WHEN WILL THE DEBATE END? The Question of Importance Now Is. When Will the Final Action Be Taken?-Congressional Matters for the Current Week.

WASHINGTON, April 23 .- Today ushers in the fourth week of the debate in the senate on the pending tariff bill, and with it comes an era of uncertainty that is causing the senators in charge of the measure much uneasiness. Although the present amicable agreement under which the bill is being considered in general debate from 1 o'clock until 5 in the afternoon, is to end with the speech of Mr. Mills, of Texas, tomorrow, the democrats know that general debate will not end at that time, and that, although on the day following the bill will be up for consideration by paragraphs, the field | third. of debate will be broadened and the opportunity for the consumption of time will be enhanced. It is the impossibility of foreseeing just where the discus- diet voted Wednesday to accept the civil sion will lead, that is causing the managers of the bill much worry.

The attitude of the republicans during the past week, has not been encouraging, for it has made conspicuous the fact that' the minority considers | April 9. any means justifiable to prevent final action on the tariff measure. Mr. Quay started in with a speech that was made up largely of census statistics devoted to the iron and allied industries of his state, and when Saturday night came, Mr. Quay had not finished telling the senate how unjust the pending bill would be to the industries of Pennsylvania, nor had he ceased to quote from his formidable, and, apparently inexhaustable supply of figures.

At the same time Mr. Quay was very accommodating and gracefully yielded to any senator who wanted to make a speech, and he even went so far as to permit any one to insert in the body of his speech such "remarks" as the interrupting member saw fit to make. Meanwhile, Mr. Quay yielded to Mr. Dolph, and that senator started in with a speech which, in its incomplete shape, it would fill many columns of the record, but nevertheless it is said to be only just begun. The week will open with a speech by

Mr. Washburn is a business man, and has made this matter a study, and his speech is looked upon as a very important contribution to the tariff literature of the day. Mr. Wasburn's prepared remarks are said to be of exceeding length, and will occupy all of today. He will be followed Tuesday by Mr. Palmer, and later in the afternoon by Mr. Mills, who will present the democratic side of the case, and in closing the general debate and reply to some of the statements that have been made by republicans during the past three weeks. Another assignment of the administrations Hawaiian policy will be heard on Wednesday when Mr. Higgins, of Delaware, takes the floor. The fact that on Wednesday, the tariff bill will be up for discussion by paragraphs will not interfere with Mr. Higgins speech. The Week in the House. Appropriation bills will be the general order of business in the house this week. When the house adjourned on Saturday, there were two of these measures yet unfinished on the calencommercial union between the two secdar, having been partly considerel for several days-the postoflice bill and the diplomatic and consular bill. While no arrangement has yet been made, for bringing in a rule to close debate upon either of the pending measures, Speaker Crisp, chairman of the committee on rules, says it will be resorted to if it shall be discovered that in the opinion of the committee, debate is being unduly protracted. Next on the auspices of the Agricultural Society of calendar after the two bills named, are the military, river and harbor, and naval appropriation bills, in the order named. It is the expectation that at least one of these, together with the diplomatic and consular and postoffice bills, will have received final consideration by the end of the week.
