WILSON, N. C., -- Nov. 5th, 1891.

THE VERY LATEST.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE ADVANCE.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5, 9 O'CLOCK A. M.

Correct returns sustain my dispatch published in the ADVANCE extra yesterday morning, giving New York a Democratic majority of over 40,000.

This morning's figures place the Democratic majority in Iowa at 10,000.

Ohio and Pennsylvania are Republican, the first by 22,000, and the latter by 56,000. In Ohio the Sherman and Foraker factions have already commenced to fight over the Senatorship.

Corrected returns from Massachusetts give the Democrats a plurality of nearly 7,000. Politicians here say Massachusetts can never again be counted in the Republican column after this tremendous Democratic increase.

Kansas is fully re-claimed by the Republicans. All the Farmers' Alliance talk in that State has turned out to be the merest bosh. The farmers stuck to their original Republican allegiance.

This was to be expected by every reasonable person. This election has struck a death-blow to the Third Party nonsense, and necessitates drawing tight the old party lines, with Tariff Reform as the issue.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

The Election in Different States—Much Interest Manifested—The Result a Forecast of What May be Expected in 1892.—A sister Lawyer—Salem, Nov. 3.—The Quay is Mad—The Elms, Cane Sugar Bounty.

(SPECIAL COR. THE ADVANCE.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1st, 1891. The Democrats have perfect arrangements by which the latest news of the Tuesday's election can be obtained here. A special wire is already in position and by Wednesday night at the latest, returns are expected to have been received from every quarter. Elections will be held in Colorado, Iowa, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Maryland will vote for governor and other State officers and legislature. It will also vote upon six proposed amendments to the State constitution. Colorado will elect a Supreme Judge; Iowa, governor, &c., and legislature and Massachusetts, governor and other State officers and legislature and vote on two constitutional amendments; Mississippi, legislature and three railroad commissioners; Nebraska, an associate Justice of the Supreme Court and two regents of the State university; New Jersey, a part of the two houses of the legislature; New York, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, attorney general, engineer and surveyor; legislature, ten Justices of the Supreme Court; Ohio, governor, other state officers and legislature and vote on a constitutional amendment providing for uniformity of taxation; Pennsylvania, treasurer, auditor general and vote whether a constitutional convention shall be held and elect delegates to the same; Virginia, half of each house of the legislature.

At the same time members of Congress to supply vacancies will be chosen as follows: In the second, tenth, twelfth, and twenty-second New York districts; in the fifth Michigan; in the second South Dakota. The vacancy in the second Tennessee will be filled on the 21st of November, that in the eighth Virginia on the 18th of the same month. Seldom have State elections been looked forward to with as great interest as those which will take place next Tuesday. The doctrine of the protection of American industry is on trial in a different manner from any of its previous trials before an American popular jury. It comes up with an amendment providing for a reciprocal trade with other countries, which may be tantamount to a partial free trade. It is safe to say that if the States of Ohio, Iowa, and Massachusetts are saved to the Republicans this year their salvation will be due largely to the reciprocity program. The history of politics for the last six or eight years, at least, shows that the people are not infatuated with the doctrine of extreme or high protection unrelieved. But it also shows that the principle of moderate protection, with an outlet for our products, is held by a majority with increasing belief in its efficacy as a means both of raising revenue and of private profit and general advantage. Of hardly secondary importance is the closely related question of the currency. There has been some effort of the two old parties to settle within their respective organizations the internal differences that exist east and west, north and south on the free coinage of silver. Practically these parties are alike in principle in New York and Massachusetts. In Iowa and Ohio the Democratic platform deliverances have been at variance with their party platform in the east, for while the latter have laid large stress on "honest" money the former have embraced the doctrine of free silver with great effusiveness. Nevertheless, it is to be noticed that Gov. Campbell, the Democratic leader in the buckeye State, has not waged his campaign on the issue laid down by the convention of his party. Therefore, if he be successful next Tuesday, the victory cannot be claimed with propriety by the free coinage men. But if he be elected by reason of a large country vote of the third or so-called people's party that political influence will have to be accorded a place in all political calculations. That organization figures appreciably nowhere else in the fall elections. The elections of Tuesday next are expected to indicate very much of what the presidential election next year will more definitely settle. Mr. Chas. M. Yates has resigned his position as photographer in the geological survey, to take effect November 30. He will leave next Tuesday to begin the practice of law at Winston, N. C. He is the second son of Ex-Congressman Jesse J. Yates, of Hertford county. This family will be valued acquisitions to the society of the progressive city in which he has chosen to locate.

Col. Thomas B. Keogh, commissioner of the World's Fair from North Carolina, accompanied by his wife and daughter, is at the Elbbitt.

There is great uncertainty here in the Post Office department as to the advisability of consolidating the Winston and Salem post offices. The department officials told me Friday the consolidation is favored because of its evident economy and convenience. The Salem people are opposed to this because it would eliminate the official name of Salem, from Winstan-Salem as the twin cities are now called. Salem has sent a strong protest against this here by Rev. John Clewitt, one of her most progressive and able citizens. It is manifestly unjust to drop the name of Salem. Her history of the past century entitles her the utmost consideration and her name should continue to be linked with that progressive younger sister. Mrs. Arthur Glennan, formerly Miss Susie Rayner, has returned to Washington for the winter with her two little boys, and is stopping at 918 McPherson Square.

Senator Quay said yesterday afternoon that suit would be brought against the Beaver Star, a new Democratic paper of Beaver, Pa., which published a fac simile of the Bardsley certificates. The Senator sent the following telegram to Controller F. S. Lacey:

"I beg to be informed, at your earliest convenience, by whom and by whose authority or permission a certificate of deposit for $8,877, dated November 28, 1886, indorsed by John Bardsley and by me, which is among the papers of the Keystone Bank, an institution in the custody of the United States, was delivered to the Democratic State Committee to be photographed, lithographed and published throughout the States by the Democratic press as is now being done?"

Controllor Lacey telegraphed last evening disclaiming any knowledge of the origin of the order for the delivery of the Quay-Bardsley check to the Democratic State Committee. Mr. Lacey is endeavoring to ascertain how the Democratic State Committee secured the famous check.

The first payment of sorghum sugar bounty, under the Tariff act was made Saturday in the form of a Treasury draft for $1,318.26, drawn in favor of J. W. Dougherty & Co., of New Orleans, and representing bounty on 65,963 pounds of cane sugar.

STARD OLD STANTONBURG

Is Getting Out of the Kinks and Getting a Move on Itself.

(SPECIAL COR. TO THE ADVANCE)

STANTONBURG, Nov. 3, 1891. DEAR ADVANCE:—In your last issue you made a call for a correspondent from this place.

I am not much of a newspaper writer, but thought I would give you a few items. Perhaps it will encourage some one to write up the news of our place and neighborhood. I trust you will be able to secure some one that is able to give you a good letter from this place weekly. Some one ought to do it so the other parts of the county could learn where we live, who we are, and what we are doing.

I have thought the Stantonburg section the garden spot of our good county. I think so perhaps because it is my home.

I am am very sorry to have to say that our crops of all kind will be right much behind last year's crop. Our largest farmer, a neat good and generous J. H. Applewhite, thinks we will be able to gather two-thirds of a crop. Cotton is very backward in opening. The good people are making arrangements to build a new Methodist church at this place.

It is reported that Dr. John J. Peacock, of Saratoga, will move here this winter. Stantonburg's gain is Saratoga's loss.

That popular widow, Mrs. Annie Bagley, I understand will also move here this winter.

We have a very quiet people, therefore my letter will be short. That whole-souled, clever Bill Applewhite, who was married the second time last winter, is a happy man. It is a girl.

Our tobacco crop through this neighborhood is almost a failure. I understand our wide-awake neighbor, Dr. J. T. Graves, has some very fine tobacco. We have some fine tobacco land, and after learning how to handle the weed we will get there you bet.

The firm of Applewhite & Lane are doing a good business, with that popular, polite Henry Lane at the head as manager.

Judging from the crowd that was around Mr. Jacob Mercer's store Saturday night he, too is doing a good business.

Our market man, Mr. B. E. Gardner, I hope is doing well.

Messrs. Owens & Barnes are doing well in their mill and ginning business.

Our popular Millinery store, kept by Mrs. O. L. Barnes and sister, has been closed for sometime on account of sickness. They were doing a thriving business. I hope to see it opened soon.

Mr. W. M. Ward has newly fitted up his mill.

We are glad to see Col. Stanton able to walk without a crutch again. No deaths or marriages to report. What is the matter, boys?

Yours for success,
TRUE.

ELM CITY ITEMS.

The News From Our Enterprising Neighboring Town.

(SPECIAL COR. THE ADVANCE)

NOV. 3RD, 1891. The Methodist ladies gave a festival here last Friday night for the benefit of the church. It was quite a success. Mrs. J. L. Baily and Mrs. J. B. Winstead, the managers, know exactly what to do to entertain the people, and our people know exactly how to appreciate such entertainments. The young ladies of the town were nearly all present, and added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. We noticed among others present from a distance Messrs Willie Ricks and Charlie Tyson, of Wilson, and Misses Lula and Alice Norris, of Town Creek.

We are reliably informed that somebody (guess who?) will move to Elm City to live soon. That is right. George is a good fellow. We all like him, and we are more than glad to see him succeed matrimonially as well as financially.

Mr. E. H. Vick, one of our level-headed merchants says: "The cotton and corn crops of this vicinity are at least one-fourth below the average. The tobacco crop is nearly an average in quantity but poor in quality. The peanut crop is good."

Messrs J. L. Baily and W. H. Langley went to the Raleigh Exposition last Thursday. They say it is a success.

Miss Missie Barnes has, in connection with the Elm City High School, a very interesting music class. Miss Missie is a teacher of considerable experience, and we learn her pupils are progressing finely.

Several weeks ago Messrs W. B. Barnes & Bro. bought and moved into the large brick store in which the Racket had been run. They have a large and growing business. Two clever gentlemen would be hard to find. Success to them.

J. T. Watson, Esq., and Missrs Cora Friar and Jennie Vaughn attended church at Mt. Zion in the country Sunday. Miss Jennie was enrolled at the Elm City High School Monday.

Misses Louisa and Mollie Braswell, of Town Creek and Bettie Mitchell, of Rocky Mount, have visited our town during the week. Come again, ladies, we are always glad to see you.

There was a double runaway in town Tuesday evening which resulted in the "smash up" of a cart and a buggy, and serious damage to one of the animals.

Capt. W. L. Grimmer is attending court at Wilson this week. The Capt. attends to a great deal of business for a man of his size. He is one of our best citizens, and we are glad to know that he is succeeding well, both in his commercial transactions and on his farm.

Elm City is in all probability on as firm a foundation financially as any town of its size in the State. Our people are slow to take risks, and there are so many chances to lose. They seem to know their capacity to do business, and seldom ever over-leap it. The business of the town is not built on "booms;" but on a firm and sure basis. Failures here are very rare. Each merchant is also a farmer. They know what it is to till the soil as well as buy and sell goods. Hence the conflict which seems to exist in some parts of the country between the merchant and the farmer is unknown here. They have long since learned that whatever is for the general welfare of the one is for the good of the other. May such harmony forever prevail among us.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other."

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. GORP, 41 Kennebec Street, Boston.
