We claim to be the LOWEST PRICED WHISKEY HOUSE. We really sell whiskey as low as $1.10 per gallon, and mind you; distilled whiskey—not a dejection of chemicals—but of course its new and under proof.
"CASPER'S STANDARD" 10 year old whiskey is a liquid joy! It is actually produced by honest Tar Heels in the mountain section of North Carolina by the old time process. Every drop is boiled over open furnace wood fire, in the style copper stills, in exactly the same way it was made by our grandfathers a century ago. First rate whiskey is sold at $5 to $6 per gallon, but is not any better than "CASPER'S STANDARD." It is the best produced and must please every customer or we will buy it back with gold—we are incorporated under the laws of North Carolina with an authorized capital of $100,000.00 and the People's National Bank and Piedmont Savings Bank of Winston-Salem, N. C. will tell you our guarantee is good. This old, honest, mild and mellow whiskey is worth one dollar per quart, but to more fully introduce "Casper's Standard" we offer sample shipments of this brand at half price, (packed in plain sealed boxes) 5 Quarts $2.95, 10 Quarts $5, Express Prepaid anywhere in U. S. All orders and remittances (in stamps, cash or by check, etc.) as well as requests for confidential price must be addressed as follows:

CARE OF HUSBANDS.

HOW ONE WOMAN FINDS THEIR BEST QUALITIES
A wife, if she be a wise woman, will set herself to find out her husband's best side, and having found it, persuade the man to live up to it.

Set up an ideal before a man, let him think that to you he is that ideal, and the chances are a thousand to one that he will try to live up to it.

If he is mean and selfish make him think he is generous, and you will have cured half his meanness before he knows it. If he is bad tempered and full of crochets, do it into him morning, noon and night that he is good temper itself, and (always supposing that the original bad temper does not arise from ill health and physical suffering) it will not take very long to sweeten it.

If he is morbidly jealous, don't be a fool and show him that you are afraid to speak civilly to any other man in his presence. He will begin to think he has good grounds for his jealousy then. But let him see that in your eyes at least no man can possibly come up to him in point of physical and mental attractions.

Place him on a pedestal, make a hero of him, and in his own despite he will be forced to live up to the character, and will feel himself, without any words of yours, how absurd his jealousy is. If a man's wife thinks him perfection he need fear no envy of lesser mortals.

If he is one of those fussy, interfering domestic sort of men just try to make him feel that in your eyes he is the quintessence of everything manly, and that such small details are quite beneath his notice. He will soon give up interfering.

If he is prodigal and reckless coax him to save; don't always be taunting him with his extravagance.

Above all, if you are a wise woman, don't try to argue a husband—or, for the matter of that, anybody—out of any of the above, or any other faults.

Moreover, let it not be forgotten that matrimonial arguing is but too apt to degenerate into ogging, and a nagging wife never had any real influence over a husband yet.

PICKINGS FROM FICTION.
Most of us look best at a little distance from one another.—"Paul Kelver."

No man who is not an egotist or worse is ever sure of a woman's love till she has told with her own lips.—"His Daughter First."

When in doubt go to church, for there's nothing that lets a man think better than a long prayer and a slow sermon.—"Adam Rush."

There are sixteen ounces to the pound still, but two of them are wrapping paper in a good many stores.—"Letters of a Self Made Merchant."

I used to think that marriage made men old, sour and suspicious. I find I was mistaken. It is not the wife; it is the money market.—"Love and the Soul Hunter."

I believe in havin' a good time when you start out to have it. If you git knocked out of one plan you want to git yourself another right quick, before your sperrits has a chance to fall.—"Lovey Mary."

There was a cry in the streets. People rushed from their doors and aimed their eyes on the struggling balloonist fighting for life. Even the poor, panting sufferer in the sick room was forgotten while the family gazed breathless at this strange tragedy of the air. Then they went back to the sick room to tell of the terrible struggle for life they had just witnessed. It did not occur to them that under their very eyes a more terrible, more pathetic struggle was going on daily.

There can be nothing more pitiful than the struggle the consumptive makes against disease. The greatest help in this struggle is gained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures obstinate coughs, weak and bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other ailments which if neglected or, unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

MY MOTHER'S GOOD OLD TIMES.

BY LOWELL O. REESE.

On my head the frost is gathering with the liming of the years; In my features are the records of a thousand hopes and fears; In my checkbook there is written that which forty years ago Would have made my being tingle with a wild, exultant glow; But, alas, within my spirit there's an ever present ache For the old corn beef and cabbage that my mother used to make.

I remember when I wandered o'er the hills in boyish glee, And the dinner horn's loud echo brought no bedding thoughts to me; I was young, and I was happy, and my stomach ne'er went back On a single proposition that my teeth would dare attack! Never thought I of dyspepsia as I charged the jolly cake And the old corn beef and cabbage that my mother used to make.

But the years have brought prosperity; the servants in my halls Keep their straining ears a-quake for the faintest of my calls; I have eaten of the fatted; I have drunk the richest cup, Just to realize at last that these have used my stomach up, And I'd give my vast possessions to be able to partake Of the old corn beef and cabbage that my mother used to make.

All the years I've sought the dollar, struggled upward slow and sure, With my pocket growing wealthy and my stomach growing poor; Every year I find my table more with luxuries replete; Every year I find that fewer are the things that I can eat, Till the pathway back to childhood often times I yearn to take To the old corn beef and cabbage that my mother used to make.

THE BEAUTIFUL MORNING.

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

Birds in the blossoms sing sweet to the skies; Sun's set in shadows, but bright stars arise, And joy, at last, is the sweeter for sighs, And we drift to a beautiful morning!

Bitter the crosses, and sad all the cares, But ever a rose in the thorns of the years, And the bright smile of Love in a teapost of tears, And we drift to a beautiful morning!

Kiss hands to the trouble—take heart in the strife, Though the sky with black clouds and thunder is rife; We shall reap in God's sunlight the lilies of life As we drift to a beautiful morning!

BEGINNING AGAIN.

When sometimes our feet grow weary On the rugged hills of life, The path stretches long and dreary, With trial and labor rife, We pause on the upward journey, Glancing backward o'er valley and glen, And sigh with an infinite longing To return and "begin again."

Far behind is the dew of the morning, Yes, upward and onward forever Be our paths on the hills of life, But ere long a radiant dawning Will glorify trial and strife, And our Father's hand will lead us Tenderly upward there; In the joy and peace of the better world He'll let us "begin again."

WHEN THE BIRDS COME NORTH AGAIN.
Every year hath its winter And every year hath its rain— But a day is always coming When the birds come North again.
When new leaves swell in the forest, And grass springs green on the plain, And the alder's vein turns crimson— And the birds come North again.
Every heart hath its sorrow, And every heart hath its pain— But a day is always coming When the birds come North again.
'Tis the sweetest thing to remember, If courage be on the wave, When the cold, dark days are over— Why, the birds come North again.

THE OLD RELIABLE

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

THE FEMINE FIB.
A JUDICIOUS BLEND OF BLACK, WHITE, GRAY AND CHINESE LIES.

A distinguished preacher once divided lies into "black lies, white lies, gray lies and Chinese lies." The feminine fib is generally a judicious blend of the white lie and the Chinese lie. For the benefit of those who have never graduated in the special mendacity tripos it may be explained that a Chinese lie is, as a rule, purely ornamental, being of the nature of embroidery, which is intended to add beauty and color to the plain object on which it is used as trimming.

The Chinese lie is prompted by the very highest and noblest of motives—namely, a desire to give pleasure to others, many a plain, dull fact being served up and made quite tasty and appetizing by a little judicious garniture of Chinese—embroidery. Directed into the proper channel, a Chinese liar becomes a skillful writer of fiction and turns her gift to profitable account. But the everyday feminine amateur, who has not this outlet for her tarradiddle talent, turns her attention to the afternoon tea table and adds a spice to whatever gossip is going by a gentle peppering of fibs.

Unfortunately this gift of imagination is often accompanied by a defective memory, whereas to make a good—prevaricator nothing is so essential as a good memory. Without this the employer of the Chinese method is almost certain to get found out sooner or later—generally sooner—and then she has the mortification of finding that her little efforts to please quite fail in their effect.

And not only that, but what is more trying still, she even finds that when from lack of material for fictional purposes she does for once serve up the cold, ungarlanded truth her hearers have so got in the habit of disbelieving her that her plain statement is received with incredulity. That is why any one who aims at distinction in the fibbing world must carefully cultivate a good memory and so follow the Golden Rule to avoid being found out.—Modern Society.

CHOLERA IS FANTUM.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain.

A LIMB OF SATAN.

Mrs. Jennie Harrill, of Henrietta, was enticed away from her husband recently by a holiness preacher, who used his Bible to prove to Mrs. Harrill that she would be justified in leaving her husband and in going with him. Mr. Harrill followed his erring wife and the proscriber to Chattanooga, Tenn., and had the preacher arrested. Mrs. Harrill begged her husband to forgive her and let her return home with him, but he would not grant her request.

Some years ago a holiness preacher down in the eastern part of the State tried to entice a wife away from her husband by telling him a revelation that she should leave her husband and go with him. The lady told her husband what the so-called holiness fellow had proposed, and when the enraged husband saw the preacher he said: "Look here, you blankety blanked jungle jawed limb of Satan, when did the Lord make that revelation you were telling my wife about?" "Last Monday," replied the preacher. "Well, now," said the husband, "I've seen the Lord about that matter and I've got a later revelation, and that is to beat the very devil out of you." And then and there the more holy than thou preacher got the medicine he needed.—Monroe Enquirer.

When people actually carry out their good intentions the millennium will be in full blast.

"LET US TELL JESUS."

THERE IS THE LESSON, WILL SOUL-WINNERS LEARN IT?
The incident is related of a young man who was inclined toward infidelity, and, like others of his age who have imbibed such notions he was more or less proud of his advanced ideas. He took occasion one day to go to the study of a minister of his acquaintance and state to him his doubts and disbelief in Christianity, thinking, of course, that minister would undertake an elaborate argument to prove the truth of the Scriptures and the reality of the religion founded on them. This would give him just what he wanted—the opportunity to argue and combat.

But the pastor, with a wisdom not born of earth, after listening until he had concluded his harangue, said quietly: "Let us tell Jesus about it," and dropped on his knees. The young man would be infidel was surprised into following his example. As the two knelt side by side the man of God poured out his petition from a full heart for the young man beside him, but without any allusion to his condition of skeptical unbelief. He simply pleaded for him as a sinner needing salvation. The prayer was answered. Before he rose from his knees the doubter doubted no longer. Instead, he was convinced and converted, and ready to ask, with Paul, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" The answer came, and now that young man preaches the gospel he once sought to destroy with his infidel arguments.

The Mid-Continent, emphasizing the suggestiveness of this little incident says:
"There is the lesson. Will soul-winners learn it? Go tell Jesus—alone, if need be, with those who would win if you can—but tell Jesus, and ask of Him the needed grace. It is not argument with man that is needed so much as telling Jesus. Take Him at His word, 'Ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you. Go and tell Jesus.'"

HER AGE.

"Madam," replied the judge sternly, "you must answer the question. What is your age?"
"I was born the same year your honor was. That would make me about"—
"It isn't necessary to go into particulars," interposed the judge stiffly.
"Gentlemen, have you any further use for the witness? You may stand aside, madam."

GREED.

"Don't you think that people pay too much attention to money nowadays?"
"No, I don't," answered Senator Sorghum. "Time was when a five dollar bill looked as big as a farm to a member of the legislature. Now he won't pay any attention to it whatever."—Washington Star.

HER OBJECTION.

"Don't you think you are taking the wrong stand when you say you do not wish your son to marry, Mrs. Willoughby?" asked an intimate friend. "Don't you know it is natural and best for a young man to marry and that he will not think any the less of his mother because he has a wife?"
"Oh, it isn't that," protested Mrs. Willoughby. "I don't mind his marrying on general principles, but I don't want to be called 'the old Mrs. Willoughby.'"—New York Press.

THE "HOLINESS" READER GOT THE MEDICINE HE NEEDED.

Mrs. Jennie Harrill, of Henrietta, was enticed away from her husband recently by a holiness preacher, who used his Bible to prove to Mrs. Harrill that she would be justified in leaving her husband and in going with him. Mr. Harrill followed his erring wife and the proscriber to Chattanooga, Tenn., and had the preacher arrested. Mrs. Harrill begged her husband to forgive her and let her return home with him, but he would not grant her request.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.
Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie on my side nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?
