WHAT LOVE DID.

FLOWERS FOR GRANDMA.

The Old Lady's Good Bye to the Orphan Rang in His Soul and the World Grew Bright.

Two gray-haired men were walking along the street, one of them carrying a bouquet of beautiful and fragrant flowers.

"Wait a minute," said the latter as he stopped before a small cottage and rang the bell. A little girl opened the door. She smiled as she took the flowers. "I know whom they're for," she said. "They're for grandma."

"Yes," assented the giver, "with my love."

"Well, I do declare!" observed his friend, as they passed on. "You surprise me! I had no idea you went around leaving flowers and your love with old ladies."

"Just with one old lady," laughing. "You must see it this way: When I was a boy, this dear old lady's son and I were chums. We were going away to school. I was an orphan. I left the house, where I had been boarding, with a heavy heart. No one cared that I was going away; no one would miss me."

"I stopped for Dan—that was my chum's name—on my way to the station. As I entered the yard he and his mother were saying good-bye. The hot tears rushed to my eyes as I saw Dan's mother kiss him."

"Good-bye, my boy; God bless you," I heard her say.

"No one had kissed me, no one had asked me to bless me. Well, God was not losing me, I said to myself bitterly, and the bright tears vanished. I felt dejected and set my lips hard. Then Dan's mother looked up. She must have read my feelings in my ugly face."

"Good-bye, Davie," she said, gently, holding out her hands to me. I know my face looked stern and hard. I pretended not to see the outstretched hands, and I wouldn't look into her face. I was turning away without a word of farewell, when she called, oh, so sweetly—I can hear her now, even after all these years—

"Davie, my dear boy, aren't you going to say good-bye to Darnie's mother? Aren't you, Davie? I turned and took her hands; the loving compassion of her voice had won me from myself and my despair. I held close to her, while she kissed me. Then, gently loosening my grasp of her hands, she threw her arms about me."

"Good-bye, Davie," she said. "I love you, too, my boy, and may God bless you!"

The gentleman's lips quivered. "The world grew bright to me then and there," he continued. "I had something to live for, and I did my best in school and college. Over and over that tender good-bye of Dan's mother rang in my soul. "Good-bye, Davie; I love you, too, my boy, and may God bless you. God has blessed me." "Where is Dan?" asked his friend.

"Dan died six years ago; that is his little girl who came to the door. It was an awful blow to the dear old lady when Dan died, and she has never been strong since that dark day. But she has been so good as to tell me that I bring much sunshine into her life, and I thank God that I am able to do so."—New York Observer.

If a woman had her own way, she would keep a picture of herself taken in her best fancy night-gown to give to the reporter if she should ever be rescued from a fire.

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prostrated and nervousness," writes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription with a glowing testimonial. "I had been married for a few years past, but I should have any return of the old trouble would surely try 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my lady friends. I always tell them to try a bottle, and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

MY DARLING'S SHOES.

God bless the little feet that can never go astray. For the little shoes are empty, in my closet hid away. I sometimes take one in my hand, forgetting till I see it is a little half-worn shoe, not half large enough for me; And all at once I feel a sense of bitter loss and pain; As sharp as when, long years ago, it cut my heart in twain.

Oh, little feet that weary not, I wait for them no more, For I am drifting on the tide and they have reached the shore; And while the blinding teardrops wet these little shoes so old, I try to think my darling's feet are treading streets of gold, And then I lay them down again, but always turn to say, "God bless the little feet that now so surely cannot stray."

And while I thus am standing, I almost seem to see The little form beside me, just as it used to be, The little face uplifted, with its soft and tender eyes, Ah, me, I might have known that look was born of Paradise, I reach my arms out fondly, but they clasp the empty air, For there's nothing of my darling but the shoes he used to wear.

Oh, the bitterness of parting cannot be done away Until I meet my darling where his feet can never stray; When I no more am drifting upon the surging tide, But with him safely landed upon the river side, Be patient, heart, while waiting to see the shiny way, For the little feet in the golden street can never go astray.

THE HEAVY SISTER.

GENIUS FOR THE INOPPERTUNE.

CONTINUALLY OUT OF A JOB.

Honest, Affable, Educated and Industrious, Yet He Makes A Failure of Life and Thinks Someone Has Worked a Rabbit's Foot On Him.

The following from the New Orleans Times-Democrat illustrates the characteristics of persons one is continually meeting:

"There goes a man," said a Canal street philosopher, "who has made a failure of life in spite of exceptional equipment for success. He is honest, affable, highly educated, and industrious as a beaver. He has no bad habits, and I couldn't name a man in New Orleans who possesses a kinder disposition, yet he is continually out of a job, and is studiously avoided by all who know him. The mysterious part of it is that nobody can tell you just why, and the poor fellow doesn't understand it himself. He is beginning to think that somebody has worked a rabbit's foot on him, but the secret is really this: He has a genius for the inopportune. By some malign freak of fate he always says and does the wrong thing. It is not lack of tact, it is destiny. For example, I like him, but he never called on me in his life that his visit wasn't highly unwelcome. He is morally certain to drop in just in time to catch one doing something or discreditable, and you know we hate the innocent chance witness of our follies. He made a mortal enemy of Col. —, because he happened to walk into his office while the old man was dyeing his moustache. He chanced on a certain prominent lawyer smirking before a mirror, rehearsing an impromptu after dinner speech, and the prominent lawyer got even by knocking him out of a valuable contract. Those are two cases out of dozens. He never goes to parties, but the mere fact that he has seen things he ought not to see and heard things he ought not to hear, makes his presence embarrassing to the other fellows. His most unfortunate, and all fate. If he were introduced to a man whose grandfather had been hanged, he would be absolutely certain to begin talking about rope inside of two minutes. As I said before, he has a genius for the inopportune. My wife loathes him because her false frizzes blow off on the street one day and landed on top of his umbrella. He had nothing whatever to do with either the frizzes or the elements, but one I cannot ask him to my house. Terrible to be under such a curse, isn't it?"

Too many men like to stand around and grunt while some other man lifts. Some people would rather do a thing twice than do it in the first place. The time to work and the time to play are synonymous with the organ-grinder. The Lord made only one woman; the corset manufacturers make them all now-a-days.

WORKING 24 HOURS A DAY. There's no rest for those tireless little workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills. Millions are always busy, curing Torpid Liver, Jaundice, Biliousness, Fever and Ague. They banish Sick Headache, drive out Malaria. Never grip or weakness. Small, taste nice, work wonders. Try them. 25c. at W. M. Cohen's drug store.

A GOOD COUGH MEDICINE FOR CHILDREN. "I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says P. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold by W. M. Cohen, druggist.

To a woman in love little things seem big and to a man in love big things seem little.

Admiration is the daughter of ignorance.

HER TOUCH. A sailor who met with a serious accident was carried to the London hospital. The poor mother hurried to the building to see her son. She was met by a kind but firm refusal from the house physician, but nothing daunted she pleaded for admission to the poor fellow's bedside. Who could resist a mother's entreaties? The safety of the patient lay in his being kept absolutely quiet, but the physician consented to her admission on condition that she did not speak a word. She stole softly to his bedside and gazed as only a mother can at her unconscious boy. She dare not speak, but a mother's love was not to be denied all expression, and gently laying her hand on his fevered brow she let it rest there a moment and then noiselessly crept from the room.

The watchful nurse heard the comatose sleeper murmur the words, "Her touch," and, rousing himself, he added, "Surely my mother has been here. I know her touch!" Ah, there was an electric thrill of sympathy in that touch which told its own tale to the dying man!—Weekly Bouquet.

CREATION OF WOMAN.

A HINDU LEGEND.

Took a Great Many Things and Formed a Woman and Then Made a Present of Her to Man.

Colonel Ingersoll, in his lecture on "The Mistakes of Moses," was fond of narrating an immemorial Oriental legend of the creation of man and woman, and trying to show how superior it was in chivalry towards the gentler sex to the story in Genesis. It is doubtful, whether he would have upheld the superiority of another narrative of this character found in a book of Hindu legends lately discovered. This work, written in Sanskrit, is called "The Surging of the Ocean of Time," and in the last section of it, entitled "Of a Finger of the Moon Reddened by the Setting Sun," occurs the following passage, lately translated by an English writer, Mr. Bain, and reproduced in the Chicago Times-Herald.

"At the beginning of time Twashtri—the Vulcan of the Hindu mythology—created the world. But when he wished to create a woman he found that he had employed all his material in the creation of man. There did not remain one solid element. Then Twashtri, perplexed, fell into a profound meditation. He roused himself to do as follows: He took the roundness of the moon, the undulations of the serpent, the entwining of climbing plants, the trembling of the grass, the slenderness of the rose vine and the velvet of the flower, the lightness of the leaf and the glance of the fawn, the gaiety of the sun's rays and tears of the mist, the inconsistency of the wind and the timidity of the hare, the vanity of the peacock and the softness of the down on the throat of the swallow, the hardness of the diamond, the sweet flavor of honey and the cruelty of the tiger, the warmth of fire, the chill of snow, the chatter of the jay, and the cooing of the turtle-dove. He united all this and formed a woman. Then he made a present of her to man. Eight days later the man came to Twashtri and said:

"My lord the creature you gave me poisons my existence. She chatters without rest, she takes all my time, she laments for nothing at all, and is always ill!" And Twashtri took the woman again.

"But eight days later the man came again to the god and said: 'My lord, my life is very solitary since I returned this creature. I remember she danced before me, singing. I recall how she glared at me from the corner of her eye, and she played with me, clung to me.' And Twashtri returned the woman to him. Three days only passed and Twashtri saw the man coming to him again. 'My lord,' said he, 'I do not understand exactly how, but I am sure that the woman causes me more annoyance than pleasure. I beg of you relieve me of her.'

"But Twashtri cried: 'Go your way and do your best.' And the man cried: 'I cannot live with her!' 'Neither can you live without her,' replied Twashtri. 'And the man was sorrowful, murmuring: 'Who is me, I can neither live with or without her!'—Literary Digest.

REMARKABLE CURE OF RHEUMATISM. From the Vindicator, Rutherfordton, N. C. The editor of the Vindicator has had occasion to test the efficacy of Chamberlain's Pain Balm with the most remarkable results in each case. First, with rheumatism in the shoulder from which he suffered excruciating pain for ten days which was relieved with two applications of Pain Balm, rubbing the parts affected and realizing instant benefit and entire relief in a very short time. Second, in rheumatism in thigh joint, almost prostrating him with severe pain, which was relieved by two applications, rubbing with the liniment on retiring at night, and getting up free from pain. For sale by W. M. Cohen, druggist.

THE JEFFERSON BIBLE. "The Jefferson Bible in the Smithsonian Institution," says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record, "has never been printed. The manuscript remains as it left Jefferson's hand, and, although several persons have proposed from time to time to print it, no one has ever done so. The Bible consists only of the teachings of Christ, extracts from the gospel arranged in chronological order from his birth to his ascension, and nothing else. All controversial passages are left out."

A HORRIBLE OUTBREAK. "Of large sores on my little daughter's head developed into a case of scald head" writes C. D. Ibbell, of Morganton, Tenn., but Bucklen's Arnica Salve completely cured her. It's a guaranteed cure for Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pimples, Sores, Ulcers and Piles. Only 25 cents at W. M. Cohen's drug store.
