She was of humble parentage, and her musical gifs were first noticed by an actress. By the influence of this actress she was admitted, at the age of nine, into the conservatory of Stockholm. She sang before the court at Stock- holm with great success and at the age of sixteen, appeared in the role of Agatha, in Die Freichutz. Four years later she went to Paris to recteve lessons from Garcia. ' Her voice was found wanting in volume, and when she appeared at the Grand Opera, Paris, her failure was so mortifying that she is said to have resolved never again to sing in France. She returned to Stockholm and was heard with enthusiasm in Robert le Diab'e, and at the instance of My-	The first was Charlotte Green (col- ored) charged with disorderly con- duct. He also told her the best thing for her to do would be to pack her belongings and make for some other seaport. The second case on docket was against James Dunston (colored) who had two indictments brought against him, one for disorderly conduct and the other for drunkenness. The first trouble was with a negro in regard to some money Jim owed him. No blows were passed. In the second case some stranger was coming along and Jim cursed him when they went together. Ivins has always held the reputation of being a good negro, but the temptation of enriching himself without manual la bor was too strong for him.

Meeting of Citizens.

A meeting of the citizens of Wilson was held last Monday night in the Mayors Office to take some steps toward having Prot. Kinsey, of La Grange, move his school here. Prof Kinsey was present at the meeting. Nothing definite can be furnished yet but the chances are that such inducements will be offered that he will consent to come to Wilson. He spent such an institution. His school at a 'boarding school. Wilson being a central point should add much to its growth and we trust that such arrangements may be made as to have in a few years a school that for size and advantage will be second to none in the State.

Sir Edgar Vincent thinks that the revenue of Turkey might be developed by a more stringent administration of the tobacco monopoly, and points out that, while practically the population of Turkey, or 20,000,000 Turks smoke incessantly, the income from tobacco is only £,T1,100,000, or the same as that obtained in Egypt, with less than one third of the population. The tobacco revenue in the latter country has increased tenfold in eight years, thanks to the sound administration .- Ex.

Murderer Deustrow's Cigarettes.

Jailer Wagner received an unusual communication Friday, and as a result has made a rather curious calculation. The letter was from E. Switzer, a merchant of Chillicothe, Mo., who states that he had a wager as to the number of cigarettes Duestrow had smoked while in jail here. On receipt of the letter Jailer Wagner began to figure, and finally arrived at the result that Duestrow had smoked an average of four packages
