ANNIE M GRATH'S DUPLICITY.

While Accepting Favors from Langdon She Was Engaged to Another.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—There is still a great deal of mystery surrounding the death of Annie McGrath, who was found dead in a house on Girard avenue last Monday evening, having been dead twenty-four hours.

The theory has now been advanced that Miss McGrath went to the Girard avenue house the last time with the intention that that should be her final assignation with Langdon.

On the other hand, some of those who have studied the case carefully are of the opinion that as the result of a jealous quarrel Miss McGrath attempted to poison Langdon while he slept and afterward administered to herself the chloroform or whatever drug was used.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—The funeral of Annie McGrath took place yesterday from the home of her parents on Gratz street. Only relatives and a few intimate friends were admitted to the house, though there was a large crowd outside.
