PATAPSCO
ESTABLISHED 1774
Premier Flour of America.
PATAPSCO FLOURING MILLS.
ESTABLISHED 1774
The value of FLOUR depends upon the ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS OF NUTRITION CONTAINED IN THE BREAD IT MAKES. Maryland and Virginia flour, from which our PATENT ROLLER FLOURS are chiefly manufactured, has been considered to be SUPERIOR to any other, because it has a BETTER COMBINATION OF GLUTEN AND PHOSPHATES. This fact is recognized not only in this country, but in the United Kingdom as well, where the "PATAPSCO PERLATIVE" COMMANDS DECIDEDLY MORE MONEY than any other brand flour. Ask your grocer for it. Also for PatapSCO Super-fine, Cape Henry Family, Bedford Family, PatapSCO Family, North Point Family, Orange Grove Extra, PatapSCO Extra, Chesapeake Family, Baldwin Family, C. A. GAMBRILL MANUFACTURING COMPANY,

Tutt's Pills
ANTI-BILIOUS MEDICINE.
In malarial districts their virtues are widely recognized, as they possess peculiar properties in freeing the system from that poison. Elegantly sugar coated. Dose small. Price, 25c.
Sold Everywhere.
Office, 44 Murray St., New York.
MONKEY
We are not prepared to say that we will send you a monkey, but we will send you a bottle of our great and valuable medicine, which will cure you of all the troubles that afflict the human system. It is a most valuable medicine, and one that every man, woman and child should have in their household. It is a most valuable medicine, and one that every man, woman and child should have in their household. It is a most valuable medicine, and one that every man, woman and child should have in their household.

DIDN'T KNOW A WOMAN.
He tried to steal a kiss from pointing lips.
As sweet and fair
As roses from which the birds sing
His voice was rare.
The maiden blushed and coyly turned her head
From him away,
And though she would not struggle, frowned her brows
So coldly that he said:
"You shall not know me."
She showed a disposition to resist
The chance he had
He looked and saw a straightaway did doubt,
And she was said.
He said:
"The maiden said to me my name,
And I her name I knew,
And then, not meaning any harm,
I kissed her on the cheek."
She then answered him at once,
"I have never met you,
And I do not know your name,
And I do not know your name."
"You ought to be ashamed!"
"You ought to be ashamed!"

WHAT SOME MEN EAT.
DELICACIES FOUND IN NEW YORK RESTAURANTS.
THE MAGIC SOUP SCHEM—HOW YOU EAT YOUR NEIGHBOR'S LEAVINGS—SPOOKS AND REHABILIATED VICTIMS.
"As to the cleanliness of food, there is little difference in that respect between a ten-cent hash house, a Broadway hotel and cafe, or an average caterer's establishment. The objective point with saloon men is to make their food pay for all it is worth. And you ask how this is done. Let me tell you. The man who eats at home and has a cleanly woman for a wife, is fortunate, very fortunate. You buy your provisions and meats in the raw, and you know how they are cooked and what you are eating. But saloon life is different. You go to there and order pork and beans, you leave some of the beans on your plate, the plate goes into kitchen and the beans left by you are dumped again into the bean pot from which other orders are subsequently served. All beans left over are served the same way. Now caterers, hotels and saloons have on the back of their stoves or ranged large iron pots that are known as stock pots. If you have a piece of beef, mutton, pork, lamb or other kind of meat upon your plate, when the plate reaches the kitchen the meat is thrown into this stock pot. Chicken heads and feet unwashed are thrown into this pot, and meat which has become slightly tainted. An order is given, "Tomato soup, one," in the stock pot goes the iron ladle out comes this conglomerated liquid, poured into a soup plate. It is then thrown some raw tomatoes from a can, and there you are. Chicken soup, is ordered, the order comes from the stock pot, the soup clarified, a little barley thrown in and the order is filled. "Boillion, one," Here is the stocker, but it is surmounted. Out of the same stock pot comes the soup, a little onion is added, the soup clarified and through the saloon rings from the kitchen "Boillion, ready," "Boil stew," "Lamb stew," mutton broth, consommé, vegetable soup, Pate d'Inde, macaroni soups all come from the stock pot.
"Whatever vegetables you may leave on the side dishes, like beans, succotash, mashed potatoes, tomatoes, turnips, squash, onions, etc., are in very many saloons, and even first class hotels thrown back again into their respective kettles upon reaching the kitchen. By this means original very little is lost. Pieces of beef left by customers are chopped up for hash or cut up for a stock pot. In saloons a guest is seldom given water in a clean glass, the cooks seldom keep their hands literally clean, and the cheaper priced the saloon the larger the aggregate of dirt. More people in this city than in any other city east of Chicago, and still without this class of saloons away people would almost starve."

THE LAST STAKE.
BY CHESHIRE DAVISON.
In 1855 I was a passenger on the steamer Star Spangled Banner, from New Orleans to Louisville. She was crowded with people, and an hour after leaving New Orleans, found perhaps twenty card tables drawn out, and three or four score of the passengers deeply absorbed in "cold sledge" euchre, and poker.
All that night and the next day it went on. As fortune however, soon singled out and made victims of the poorer, and less skilled players, so the number gradually decreased until the fourth day out, when only one table was running.
Old Bob Brasher, a negro trader, young Ben Sandford, a horse trader, and two players from La Fourche, still kept on.
Although they had played almost incessantly for days and nights, yet luck had favored neither party to any great extent. The "bluffing" had been principally between Brasher and Sandford, but here and there they had let themselves within the "gentleman's limit"—five hundred dollars.
After leaving Memphis the game was removed, and the bystanders observed "that big play was on the table," as young Sandford was considerably under the influence of liquor, and when in that condition he was known to be a heavy player.
Late at night the two traders came together, both had "letting hands," and Louisiana and Kentucky bank-notes soon covered almost the whole table.
The margin of five hundred dollars had been forgotten, and one, two, three, five hundred betted rapidly passed between them.
At last Brasher leaned back from the table, unbuttoned his vest, and took from around his body a belt filled gold pieces. Laying it down upon the bank-notes, he exclaimed:
"These thousand better!"
Sandford became speechless, his face turned deadly pale, he called for a glass of liquor, which he drank, never once taking his eyes from the belt of gold.
He had exhausted his means in the ferocious bet, all his money lay upon the table. At last a thought struck him.
"Ben, here, sir!" he exclaimed.
"Yes, massa?"
And Sandford's body servant, a fine athletic darkey, came to his master's side.
"Get up on the table, sir!"
Not daring to disobey—as he well knew in that moment of frenzy his young master would send a bullet through his brain if he refused—he tremblingly stepped on the table, crushing the bank-notes and the gold beneath his feet.
"For the good Lord's sake, Massa Ben, don't bet this nigger off! What will the old massa say when you go home? Oh, Massa Ben, please don't!" groaned the boy but in vain.
"Call you, sir!" shrieked Sandford, at the same time laying down four quans and an ace.
"Your hand is no good!" said Brasher, with a sneer. "I hold four kings and an ace!"
As Brasher reached for his belt of gold young Sandford fell to the floor, the blood gushing from his mouth, nose, and ears.
With one spring the slave leaped from the table, dashed through the thin folding doors of the "Social Hall," out on the boiler deck, and, with a half uttered prayer for the "old massa," he threw himself headlong into the dark waters of the Mississippi, and was soon no more.
Death prevented Brasher claiming his spoils.
Ben Sandford for weeks lingered on a sick bed, but at last recovered, and forever renounced the gaming table. He "made good," however, the money-worth of the negro to his owner.

SCANDINAVIAN PROVERBS
God will have a man not be doing away upon the high seas.
Do not sit at all before that last talk on full sailing on board.
As is the life's working in the heart, so is the world mirrored in it.
The waves of the sea sail in many round through the days of the ship's rock.
The hand of a friend strikes deeper wounds than the hand of an enemy.
Bater a good dinner when one is living than to be made a grand show of when one is dead.
It is greatly to be feared that the child who, in anger, tears the mother's apron, will, when older, break her heart.
In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption and Wasting in children, Scott's Emulsion of Pure Cod Liver oil with Hypophosphites is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system, and builds up the body. Please read "I tried Scott's Emulsion on a young man when physicians at times had given up. Since he began using the Emulsion, his Cough has ceased, gained flesh and strength, and from all appearances his life has been prolonged many years. I have been in Hospital Service for the past twenty years, and never have used any preparation with greater satisfaction."—JOHN SULLIVAN, Hospital Steward, Reform School, Morgantown, Pa. June 16-1mo.

TWINKLES
FROM THE PAPER TO LAUGH OVER AT LEISURE MOMENTS.
The last charge at Gettysburg was made by the hotel keepers.
But it strange that a rooster should crow, and a crow should hawk, and a hawk should fly, and a fly should buzz?
A man will do almost anything to increase the happiness of the woman he loves except to leave her when she wants to get rid of him.
The best way to get along in hot weather is to believe every fish story that is told. If one is improbable it can be disputed later in the season.
It is said that small bills are scarce. They certainly are with us. We haven't had a bill presented for months but what was bigger than we wanted to pay.
It is reported that Henry Berge is carrying his sympathies for animals so far that he is entertaining a bold spot on his head as a pasture for flies.
A little girl in the primary school was asked to tell the difference between the words "foot and feet." She said: "One foot is a foot, and a whole lot of foots is a feet."
Truth, crushed to earth, will rise again.
It springs quickly up.
And those who have tried the experiment say:
It's the same with a barrel hoop.
Father of Fair One—We close up here at 10 o'clock.
Bless headed Ben—That's a good idea. It keeps fellows out who don't know enough to get inside.
Compassion—I tell you what it is, Me-Dub, those hazards are simply super. You shouldn't put anything but birds. Artist (disgusted)—Those are not hazards. They are angels.
"No, Bobby," said his mother, "one piece of pie is quite enough for you." "It's funny," responded Bobby with an injured air. "You say you are anxious that I should learn to eat properly, and yet you don't give me a chance to practice!"
An Albany girl had her photograph taken in fourteen different attitudes. In order to get them specially the photographer turned a mouse loose in the room and then employed the instantaneous process. The pictures will make great cigar labels.
There was a feud between the four-year-old young lady and her aunt, which came at last to a deadly hostility. But the little lady knelt down and said her prayers: "Bless papa and bless mama, and—there came an ominous pause—"bless auntie, but if you can't bless her it doesn't matter."
There is a negro preacher at Crawford, Ga., without legs. But Fogg says there is nothing very wonderful about that. He knows of a clergyman not a hundred miles from Boston who is without brains. And yet, Fogg says, the man gets along without any trouble whatever.
Mr. Trevelyan—I trust I shall see you at Long Branch or Cape May this summer. Miss Charmayne?
Miss Charmayne—I am afraid I will have to disappoint you, Mr. Trevelyan.
"Indeed? I regret to hear it."
"Not more than I do myself. But I have grown so thin I wouldn't dare think of appearing in a bathing suit!"
CONCLUDED IT WAS NECESSARY.
A number of years ago, during the grasshopper raids in Dakota and other parts of the West, Elder Blodgett held a series of revival meetings in a small place in the southeastern part of the Territory, where the settlement then was chiefly confined. He had preached a powerful sermon and had induced about two-thirds of the congregation to come forward and indicate their desire to unite with the church. Fearing that such might not fully understand the new duties the step would involve, began to explain what they must do in the future.
"You must stop lying 'n' cheating 'n' Sabbath-breaking," he said, "and if any of you've been stealing, you've got to stop that, too. An' there must be no more coveting 'n' neighborhood quarrellin', and a swearin'."
"Elder," said a grizzled old fellow who was kneeling in front of the pulpit as he raised his head, "ye say we mustn't swear any more?"
"That's it—ye must not swear any at all."
"Can't we cuss the 'oppers?"
"No, sir."
"Well, that lets me out, then!" and he rose and started back.
"Me too!" put in a dozen others as they began to get up.
"Hold on," shouted the elder as the fruits of his labor began to vanish, "come back an' I reckon ye can swear 'bout the 'oppers a little! Cuss 'em quietly when there ain't nobody round an' then pray that they won't come next summer. This is the third year they've been here, an' I 'low myself it's about time we backed our prayers with a little something kinder strong!"—Dakota Bell.

SOME CURIOUS THINGS.
THE COUNTRY IS FULL OF THEM AND THERE ARE FEW.
A Kansas man measures seven feet three and a half inches in height.
An unknown man attempted to steal a lightning rod from a house in Gainesville, Tex.
Milledgeville, Ga., has a negro turning white. She has been the possessor of the tallest young man in Georgia.
The most ordinary sombros in the city of Mexico cost about $15, while the most expensive ones range in price from $50 to $100. It costs money to be a duke in Mexico.
A mirage has been distinctly seen by several citizens at Perth, Minn. It lasted ten minutes. The picture was Devil's lake, seven miles west. Buildings and farms were recognized.
A dozen of Seymour, Ind., has been expelled from the church for declaring his belief that the world is 1,000,000 years old and that it is likely to stand another 1,000,000 before the judgment day comes.
Twenty-eight unmarried women reside in Garfield county, Colo. also 1,000 unmarried men. All the men can't get a wife from among the twenty-eight, and it probably puzzles the women to make a choice from among the 1,000.
Albion, in Erie county, Pa., has a curiosity in the shape of a clock which stands seven feet high, operated by chains and great weights, the dial bearing old Roman figures, with the entire works made of boxwood and bearings of pure ivory. It is a perfect time-keeper and upward of 100 years old.
Louisa county, Va., is excited over the alleged fact that after a white handkerchief, which had been folded four thick and laid over the face of a dead woman, had been removed, there were four distinct pictures of the woman, about the size of a 25 cent piece, plainly printed on the cloth. Spirits of empor had been applied to the face before the handkerchief was laid on it.
It is said that in Parthen, Me., there is a man with a false nose, a glass eye, but three fingers and one thumb, one ear, false hair, and a cork leg. For all this he is the liveliest man in Portland. He walks ten miles every day, rain or shine. He has had three wives, and survives them all, and has refused five chances to get married again, so he says, since he buried his last wife about a year ago.

DEGENERACY OF WIVES.
A bright, intelligent girl marries the man of her heart, and discovers that he has an appetite.
Her husband who is almost, if not quite, exempt from human failings, has already manifested a profound admiration for potatoes, and has openly expressed his detestation to overdone mutton.
She accordingly builds up within her a fortress of resolution, in which to guard that sacred treasure of a husband's affection.
She gives up her music, painting and embroidery, and studies the chemistry of the kitchen. At the end of ten years of matrimony she is a tiresome sort of person, whose whole interest is absorbed in attending to the cares of housekeeping, and in getting stylish dresses for her children.
Her conversation rises seldom above the level of infant gossip and servants, and the only ideas developed by time and experience are expressed in her conviction that men are the most unreasonable and selfish of creatures, and women the most abused and self-sacrificing.
There is a great evil somewhere, but what is it? The husband acknowledges to himself that he is disappointed in the wife he has chosen, and yet he finds difficulty in pointing out his mistake, and scarcely dares come to his aid, for he is she a most faithful wife, devoted mother and a most frugal manager?
Ah, there it is, she has allowed herself to degenerate into a mere housekeeper, neglecting all her finer qualities of mind.
For we need not forsake the upper strata of sentimental thought and idealism—the atmosphere of the soul—because we know that there is a lower one of routine and small vexations, in which our feet are told to tread.
To breathe in the one is to receive strength and refreshment for exertion in the other.
It is a good plan to pick up needles and pins from the floor, but picking up pins ought not to be made the chief object of existence; for if we move along with our heads constantly downward, we must assuredly feel something better than pins and needles to the end of our days.
Bargains offered in clothing. Must be sold regardless of cost to make room for fall stock. P. N. Stainback & Co.
Half wool lace bunting, all colors, at St. M. F. Hart.
A New York paper declares that "the low neck dress must go." Where? Even now it is sometimes mistaken for a garter in the East.

VARIOUS PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS
WHAT NEWSPAPERS SAY OF PEOPLE WHOM THE WORLD KNOWS.
Joachim Miller has sold his log cabin in Washington for $5,100, and its new owner has rented it to Mr. Aden, assistant secretary of state.
Mrs. Cleveland's shoes worn in the Adirondacks were a pair of No. 5s, for which she paid $5. At least such is the exceedingly important statement made by a Washington shoe dealer.
Sitting Bull is in mourning for the death of his oldest daughter. He is at Standing Rock agency, D. T., and endeavoring to show his great grief by slaughtering all his old enemies. A score of them were obliged to flee the camp for safety.
Mr. Alma Tadema has designed a piano of ebony and oak for a citizen of New York, with decorative details of cedar, boxwood and ivory, with a long low picture of Mr. Poynter, R. A., over the keyboard. The cost is said to be $35,000.
Col. Fred Grant, the oldest son of the late general, is said to be developing into a man very much like his father, and in proof of this it is told that he is never seen without a cigar in his mouth. He is a dull looking young man. His eyes have no brightness, his features no characteristics, his complexion no color, and he seems to be simply fat and dull.
It is said that it was due directly to Mrs. Grant that the penitents of Charles L. Webster & Co's bookkeeper were discovered. Mrs. Grant has an eye, two eyes, to "the main chance," and her contract with the publishers stipulated that at any time she could send an expert to examine the books. This she did from time to time, and it was her expert who discovered the discrepancy during one of his periodic examinations.
It is reported that ex-Senator Jones of Florida, has finally left Detroit. He is said to be on his way to Europe, whither Miss Palm has gone before him. There is some surprise expressed in Detroit at his sudden departure, as many of his investments in that city are beginning to make large returns.
It has been said that Mrs. Langtry was the first woman to take out papers of American citizenship. This is a mistake. Mrs. Brackenridge, of Pennsylvania, is a native of Germany. Some years ago she wished to become one of the incorporators of a ferry company. It was decided by legal authority that it was necessary for her to take out papers of citizenship, which she did on December 16, 1882. She heads the list.
We have a few pairs of Evans' hand made half-quarter shoes on hand which we offer at half cost to close out. P. N. Stainback & Co.
In Brief, and to the Point.
Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.
The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.
Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.
But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.
Remember—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. 75 cents.

WHAT AILS THE NATION?
The Average Length of Life Decreasing—Not Pestilence—Not Famine—All our own Fault.
MODERN COOKING AND MODERN LIVING have brought it on. It comes upon us unawares. The patients have pains about the chest and sides, and sometimes in the back. They feel dull and sleepy; the mouth has a bad taste, especially in the morning. A sort of sticky slime collects about the teeth. The appetite is poor. There is a feeling like a heavy load on the stomach; sometimes a faint, all-gone sensation at the pit of the stomach which food does not satisfy. The eyes are sunken, the hands and feet become cold and feel clammy. After a while a cough sets in, at first dry, but after a few months it is attended with a greenish colored expectoration. The patient feels tired all the while, and sleep does not seem to afford any rest. After a time he becomes nervous, irritable and gloomy, and has evil forebodings. There is a giddiness, a sort of whirling sensation in the head when rising up suddenly. The bowels become costive; the skin is dry and hot at times; the blood becomes thick and stagnant; the whites of the eyes become tinged with yellow; the kidney secretions become scanty and high colored, depositing a sediment after standing. There is frequently a spitting up of the food, sometimes with a sour taste, and sometimes with a sweetish taste; this is frequently attended with palpitation of the heart and Asthmatic symptoms; the vision becomes impaired, with spots before the eyes; there is a feeling of great prostration and weakness. All of these symptoms are in turn present. It is thought that nearly one-half of our population has this disease in some of its varied forms. Shaker Extract of Roots (Seigel's Syrup) changes the fermentations of the Digestive organs so as to convert the food we eat into a form that will give nourishment to the feeble body, and good health is the consequence. The effect of this remedy is simply marvelous. Millions upon millions of bottles have been sold in this country, and the testimonials in favor of its curative powers are overwhelming. Hundreds of so-called diseases under various names are the result of indigestion, and when this one trouble is removed the other diseases vanish, for they are but symptoms of the real malady.
Testimonials from thousands of people speaking highly of its curative properties prove this beyond a doubt. Sold by druggists.
