

The Wilson Advance.

WILSON, N. C., - Aug. 27, 1891.

ARE YOU IN IT.

"Are advertisements read?" you ask. Well, if you put it in the ADVANCE it is. Last week "M" advertised for a dry goods salesman. To date no less than eight applications have come by mail and twelve men have called at our office in person to ask about the place, either for self or a friend. So do not be uneasy about people not reading an ADVANCE advertisement. And now is the time to put one in the paper the people read.

Don't wait for the mad dog. The jail will not be removed. It purely rained Monday morning. The price of chickens still roasts high.

J. T. Cobb & Co. have moved to Goldsboro street.

The jail is a winner with a large and tempting stretch. The jail is not willing to quit even. It wants the last smell.

Mr. B. J. Cobb has our thanks for some luscious tomatoes.

Dr. Moore's hat will not stop the steady trot of a mad dog.

Chinquapins are ripe, but they will not be received on subscription.

As a chunky Mayor Green is like the label on a bottle: he's not "in it." Mayor Green can miss a mad dog ten feet every throw with an axe level.

The town is full of strange faces, and they are not all tobacco men either.

Dr. Charlie Moore says a mad dog has the right of way on any road he travels.

Murderers or mad dogs, it's all the same with Policeman Mayo—he calls 'em all down.

People who have been waiting for the jail to be removed will now wait for Christmas.

The small baby of Mr. Levi Watson, mentioned last week, is dead. It lived four days.

Mr. John T. Barnes will move his office from Nash street to his sash and blind factory.

Rev. A. H. McArm will preach at the Home for the aged and infirm next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Policeman Mayo belongs to neither the Gun Club nor Military Company, but he can hit the dog's eye every shot.

John Gaston has secured the services of Ed. Mitchell in his Nash street barber shop. They are a team that can't be excelled.

A force of hands were putting some finishing touches on the business portions of Tarboro and Nash Streets Tuesday.

Sam Vick has put up a sign in front of his place of business. It reads "POST-OFFICE," and ought to have been swinging to the breeze years ago.

Robinson's circus, like all big enterprises, is headed this way and the small boy dances in delightful expectation of the street parade and steam calliope.

The jail refuses to be interviewed and the tale it could unfold is consequently forever locked in silence's clutch. The stretch, however, is unfolded with maddening regularity.

Mr. W. W. Simms was exhibiting some beautiful samples of tobacco on the street Saturday. It was dark mahogany wrappers of good weight and fine texture from the barn of Mr. Larry Bass.

Mr. F. L. Brookfield was in town last Friday with an elegant line of Xmas goods and druggists supplies. He also sells a liver pill, of his own formula, which is highly endorsed. Rowland and Nadal sell them.

Work is being pushed rapidly forward upon the public school building, which is being enlarged for the Graded-School. When completed it will be a handsome, convenient structure and well adapted to the needs of the case.

On Monday, the horses of Mr. Turner Battle, took fright from a train and ran away. One of them ran against a tree and was killed. Messrs. T. H. Battle and Jacob Battle were in the carriage, but jumped out and did not get hurt.—Rocky Mount Argonaut.

Mr. J. W. Hayes returned Tuesday from his trip to Europe very much improved mentally and physically. In his inside pocket he brought the "Blarney Stone." All can kiss it free charge by calling at the ADVANCE office. Its actual weight is 3,000,000 pounds.

Mr. Bob Barnes, who says he can tell a married man as far as he can see him by the haggard, worried, hunted look clinging to his whiskers, has a position in the store of Mr. A. Heilbronner. Bob says it is a smart man who keeps from under the yoke matrimonial.

It is next to impossible to hire one of these town negroes. The ADVANCE young man approached some ten or fifteen lazy loafers on Tuesday to find one who wanted a job sawing wood. They were all too busy to stir. Dr. C. E. Moore was offering $15 per month for hands to work on his farm and could secure no one. Could not some of these loafers be taken up under the vagrant act?

We are glad to reproduce the following from the State Chronicle: "Mr. T. Norman Jones, for several years proprietor and manager of the Capital Tobacco Warehouse, has removed with his family to Wilson, N. C., where he takes charge of the Planters Warehouse. The Chronicle commends him to the good people of Wilson, who will find Mr. Jones a live and progressive tobacco man."

It will interest his many friends here to know that Mr. R. G. Pearson, the evangelist, will sail for Europe September 9th. In a letter to Mr. Brenzler, of Charlotte, N. C., Mr. Pearson says: "We will spend most of the winter in London; then the spring and summer in Germany, Switzerland and Scotland, returning to New York September '92, if we don't get too 'home sick' to stay longer. Since I can't work, it seems that foreign travel is the best thing I can do, and I trust to be benefitted in more ways than one."

The sky which overhangs Wilson is not a peculiar one. It beams with calm benignity down upon the best people in the world. Sometimes—no, all the time—it smiles with approval as Wilson leads the procession of busy, hustling, successful towns. It was overcast darkly Monday afternoon, and as people looked up to discover the cause of its black frown, they found it was full of martins, flying round in eddy circles. There were thousands of them and for hours they kept up their chattering. Even the birds know a good place when they see it.

"See here, what have you been taking my name in vain for," was the way in which Mr. John Selby accosted the ADVANCE young man on Saturday. "Yes, it is true I am going to open a green grocery here. I will occupy the store now used by Mr. John T. Barnes, and take charge September 10th. I expect to keep a decent, first-class place, where the ladies of Wilson may come and purchase anything in the way of meats, fresh and salt. I believe the town is large and healthy enough to make such a place profitable, and I am going to give Wilson people something to eat."

PERTINENTLY PERSONAL.

People You Know, Will Know, or Ought to Know.

Mr. Will G. Greene returned Saturday from a trip to Greenville.

Miss Mattie Branch has returned from her visit to Graham.

Mr. W. T. Shaw, of Weldon, was in town on Sunday.

Jessie Speight and Bob Copeland hied themselves away into the country Sunday morning. They had a "good receive."

Mr. Tom Ruffin, who has been at Mr. Bronson's school, near Warrenton, was in town this week. He left yesterday for Hillsboro.

Messrs. Malcolm McKay and Charles Exum, of Dunn, were in town Monday.

Mr. J. O. Farmer, a very popular Wilson country man, who is doing well in Hicksford, Va., paid the ADVANCE office a pleasant call Monday.

Mrs. A. J. Hobgood and children, of Battleboro, were visiting friends here this week.

Dr. E. G. Moore, of Elm City, was here on Monday.

Our good friend, P. J. Bynum, Esq., of Greene county, was here to see here Friday.

Misses Minnie Applewhite, of Moyton, and Minnie Bynum, of Greene county, were in town Friday.

Mrs. D. Oettinger returned Sunday from a visit to her former home, Alexandria, Va.

Mr. T. E. Hays spent Sunday in Warsaw.

Misses Temple Herring, of Clinton and Ida Turnage, of Kinston, are visiting Mrs. W. C. Mayo.

Prof. W. H. Wills arrived Tuesday. We were pleased to receive a call from him yesterday.

Mr. John Lee returned Tuesday from a trip to Beulah and vicinity.

Mrs. Geo. W. Blount and daughter, Miss Sue, are visiting relatives in Hickory.

Mr. Geo. W. Blount returned Tuesday from a trip to Hickory.

Misses May Harrell and Clara Wooten, of Kinston, are visiting at Mrs. Parker's.

Mr. T. A. Davis has returned from a trip to Blowing Rock.

Our good friend, Mr. John Atkinson, the efficient book-keeper for Hackney Bros. & Simpson, is visiting his old home near Old Sparta.

Mr. Forest Taylor, of Whitakers, was in town yesterday.

Mr. W. G. Greene was in Whitakers Tuesday night.

A Coincidence.

Many years ago when Mr. S. A. Woodard was a struggling young man, grubbing stumps to turn an honest penny, with hardly one cent to rub against another, he stamped his initials and the date on a copper penny and put it in circulation. Last Saturday in Norfolk he received some pennies in change at the ferry, and on looking them over he found the coin he had stamped was not among them.

Our Advertisers.

A. Heilbronner says he will not be undersold on purchases from his mammoth stock of dress goods, clothing, etc.

If "the apparel proclaims the man" and you buy it from J. & D. Oettinger you are "in it," they say, and save 33 1/3 per cent.

For the past two weeks fans have been greatly in demand and you missed it if you did not get one at the Cash Racket Store.

It is with real pleasure we call your attention to the card of Mr. J. D. Bardin, attorney and counsellor-at-law. He has also been led by his practice into a knowledge of the importance of real estate transfers here and will be glad to tell anybody about our beautiful little city. Persons who dislike the vexation of collecting rents will find that it is a positive pleasure to him. Mr. Bardin is a very popular son of Wilson and the ADVANCE is glad he is doing well.

In the Churches.

Rev. Jno. N. Cole occupied his pulpit last Sunday morning and night and his sermon in the morning specially delighted his hearers.

Rev. H. W. Battle and family returned Friday their summer vacation. Mr. Battle preached two sermons on Sunday with his old-time vigor and brilliancy.

Rev. A. H. McArm being absent to fill his regular appointment at La Grange on Sunday there were no services in the Presbyterian church. Consequently the Baptist church choir received a welcome addition in the person of Mrs. W. B. Hill, whose delightful singing is always a pleasure to all hearers.

Rev. Mr. Harding the popular young pastor of the Disciples church here, is at his home in Virginia enjoying a month's vacation.

It was "Big August" here on Sunday and the town was full of people from this vicinity to attend services in the Primitive Baptist church. The meeting began on Friday, and the preaching was done by Elders P. D. Gold and Wm. Woodard.

Rev. C. J. Wingate, at present of Raleigh, has been called and accepted the rectorate of the Episcopal church here. He is expected to arrive by September 2nd, and will preach his first sermon on the first Sunday.

We learn he is a native of Louisiana, but is related to the Bradleys, the Derosses and Giles, of Wilmington. Some months ago he accepted a call to the Durham church. Not long after Rev. Dr. Pittner, of the church of the Good Shepherd, in Raleigh, was given a vacation and Rev. Mr. Wingate was chosen to fill this place until Dr. Pittner's return.

He has done so very acceptably, we learn, and afforded the congregation much satisfaction. We understand he is a cultured, educated, christian gentleman, and we rejoice with our Episcopal brethren upon their good fortune in securing his ministrations.

"To a mind richly furnished by nature he had added every grace and power which could be secured by assiduous cultivation. From his infancy a voracious reader, his memory was stored with all that was most useful and beautiful in our literature, and his information was systematized and refined by an unusually acute and discriminating intellect."

"His familiarity with the best models had formed a style of writing which was strong, rich and harmonious. His voice when at its best was musical and flexible and readily responded to the varied emotions which agitated him. His sentiments were always elevated and of no ordinary force. And withal there ran through all he spoke and wrote a kindly humor that was as delightful as it was simple and unassuming."

"All the readers of the State Chronicle are familiar with his style in the Pencil Marginalia, which from time to time, have been published in our columns, but which of late have been too rare, and now, alas! must cease forever."

"The thoughts of the great men of all the ages he made his own and clothed them with a strangely attractive human interest and originality that rendered them memorable to all minds with which he came in contact."

"As a public speaker he was orderly, logical and concise, clothing his thoughts in the purest English, and often rising to the highest eloquence. He always put the right word in the right place, and while always effective was never unamiable. The writer has heard some speeches from him which deserve to rank with the great masterpieces of American and English orators."

"He was a brilliant lawyer; studious, able and learned, and his brethren of the bar listened always to his arguments with closest attention and greatest respect, often with delight. How mournful that one so gifted should be cut off so early in the race, in full possession of all his powers. But those who mourn his untimely death are not without comfort, for he enjoyed in his last moments the consolation of our most holy faith, and with a mind undimmed by the ravages of disease, and in all its native vigor, he realized the Christian assurance of a blessed immortality."

ing on?

Pertinent questions, these. And what do you citizens of Wilson propose to do about it?

DIED.

Mrs. S. H. Shivers, mother of Mrs. D. H. Barlow, of Rocky Mount, on Friday aged 77 years.

At the residence of her husband in this place yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, Mrs. John Hutchinson, in Greenville, S. C., Thursday morning, Thos. B. Hill, of Goldsboro. Heart failure was the cause assigned for his death.

At his residence in this place last Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, p. m., Mr. Hugh F. Murray, of a complication of diseases. He was buried on Friday afternoon, the funeral being held from his home, from which place his mortal remains were conducted to the Episcopal church where the beautiful service of that church was conducted by Rev. C. J. Wingate, of Raleigh. Afterwards the interment in Maplewood cemetery took place. The pall bearers were Messrs. T. D. Gay, T. J. Hadley, F. A. Woodard, W. H. Blount, Capt. A. J. Hines and Judge H. G. Connor.

Mr. Murray was born March 4th, 1847, and was consequently at the hour of his death 44 years, 5 months, and 16 days old. He has been a studious, laborious one. In 1873 he was happily wedded to Miss Minnie Loftin Hargrave, of Washington, who was a most congenial partner of his joys and sorrows, his successes and failures. She, with three sons, Kenneth, Hugh and Donald, the fruits of this union, survive him.

Mr. Josephus Daniels, a personal friend of Mr. Murray for many years, writing in his paper, the State Chronicle Friday, says:

"We learn by a special to the Chronicle that Hugh F. Murray, Esq., departed this life at his residence in Wilson yesterday at 4 o'clock p. m. Mr. Murray had been a great sufferer for many months, but bore suffering with a meekness and patience that endeared him to all who knew him.

"For a long time his friends entertained strong hopes for his ultimate recovery, though all realized that it would be very slow, if he recovered at all; and for several week it has been evident that his death was only a question of a few days.

"Mr. Murray was about 44 years of age, and had made much reputation as a lawyer, orator and writer.

"He was held in high esteem by the people among whom he lived, and they honored him in every way in their power, having supported him for the nomination of Senator and Judge of the district. He was prominent in political and professional life, and performed more literary work than perhaps any other lawyer of the State. He was a frequent contributor to the law journals of the country, and at one time contemplated publishing with his annotations the Supreme Court Reports of North Carolina. He made some progress in the preparation of this work, but for some cause unknown to us the intention was relinquished or its execution suspended. We presume the manuscript, so far as completed, is still in existence."

"To a mind richly furnished by nature he had added every grace and power which could be secured by assiduous cultivation. From his infancy a voracious reader, his memory was stored with all that was most useful and beautiful in our literature, and his information was systematized and refined by an unusually acute and discriminating intellect."
