Send for our illustrated pamphlet and read the testimonials of those who have tried them.

TO THOSE INTERESTED:—I have been asked to give my opinion upon the practical merits of the process of curing tobacco with the Snow Stick, or more commonly known as the wire process. I preface my remarks by saying I have been in tobacco, have handled and been intimately associated with this great staple all my life, and have watched closely every new device that had for its object the improvement and lifting the burden of the shoulders of the producer, who had to bear.

I know that it don't take a Solomon to say it, but the man who invents these labor-saving tobacco curing outfits should be classed as a benefactor of mankind.
 1st. By the use of the wire stick you can save the bottom leaves which would otherwise be lost by firing.
 2d. It don't require experts to gather and string these leaves—chaps ten years old can do it as well as men.
 3d. By taking off the lower leaves as they mature you hasten the ripening of the plant—this alone is a decided advantage.
 4th. The primings, or bottom leaves, thus saved, when cured, make first and second class cutters, which under the old way, while waiting for the body and top of the plant to get fully ripe or "grained" for the knife, is lost entirely—all of which when secured can be cured in your barn with less fuel. But from observation in this section I have found in my travels that fuel is but of second consideration at present, but when you get regularly into tobacco you will find this item of wood of considerable import, and you would do well to commence in time to take care of it.

When I read the strong endorsement of the Snow Stick process by such tobacco men as Maj. R. L. Ragland, Hyco, Va., and F. M. Rogers, Jr., Florence, S. C., together with many others, I could not hesitate to give my full endorsement.
Ed. M. PACE,
 Manager Wilson Tobacco Warehouse.

Put in your order for 500 sticks and 8 baskets for each 16-foot barn—more in proportion for larger barns—the best investment you ever made. It don't take an expert to select the bottom leaves, nor to string or cure them.
