"One of my children and Croup. The case was attended by our physician, and was supposed to be well under control. One night I was startled by the child's hard breathing and on going to it found it strangling. It had hearly ceased to breams dealizing that the child's alarming condition had become possible in spite of the medicines given, I reasoned that such remedies would be of no avail. Having part of a bottle of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses, at short intervals, and auxiously awaited results. From the moment the Pectoral was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and, in a short time, she was sleeping quirtly and breathing naturally. The child is alive and well to-day, and I do not hesitate to say that AYER'S Cherry Pectoral saved her life,"-C. J. Wood, DRIDGE, Wortham, Tex.

"I wish to express my high appreciation of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral, having had occasion to use it in many cases, two of which, W. F. Owen and Jos. Johnson, were alseess of the lungs, involving almost the entire organ. The patients were treated by several physicians, and were pronounced to be in the last stages of consumption. Being placed in my hands, the main part of the treatment was AYER'S Cherry Pectoral. This was about eight years ago, and both men are now, to all appearance. in perfectly sound health. I have used this remedy in a number of other cases with like favorable results." — John A. Ritten, M. D., West Baden, Ind.

"When my children had the whooping cough, AYER'S Cherry Pectoral did them more good than any other medicine," - Mrs. M. BROCKWELL, BUTTHE LAWYER DID NOT HOLD OUT DAZZLING HOPES OF SUCCESS.

He came into the office of one of our leading attorneys and plunged dejectedly down into a chair, says the Syracuse Journal.

"Say," he began, "are you a tiptop lawyer? Never fail in a case?" "I try to be," was the lawyer's modest reply.

"What can I do for you?" "I want to get a divorce."

"Have you sufficient reason for separa-"You just bet I have "

"Well, kindly tell me your troubles, and I will let you have my opinion." "Five years ago I married a country girl because I thought I'd get a sensible one. Got that down?"

"Well, things went nicely for two years, then came the rub."

"The first thing she did was to go buy a lot of love-sick novels to find out how Society in London was carried on:"

" I didn't mind that, but after she had nosed around a bit she began to get her highfalutin' ideas."

"Yes." "Well she commenced with makin' me get two servants. Then she made us bave breakfast off the mantelpiece-that is, get up an' help yourself."

"Then she made me belong to three or four clubs, an' made it hot for me if I came home earlier than one o'clock. Got

"Next, she made the servants call her milady. But she capped the climax by sayin' one day that she was sufferin' from enwe. I went to a doctor an' asked him what the deuce that was, an' he told me it was French for that tired feeling. That settled it. From that time on it was enwe, an' enter nong, an' bullyoung, an' soloong, an' parley voo, an'-well, then she went in for music. She called

HIS CLIENT'S GRATITUDE,

A good story about a lawyer is going the rounds. The occurrence took place so long ago that it is not within the recoliection of any but the older disciples of Blackstone, so it will pass muster, even though it is a chestnut.

It seems that a tramp was indicted for stealing a watch. He was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. Having no counsel and being without funds and a total stranger, the Court assigned his defence to the attorney in question. The tramp was as quity as a man ever was but as the attorney was young in practice and desirous of grinding off some of his wire edges against the District Attorney he accepted the task at his command. He had absolutely no defence. His cliest practically admitted the theft, and sat through the trial in an attitude of dejection and despair. Nothing daunted, the young attorney rose before the jury to sum up his case. Providence had endowed him with tingue capable of almost anything. He had his address at his tongue's end, and the manner in which he recled it off extablished his name in the community in characters as ineffaceable, as the rock-ribs on old Gibraltar. He hold the "twelve men tried and true" spell bound. They Alternately they laughed and cried, and people in the audience followed their example. He pleaded the hopeless cause of the guilty tramp with all the eloquence of a Burke, and when he had finished the onthusiasm of the spectators seemed to know no bounds. It is said that it took the jury just eight minutes to with wings and a halo. The verdict was true. You'll look like a dead man exact whitewash the tramp, and provide him for acquittal.

The tramp—so thoroughly surprised and overcome with emotion that he could hardly speak-rose from his seat, the tears streaming down his cheeks. There enough to choose. He darted out of the was stillness in the court room. "Mis-ter lawyer," he exclaimed brokenly, "you den't know me—an' I don't know you.

I-I-want to thank you.

I-I sin't got been corrected yet.—Ex. no money but—but—here's that watch."
