

FROM URIAN.

DEAR NEWS: If you were to pass the pretty little town of Ringwood you would not wonder that Dr. M. writes such interesting letters from that point. One whose father is less cultivated may pass through the place at the rate of six miles per hour and gather up enough items to interest your readers and bring a pleasant smile to the "poor over worked editors." Then the country beyond brings a thrill of joy and a song of delight as the old horse steadily on, and his driver notes the rapid change which nature is making from cold chilly winter to delightful spring. Do not be alarmed; I have no spring poetry to offer. I wonder if the larger fish are playing with the smaller in the creek which takes its name from the finey title! Perhaps. Well let us hurry up and see something else. Ah there are signs of human life. The fields are being prepared for King Cotton, dear me what a reign of ruin he is having! How we wish our country had King Corn, and Wheat, and Oats and Butter and Sugar. But it cannot be helped, so "they say." There is Mr. W. T. He looks well, quiet, fishy, good man, every thing in excellent order, apple orchard nicely trimmed, getting married has not damaged the appearance of farm, store or agreeable proprietor. Did you Messrs. Editors ever attend a Nook court? It was my good fortune to attend the last one held, and I never saw a more quiet, orderly concourse of citizens. Every person seemed to be well and his neighbor not dead. No quarrels, no fighting, I declare it was a treat to stand off and look at the cordial greetings. Then to know that their country is clear of debt, most of the treasury, jurors paid cash for their services, bridges all in repair, roads passable, with a very strong probability of building a railroad soon. Who would not feel good?

Meister, Editors when either of you feel like going turkey hunting just leave your brooch leader in its case, run over into Nash, and soon some of the clever matrons who keep ever on hand ready for company, a lot of the larger kind, will save some of them served up in such style, as to make you remember with pleasure the mothers, and their lovely daughters, for months to come. Try it, will you!

I wish you could have seen the senior editor of the Golden-Mail while he was at Nashville. From his smiles and bows, one would have judged, he often said meditatively, "It is good for us to be here."

Hurrah for the new railroad, the new but empty jail, and the prohibition law.

THE INFERIOR COURT AGAIN!

WHAT THE LEGISLATURE DID ABOUT IT. An act declaratory of the meaning of an act entitled "An Act in relation to the Probate of Wills and Conveyances, and the Privy Examination of Married Women," ratified the third day of March 1877, chapter 161, Laws of 1876-77.

WHEREAS doubts have been made whether by said act Inferior Courts and the Clerks of Inferior Courts are authorized and empowered to take such probates and privy examinations, therefore, The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Sec. 1. That it is the true intent and meaning of said act that the clerks of Inferior Courts of the State and the Clerks thereof are authorized and empowered thereby, to take the probate of wills and conveyances and the privy examination of married women and all other contracts and writings required by law to be registered in all cases, and with the like effect where the power to take such probates and privy examinations is conferred by said act upon the Courts and Superior Court Clerks and the other officers therein named.

Sec. 2. And when as Clerks of Inferior Courts in any cases have been called to take the probate of wills and the privy examination of married women under the supposed power to do so, under and by virtue of said act, in such probate of wills and privy examinations of females covert, otherwise regularly taken, are hereby ratified and confirmed to the same extent as if they had been properly taken in accordance with law.

Sec. 3. This act shall be in force from and after its ratification.

Read three times in the General Assembly and ratified the 7th day of February, A. D. 1879.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA. OFFICE OF SECRETARY OF STATE. RALPH, March 27th 1879. I certify the above to be a true copy of the original act on file in this office.

W. L. SANDERS, Secretary of State.

After reading the above act, I hope all doubts as to my authority to probate instruments for registration will be removed. Soliciting a share of patronage in that line of business, I am Most Respectfully, Geo. T. SIMMONS, Clerk Inferior Court.

A Double Postal Card Author.

A clause in the postoffice appropriation bill provides for a double postal card, for a letter sheet envelope, which is to be stamped as envelope, and for a double letter envelope. The double postal card is a very neat and apparently useful convenience. It is in size similar to the present one cent card. It bears at either upper corner a one cent stamp, and thus draws through the centre, stamping and thus making a double postal card. The writer of the card sees the recipient's name, and the receiver sees the sender's name, on the back of this envelope is a double gummed flap separated by a perforated line. The lower one is used for sealing by the sender, and the receiver runs his knife along the perforated line and has a new gummed flap ready for use.

The letter-sheet envelope is designed to do away with over envelopes, the patentee claiming great merit for it for the reason that it costs less than a date at which a writing has been made it cannot be ascertained because the writing has been sealed. Here the letter and envelope are one. The new law does not direct the Postmaster-General to issue these conveniences. It only allows him to use his own discretion in the matter. Washington Correspondent Chicago Times.

"Doctor, doctor," panted a messenger, "come down the street, quick, there's a man dropped in a fit." "In an apoplexy?" questioned the doctor. "No, sir; he's in an ulcer," he answered the messenger.

The Steamer L. G. Cannon which piles between Norfolk and Landings on Roxo river, while near Mossy Oak on the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal last Thursday evening struck a snag forward of the engine near the water line, and began sinking immediately. She was at once run ashore and the cargo saved. Another steamer will take its place. Divers are at work raising it—Landonian.

Explosion—On last Friday night a tramp who went about grinding scissors, slept in the old Railroad warehouse at Halifax. He put a candle in a keg of powder which remained until it burnt low enough to set fire to the powder, when it exploded, blowing a hole through the top of the warehouse and burning the scissors grinder severely. He could give no account of the accident except that it related above.

PHOTOGRAPH—On Friday last Prof. Wheeler exhibited to a good audience, Edison's Phonograph, giving an interesting lecture concerning the uses to which it may be put, its construction, and its possibilities. Several in the audience tested its powers by speaking, laughing and singing through it. A duet was sung by two young men and we must say with all due respect, that the instrument is a new one, for how it could repeat that song was a wonder. The instrument improved vastly on the young men.

A HAWK FIGHT—Last week about two miles from Weldon a hawk measuring four feet from the tips of his wings attempted to carry off a grown duck from the yard of a lady. A young boy loaded his gun to shoot the hawk but could not find a cap. He tried to substitute a mule but did not succeed. He then attacked the hawk with a stick and they had a regular battle, the hawk fighting hard, and seizing the boy by the leg held him for sometime. The boy's mother called to him not to let the hawk get away. The boy answered, he wouldn't let me get away with it. He at last succeeded in killing the hawk after a hard struggle.

OLD FAMILY—Gen. Felix B. Zollinger who was killed in Kentucky during the war was born in Halifax county—W. L. Star.

Gen. Zollinger was not only born in Weldon until he was five years old, when his parents moved to Murray county in Tennessee. On the death of Dr. Zollinger of Maryland, after the war Col. J. B. Zollinger, a native and still a resident of Halifax county became the head of the family and is now by right of descent entitled to the old baronial castle and lands in Switzerland. Baron Zollinger an ancestor of Col. Z. was banished from his country for bearing arms in defence of his rights, and came to this country. He has an only descendant here who do him honor.

MARY'S LITTLE CORN—Mary had a little corn Upon her little foot, And every where that Mary went That corn was sure to go.

And to the cooling ocean's shore It followed her one day; But the little school-boy was so sore She couldn't play no more.

What makes the corn hurt Mary so? The other players cried. "Because she wears her boots so tight," A looker on replied.

"And you a little lump upon Your toe you got to suit, By putting on a laced-up boot, A number two-sized boot."

And so the doctor dug it out, Which made poor Mary sob, And now no more she knows about, Except what's on the job.

But, alas, poor Mary yelled, Just like a school-boy follow. Amazed herself, she views the maize, The farmers call the yellow.

But Mary's corn it hurt so bad, She'd whimper, cry and howl, And so she took and cut it off, Corn, fadder, stalk and all.

ROANOKE NEWS.

OUR ENFIELD LETTER.

Child Poisoned—Meeting—Dancing School—Bishop Atkinson. ENFIELD, N. C., March 26th, 1879.

A little daughter of G. W. and Lou R. Branch, twelve months old, died very suddenly on Monday last. Mrs. Branch discovered as soon as the child commenced to suffer, that its mouth was very bitter and asked the nurse what she had given the child, the nurse immediately put her finger in her mouth, and then ran out of the room and washed her hands. A doctor was called in, and said the child had been poisoned with strychnine, as soon as death relieved the suffering child, the nurse was taken into custody. Yesterday a jury was summoned, and a coroner's inquest held to inquire into the cause of the child's death. A verdict was rendered that "the child came to its death from the effects of strychnine, given by the nurse, she has been sent on for trial. Probably her hearing may come up before the present term of the Superior Court; if not she will be confined in jail six months before she can be tried.

A few nights since a negro entered the store of P. Levy, and selected about $200 worth of goods, Mr. Levy wrapped the goods up, the negro then said he would like to have a handkerchief. Mr. Levy stepped behind the counter to get the article desired, and at the same time, the thief snatched the bundle, and succeeded in making good his escape leaving the old man minus goods and money.

Edison Atkinson, will preach in Parker's Hall this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Baptist church at this place is about completed, and will be dedicated next Sabbath. Rev. Mr. Monday, will preach the dedication sermon.

The dancing school, under the management of Messrs. McGuffin and McElzard, at Parker's Hall, is a flourishing school, and becoming quite a popular rendezvous for the young people of our town. If a young man wishes to see his sweetheart any afternoon he has only to go to the Hall and see an array of grace and beauty will meet his rapacious eyes, seldom seen in a small town. D. E. S.

The Late Judge Battle. UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA. March 17th, 1879.

Whereas, Our Creator has been pleased, in his inscrutable Providence, to remove from this earth one of Carolina's noblest and most cherished sons—H. W. Battle, who having enjoyed the highest judicial position in his State, has left a brilliant record to posterity. Who has bequeathed to his sorrowing countrymen, his Revised, a precious memorial of a clear and vigorous intellect. Whose connection with the State University, as Professor of Law, during the winter of his age, has ever redounded to her honor; whose talents have illuminated her councils, and the fruit of whose arduous labors in the fields of Equity Jurisprudence will continue to nourish and sustain the ambitious youth of his native commonwealth.

Resolved, That while we, the students of the University, are reposed to the decree of a Deity, whose will is severe, and from which there is no appeal, we do feel deeply the loss of a kind and honored preceptor.

Resolved, That we are deprived of a member, whose judgment, unimpaired by the long course of years, has directed us to noble aims, to honor's fair empire, and to that course of preparation and labor, which finds its chief reward in the love and affection of one's countrymen.

Resolved, That, while we lament his loss as a friend and instructor, we are cheered in our sorrow by the thought that he still lives—not in the flesh—but in the abode of the spirits of just men made perfect.

With tearful eyes, with deep sorrow, with kindly sympathy, we kneel within his bereaved family at his altar, thinking that so just and pure an example has been left us.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be conveyed to the family of the deceased, the Raleigh papers, the Wilmington papers and to the Chapel Hill Ledger with the request that they be published.

CONTESTED ELECTION. O'Hara vs. Powell et al. SUPREME COURT DECISION.

SMITH C. J.—O'Hara vs. Powell: from Edg. combe.

Where the County Canvassers of Edgecombe rejected certain precinct returns of the votes cast in a Congressional election, and made and sent an abstract of others to the Secretary of State which, with other returns from other counties of the Second District, were afterward passed upon by the State Board of Canvassers and a commission was issued to the person who appeared from the returns as elected; Held, that a writ of mandamus will not be ordered to issue compelling such Board of County Canvassers to re-ascertain, revise and recount the returns including those rejected. The matter has passed beyond the point at which a judicial order could change or modify the result. The proper remedy is to file the title in an office is the writ of quo warrantu and for that remedy the writ of mandamus is a very inefficient substitute. A mandamus will not issue when it will be vain or fruitless or cannot have beneficial effect, or when the court sees that it will ultimately fail, or if it is sought merely to obtain the opinion of the court on a point of law.

3000 Bales of Cotton Wanted.—Highest cash price paid. J. T. GOOCH, Weldon, N. C.

And now some of our writer-midder in Moodsville wants to make the word "Quoted" do duty for "inquiry" and "question." With all our heart, provided you call it "Selected" for a note of explanation, and "Quoted" for a note due at the back next Monday, with no money to meet it.—State.
