GATHER AT MEMPHIS

Prospects Encouraging for an Enormous Delegation.

ADVANCE GUARD NOW ON THE SCENE.

One of the Largest Conventions Ever Held in This Country to Consider a Question of Political Economy-Desire to Meet the Other.

Мемриіз, Tenn., June 10.-There assembles in Memphis next Wednesday one of the largest conventions ever held to consider a single question of political economy in this country. The present indications point to a magnificent vindication of the promoters of the movement to settle southern and western silver people together in a great legislative body. The call was actuated by the holding of the big convention in this city on May 23rd, when the opponents of free coinage, living in the south, sent delegates to hear Secretary Carlisle speak and to give expression to their views on the money question in a series of well defined resolutions. The meeting of the opponents of the free coinage of silver was looked upon as the inauguration of a strong and vigorous campaign of education along the line of the delegates' views and the bimetallic league considered it imperative to take action that would counteract the influence of its opponents.

All southern and western states will be represented and delegates have been appointed in the larger cities. It locks as though 1,500 or 2,000 delegates will participate in the proceedings of the kathering. They are coming from every county of Mississippi, almost everywhere in Arkansas and Tennessee, and the representation from Louisiana, Georgia and Alabama will be very nearly as large. Dispatches have been received daily for the past week announcing the coming of silver delegations from every quarter and tonight the hotels will be gin to fill with enthusiastic supporters of free coinage.

Besides the delegates who will come to Memphis while the convention is in progress, indications now point to the presence of at least 10,000 visitors. The railroads have put on the reduced run special trains for the accommodation of those who will come. The five roads will run specials from all points within 150 miles of the city.

Arguments Heard in the South

Appears for Petitioners. RICHMOND, Va., June 8.-Argument in the South Carolina registration case

Attorney General Barber opened for the state of South Carolina. The trend of his opening remarks was that the federal courts had no jurisdiction in the premises. He said it was set forth by Judge Goff that the petitioner was a colored man, and therefore the refusal

The attorney general stated that instead of providing for a discrimination against any voter, the law set forth that any male citizen, regardless of race, color or condition, who had resided in the state for one year, was entitled to vote. It was not the law, he said, that caused Judge Goff to hold that voters were being denied their privileges, but it was the abuse of the law by people ostensibly working under it. He contended that the law should not be held responsible for dere-

Mr. Douglas made the opening speech and the effort of that wrong was to disfranchise a voter, and thereby imperil the federal elections, he contended that a federal court in question had jurisdiction. The law, he said, was in constitution of the United States. Mr. Douglas, continuing, directly attacked the law and argued that it was enacted simply for the purpose of disfranchising the negro vote.

Mr. Douglas was followed by Mr. O'Bear, his associate, whose argument was largely of a legal nature. He held that the court had jurisdiction to hear and act in the case, and then occupied some time in the citation of various authorities and cases bearing upon the matter at issue.

Gen. Edward McCreary made the closing speech for the state. He began his argument by making a careful explanation of the registration laws, and showing that the circumstances which existed when they were enacted justified their passage. He compared them to various other registration laws and argued that they were not more unjust or discrimating than the laws of other states, which at various times had been declared constitutional, and thus, though the laws had been in existence since 1876, their constitutionality had never been questioned till 1895. He said if they had been as unjust as they are charged to be, they would not have been allowed to have remained so long unquestioned. He claimed that the whole case was a political one, and record went, whether Mills was white fixing the time and place for not or colored.
