SHADOW ON THE WHITE HOUSE.

Profile of McKinley and Picture of Queen Victoria.

Several times in the last three years there have been published in the Sun descriptions of the various singular shadows that have appeared from time to time on the north or main porch of the White House. One of these shadows represented the profile and bust form of an old woman, with one hand resting on an indistinct object, that resembled a spinning wheel. This shadow, cast by the sun's rays shining through the railing, which is a part of the Colonial structure at the top of the mansion, appeared daily at a certain hour for two or three weeks; and it was about that time that President McKinley's mother died, the phenomenon made a deep impression on many superstitious persons.

Last fall another shadow appeared, and it required no effort of the imagination to recognize it as a human form and hand, with bent forefinger upheld in the attitude of warning or reproach. Superstitious folks who saw it every day for a fortnight or so again had a chill, while others remarked facetiously that the incident ought to be a comfort to the anti-imperialists who have so long been pelting calamity. If the public has regarded these publications in the Sun as being of a mythical order or mere "shadow" stories, the affairs of all the messengers and guards at the White House can be brought forward to substantiate them.

The latest manifestation of freakishness on the White House parties appeared today. The sun was shining brightly, and at 10 minutes before 1 o'clock a shadow of nondescript form appeared on the great pillar at the extreme northwest corner of the portico. It soon took on definite shape, and at 1 o'clock represented the face and shoulders of President McKinley in profile. The silhouette was so striking in its accuracy that many persons who saw it remarked that a more correct profile drawing of Mr. McKinley could not be made by any artist. The likeness was not a correct one for more than 2 minutes. It gradually changed with the altering position of the sun, and at 10 minutes past 1 o'clock had assumed a remarkably perfect likeness to the face of the late Queen Victoria, even to an object on the head resembling a crown. This likeness lasted for two or three minutes, and then gradually disappeared. Two hours later the same succession of shadow-portraits appeared on the north-east pillar, at the opposite side of the portico, 40 feet away.—N. Y. Sun.

Ten Things for Which You're Never Sorry.

Doing good to all.
Speaking evil of none.
Thinking before speaking.
Holding an angry tongue.
Hearing before judging.
Being kind to the distressed.
Asking pardon for wrong.
Being patient with others.
Stopping the ears to a tale bearer.
Disbelieving most of the ill reports.

THE FARMER WORKS HARD

For a living. He has to. He must "make hay while the sun shines," no matter how he feels. The result is overwork. The stomach usually gives the first sign of strain. The organs of digestion and nutrition are deranged. Food does not nourish. Indigestion appears. In such a case Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery re-establishes the health by a complete cure of the three organs of digestion and nutrition. It cleanses the stomach, purifies the blood and removes the causes of disease. It is a temperance medicine, and contains no whisky nor alcohol.
"It was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliette, Utah Co., Idaho. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side, and thought it would kill me. I am glad to write and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that sore feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two boxes of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."
Sick people can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE GRAND OLD HYMN.

"NEARER MY GOD TO THEE."

The Hymn was Written by an English Girl Who Did Not Live to Know the Glory That Awaited it.

"As a writer, as a poet, there were few in the literary world of London (in the forties) who had not heard of Sarah Flower Adams, the gifted woman to whom all Christendom today pays homage in its love for her immortal hymn, 'Nearer, My God, to Thee,'" writes Clifford Howard in the February Ladies' Home Journal. "It was written in 1840 and had subsequently been set to music by E. V. Flower, and included in a collection of hymns written and composed by the two sisters. Only within that year had their book of 'Hymns and Anthems' been published, and the hymn that was destined to inspire the world had then been heard but once or twice, and within the walls of a single church—South Palace Chapel, London.

"It was not, however, until after the year 1860, when the present well known tune was composed for it by Dr. Lowell Mason, of New York, that the hymn attained its widespread popularity. Up to that time it had attracted but little notice. Through the spirit of Dr. Mason's sympathetic music it was quickened into glorious life and brought within the reach of every congregation and every Christian soul. But this was long after the author of the hymn had passed away. She died in 1848, without knowing of the triumph and the glory that awaited her work. Her grave in the little village of her birth is unmarked by any monument to her fame."

THE CIGARETTE.

I'm a modest cigarette,
Just a little thing, and yet
They hold me up
To the indignation
Of the world
As a crime
Unwarranted of Justice;
And they punch me in the slats
Cause the nice young man in spats
Treats—

The primrose path
Of dalliance
With me,
Breathing
My luscious fragrance
Through his immature
Lungs and Lights and Liver,
And engorging
His delicate mucous membrane
And his sensitive bronchial tissues
With my inhalations;
Which is not my fault of course,
When he coughs and shows up hoarse.
Because
If he smokes me,
It is my bounden duty
To return the compliment
By smoking him.
Then they slug me without truth,
Saying I corrupt the youth
Of the lowly and the highly kind
The same,
And they say I have a smell
Which is something worse than—well,
I'm not bad enough to mention such a name.
Furthermore,
I am charged with
High crimes and misdemeanors,
From color blindness
To locomotor ataxia,
From pipes
To Paris,
And they jump on me like sin,
And they call the lawyers in;
But, dare it all,
I ain't to blame,
Am I?
They don't have to
Smoke me
Unless they want to,
Do they?
Confound them.
They begin it,
Don't they?
I'm a little cigarette,
Very little, and I'll let
Them alone
If they'll
Let me alone;
But
If they fire me up, they bet
They will find a cigarette,
In the course of time, will get
The best of them—and yet
It is not the cigarette
That
Is raising
All the row,
Is it?

LA GRIPPE QUI KLY CURED.
In the winter of 1898 and 1899 I was taken down with a severe attack of what is called La Grippe, says F. L. Hewitt, a prominent druggist of Winfield, Ill. The only medicine I used was two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It broke up the cold and stopped the coughing like magic, and I have never since been troubled with Grippe. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be depended upon to break up a severe cold and ward off any threatened attack of pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, too, which makes it the most desirable and one of the best preparations in use for these ailments. For sale by W. M. Cohen, druggist.

THE WOMEN.

A HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW.

A Writer's Prediction on the State of Affairs when Another New Century Rolls Around.

This is what a writer in one of the English magazines predicts will be the state of affairs when another new century rolls around:

"By that time women will be all six feet in height, many of them considerably over, while the average height of man will be five feet nothing. Woman will be strong and lusty, and broad, and heavy in build, and will be very proud of her large feet, thick wrists, powerful limbs and great muscular development, while men will have grown vain of their truly-corseted waists, nice pink-and-white complexions and soft, gentle voices. 'Love will not have been completely done away with, though sentiment will have given way to common sense. Every woman will be required to marry and support two husbands, one of whom must be a useful, domesticated creature, capable of tending the children and looking after the household (while the wife is away in the city earning good money to keep the home together), and the other will be a better-looking, and therefore more ornamental creature, (not a 'general utility' man like the 'housekeeper' whose duties will be to act as companion, 'gentleman-help' to the mistress and guide of the mansion, and keep things up to the mark generally.

"Women a century hence will wear 'bloomers,' both literally and figuratively speaking; any woman transgressing by appearing in a long-tailed skirt will be condemned to act as public street scavenger for as long a period as the local council shall determine. Women will also wear a moustache, and the faces of men will gradually become smooth. Cooks will no longer be at a premium, as tiny taboos of food will take the place of the elaborate dishes of the past. We shall be able to get through a six-course dinner in about two minutes, a tabloid for each course, or, if we prefer it, we can have, multum in parvo, a tabloid with everything compressed and condensed into one harmonious whole."

PNEUMONIA CAN BE PREVENTED.

This disease always results from a cold or an attack of the grip and may be prevented by the timely use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. That remedy was extensively used during the epidemics of La Grippe of the past few years, and not a single case has ever been reported that did not recover or that resulted in pneumonia, which shows it to be a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained a world-wide reputation for its cure of colds and grip. For sale by W. M. Cohen, druggist.

A man never takes out a life insurance policy for his wife without wondering whether he isn't putting away good money for some other man.

A STUDY IN WRINKLES.

TO BANISH CARES AND DREADS.

A Pretty Little Sermonette by the Richmond News.

Once a man and a woman loved each other and were married. In the course of time troubles came upon them and the man went home at night with his heart heavy with the burdens of the day and fears for the morrow. And the woman perched herself on the arm of his chair and with womanish wiles and foolishness incited him to laughter and with warm, soft lips kissed away the wrinkles gathered on his forehead and coaxed his soul to harbor Courage and Hope, banishing the cares and dreads.

The woman as the years went by became worn and wearied with child bearing and caring, with the sorrows that bring to all lives and the more tacking troubles the days bring to a woman's life. Then the man kissed her tenderly and told her that he loved her and the footprints of pain and worry were smoothed from her face. Her heart was filled with light and music and beauty like a cathedral at a festival time when the organ leads a great congregation in Te Deum Laudamus, and the sound of solemn and splendid exultation rings from floor to dome. For when a woman loves and knows she is loved her soul can know no hunger and the unending radiance of that one truth wears rainbow glories even into the mist of her bitterest tears.

At the end of one of them died—no matter which one. The living looked upon the quiet, white face of the dead and saw upon it the marks of time and toil and grief, perhaps, but none placed there by him—or her, as the case might be. The living one knew then that death separates but cannot destroy, that between the heart yet beating and the stilled heart there remained a connection never to be broken, distinct but baffling the senses to comprehend, elusive, impalpable and beautiful as the track of moonlight along the surface of a placid sea.

The man and the woman whose love and care and thought are to smooth the wrinkles from each other's faces may be poor in all else, but in that one thing they are magnificently rich and enviable. No ill turn of fortune can deprive them of that inestimable prize. Even the darkness of death itself cannot shadow its beauty nor dim its light, for its memories in shining thousands through the path of thought from the earlier to the later days, and glorify the humblest and most sorely bruised heart.

OWED TO THE GRIP.

Cold that makes you rest and rip,
Quinine with a fiery nip,
Boiling drinks to sip and sip,
Lemonade and high-speed flip,
Back that aches from neck to hip,
Swollen nose and puffy lip,
Head that seems to go on-ripp!
Pulse that shows a lively flip,
Strength that swift away doth slip,
Feet that stumble, sub and trip,
Knees that toward each other dip,
Gait that rolls as if on ship,
Tongue that's furry to the tip,
Still more quinine, 'tender dip,
It's the grip!
—Cleveland Plaindealer.

EVIDENCE OF ENTIRE SOBRIETY.

The policeman had given his testimony which was unqualified to the fact of the old gentleman's intoxication. Then the old servant was called to the witness box. There was a mingled expression of indignation and determination on his countenance. He testified flatly to the surprise of the court, that the old man was sober when he came home. The Magistrate proceeded to question the witness: "You say that Mr. — was sober when he came home?" "Yes, sir." "Did he get to bed sober?" "No, sir." "Did you put him to bed?" "Yes, sir." "And he was perfectly sober?" "Yes, sir." "What did he say when you put him to bed?" "He said, 'Good night.'"

"Anything else?" "Yes, sir." "What was it? Tell us exactly what he said, every word." "He said as how I was to wake him and call him early, for he was to be the Queen of May."

WORKING OVERTIME.

Eight hour laws are ignored by those tireless little workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. Warning Notes Calling The Wicked To Repentance.

The only way to have the very present help is to have the ever present Helper. The preacher who thinks only of pruning flowers of rhetoric will pluck little of righteousness.

Souls are not saved by slovenly service. Probably Paul was a D. D. before he was converted.

He who takes all he can get often gets more than he can take. Every man has his own image.

When love calls His Lord there is no sweeter word. The magnified church will often mean the minimized Christ.

The preacher's oratory in the sanctuary must fall unless prayer has its oratory in his soul. Heaven may include earth. The dance is the devil's litaney.

You can never teach a toad to trot. There is much difference between being washed white and being white-washed.

There is much difference between the tally cards of earth and those of heaven. When men serve us well, we must not worship them but God who made them His instruments.

Job had to give up his cunning, Job his goodness, and Peter his strength before they got a blessing.

They who keep near the Good Shepherd do not know that there are other dogs who guard or wolves who attack.

There is a good deal of difference between seeking to have the truth on your side and seeking to be on the side of truth.

The prescription for salvation must have an application as well as an understanding before healing is found. Patriotism is based on principles. Restraint prayer is retaining care.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

Has world-wide fame for marvellous cures. It surpasses any other salve, lotion, ointment or balm for cuts, Corns, Bursas, Blisters, Sores, Fomulas, Ulcers, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Chapped Hands, Skin Eruptions, Inflammation of Piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c. at W. M. Cohen's drug store.

COULD TAKE A HINT.

It was late, but he still lingered. "I have been trying to think," the young woman remarked after a pause in the conversation, "of the motto of the state of Maine." "Dirige," said young Spoonmore, reaching for his hat, "and I will go, but it will always be a consolation," he added, with a profound bow, "to know, Miss de Muir, that you once called me 'dearie!'"

3 PAPERS A WEEK

FOR ABOUT THE PRICE OF ONE...
This Paper and the Atlanta Twice-A-Week Journal for $1.50.

Here you get the news of the world and all your local news while it is fresh paying very little more than one paper costs. Either paper is well worth $1.00, but by special arrangement we are enabled to put in both of them, giving three papers a week for this low price.

Besides general news, the Twice-A-Week Journal has much agricultural matter and other matters of special interest to farmers. It has regular contributions by Sam Jones, Mrs. W. H. Felton, John Temple Graves, Hon. C. H. Jordan and other distinguished writers. Call at this office and leave your subscriptions for both papers. You can get a sample copy of either paper here on application.

Scrofula

THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY BLOOD TAIN.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease. It manifests itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive breath, and abscesses and of tentative white swellings—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, but the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, destructive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 115 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and had her forehead from this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and burst. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try S. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

SSS makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood in good condition and prevent the disease doing further damage. Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge whatever for medical advice.
