PENOLOGICAL PHILOSOPHY.

"Inmates of the penitentiary have a way of making remarks and asking questions that are sometimes startling," remarked a prison official.
"Give me a sample?" replied the Observer.
"The other day two of the men were talking over plans for the future after their respective terms had expired. One of them exclaimed: 'When I get out of here I intend to go so far away that it will take $9 to send a postal card to reach me.'
"And how do you expect to get dere yourself?" inquired a colored man, who knew that finances were not flush among the inmates of the big prison. The conversation ceased at that point, for the negro had plumped out a puser."
—Columbus Dispatch.

KIND WORDS.

Kind thoughts are the roots from which spring kind words and kind deeds. We must cultivate the roots if we would have the blossom and the fruitage. "The practice of kind thoughts," wrote Faber, "is a fountain of joy in our souls which rarely intermits its flowing. Above all things it is our main help to that complete government of the tongue which we all so much covet. The interior beauty of a soul through habitual kindness of thought is more than our words can tell. To such life is a perpetual bright evening with all things calm and fragrant and restful. The dust of life is laid and its fever cooled. All sounds and all sights are fairer, and the golden light makes our enjoyment of earth a happily pensive preparation for heaven."

A MIXED RECIPE.

A fashionable young lady visited a cooking school the other afternoon, where her attention was equally divided between a new dress worn by an acquaintance and the directions for making a cake. Upon returning home she undertook to write down the recipe for making the cake for her mother, and the old lady was paralyzed when she read the following:
"Take two pounds of flour, three rows of plaining down the front, the whites of two eggs cut bias, a pint of milk ruffled round the neck, half pound currants, with seven yards of bead trimming, grated lemon peel with Spanish lace fish; stir well, and add a semi-fitting paletot with white sleeves; butter the p. with Brazil top necklaces, and garnish with icing and passamentaris. Bake in a moderately hot oven until the skirt is tucked from the waist down on either side, and finish with large satin rosettes."
Her mother said she wouldn't eat such a cake, and she thought these new-fangled ideas in cooking ought to be frowned down.—Michigan Badger.

BRING THE ENDS TOGETHER.

A certain colonel somewhere in the South (no matter where) was in the habit of telling yarns and greatly exaggerating. He had a negro servant who corroborated everything his master told. One day the Colonel had some gentlemen to dinner, and they were enjoying some fine venison very much. The Colonel said: "Yes, I went hunting the other day and saw a fine buck. I took a good sight at him and shot him through the head, and the bullet went through his hind leg." The gentlemen looked at each a little mystified. The negro scratched his head and at last said: "Yes, indeed, gemmen, just as massa raised the gun to shoot de buck he raised his hind leg and scratch his ear, and the bullet went through the head and right through de hind leg." The gentlemen looked more satisfied. After the guests had left the negro said to his master: "Gorry mighty, massa, next time you tell one of dem yarns do get the ends closter together. I had hard work to make both ends meet."
—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

WHY HE WAS REJECTED.

The soul of a rajah who had been released from the cares of this world and an uncoquial wife presented himself at the gates of paradise.
"Have you been in purgatory yet?" demanded Brahma.
"No, but I have been married."
"Enter then. It is the same thing."
At this moment another soul arrived, who begged Brahma to allow him also to enter.
"Softly, softly. Have you been in purgatory yet?"
"No, but neither has that other fellow. He died the same day I did."
"Very true, but he had been married."
"Married, indeed! Why, I have been married three times."
"Away, then, to the lower regions!" said Brahma sternly. "Paradise is not made for imbeciles."

AN EVENING VISION.

The evening camp fire burns low, one by one the brands have dissolved into coals, and one by one the little circle has retired into the cabins and gone to sleep. I take from the pile of the skeleton of a dead pine one of its huge resinous bones and cast it on the coals. The surrounding trees have all retired into the silent darkness to repose from the toils of the stormy day—now with its wrestling winds also gone into the darkness of the past. Immediately the yellow flames shoot up high, and the trees step out of the darkness on silent feet, with a surprised expression as if to say, as they look down upon me. "Why, we did not expect you to call for us again." And there they stand waiting, with the stars glittering in their tangled hair.

CATARRH

The treatment of Catarrh with antiseptic and astringent washes, lotions, salves, medicated tobacco and cigarettes or any external or local application, is just as senseless as would be kindling a fire on top of the pot to make it boil. True, these give temporary relief, but the cavities and passages of the head and the bronchial tubes soon fill up again with mucus.
Taking cold is the first step towards Catarrh, for it checks perspiration, and the poisonous acids and vapors which should pass off through the skin, are thrown back upon the mucous membrane or inner skin, producing inflammation and excessive flow of mucus, much of which is absorbed into the blood, and through the circulation reaches every part of the system, involving the Stomach, Kidneys and other parts of the body. When the disease assumes the dry form, the breath becomes exceedingly foul, blinding headaches are frequent, the eyes red, hearing affected and a constant ringing in the ears. No remedy that does not reach the polluted blood can cure Catarrh. S. S. S. expels from the circulation all offensive matter, and when rich, pure blood is again coursing through the body the mucous membranes become healthy and the skin active, all the disagreeable, painful symptoms disappear, and a permanent, thorough cure is effected. S. S. S. being a strictly vegetable blood purifier does not derange the Stomach and digestion, but the appetite and general health rapidly improve under its tonic effects. Write us about your case and get the best medical advice free. Book on blood and skin diseases sent on application.
