Neuralgia And Other Pain.
All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves. The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia. They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.
"For many years I have been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and headache, and have never been able to obtain any relief from various headache powders and capsules, until I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They always cure my headache in five minutes time." FRED E. SWOLELEY, Cashier 1st Nat. Bank, Atkinson, Neb.

HEER FULLY GIVEN.
Bobby's father had given him a 10-cent piece and a quarter of a dollar, telling him he might put one or the other on the contribution plate, says the Philadelphia Ledger.
"Which did you give, Bobby?" his father asked when the boy came home from church.
"Well, father, I thought at first I ought to put in the quarter," said Bobby, "but then just in time, remembered 'The Lord leaveth a cheerful giver,' and I knew I ought to give the 10-cent piece a great deal more cheerfully, so I put that in."

AN EDITOR TOLD THE TRUTH.
SOME OBSERVATIONS MADE AND HOW GLAD THEY WERE OF THE OLD WAY.
Burlington News.
The editor of the News is often apprised of the fact that he is the biggest liar in Alamance county. We admit that necessity has compelled us to repeatedly sacrifice the truth in order to run this sheet successfully, and were about to determine to reform, but the following experiment of a western editor compels us to continue to do business along the old line, rather than tell the truth and be mobbed. The editor of an Indiana paper became tired of being called a liar so he announced that he would tell the truth in the future. The first issue thereafter contained the following:
"John Bonin, the laziest merchant in town, made a trip to Belville yesterday."
"John Coyle, our groceryman, is doing a poor business. His store is dirty, dusty and notoriously odoriferous. How can he expect to do much?"
"Rev. Styx preached last Saturday night on 'charity.' The sermon was punk."
"Dave Sonkey died at his home in this place. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. The fact is he was drunk, and whiskey is what killed him."
"Married. Miss Sylvia Rhoades and James Conhan, last Saturday evening at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is a very ordinary town girl who doesn't know any more than a jack-rabbit about cooking, and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means, and has a gait like a fat duck. The groom is well known as an up-to-date loafer. He's been living off the old folks all his life and don't amount to shucks. They will have a hard life."
The paper had no sooner reached the public than a committee was sent to him bearing a petition asking him to continue in the good old way, and stated that they believed him to be a truthful and honest man.

A MORNING DREAM.
Mrs. Skynflint—"What are you chucking about, Jonas?"
Mr. Skynflint—"I dreamed I was going to give a Pullman porter a quarter."
Mrs. Skynflint—"Shouldn't think that would make you grin."
Mr. Skynflint—"Well, I woke up just as he was reaching for it."—Louisville Courier Journal.

NO FAILURE.

They Appeal to Our Sympathies.
The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them, however, who may not be brought back to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels.

IF YOU KNOW, YOU WILL FORGIVE.
Shrouded in the midst of ages is the story of this line, On its origin the records all are silent—give no sign, But its message speaks out clearly to all hearts, to yours and mine, Ever let the saying live: If you know, you will forgive.
Has some friend seemed false, neglectful? (was it not just seeming so?) Has another judged you wrongly? (why not let the matter go?) Do you think some eye has blundered? Well, perhaps, but do you know? Think of this each day you live: If you know, you will forgive.
Time is short, the days are passing, petty things are not worth while, Even if you have been injured, can the outward things defile? Down below are hidden causes; trust, forget and wear a smile. Ever let the echoes live, If you know, you will forgive.

PUBLIC IS AROUSED.
The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys.—Mary H. Waters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak, from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at all druggists; price 50c.
Children are divided into two general classes—our own sweet darlings and the dirty-faced, ill-mannered brats of other people.
Unnecessary Expense.
Acute attacks of colic and diarrhoea come on without warning and prompt relief must be obtained. There is no necessity of incurring the expense of a physician's services in such cases if Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is at hand. A dose of this remedy will relieve the patient before a doctor could arrive. It has never been known to fail, even in the most severe and dangerous cases and no family should be without it.

FEEDING TURKEYS.
When cold weather comes we begin to feed oats for the turkeys' breakfast, writes an Indiana farmer in American Agriculturist. When they come home at night they take their supper with our hogs, which are fed corn. We consider oats one of the best foods for young stock and have found it a great farm and muscle builder. After we have gathered our apples and the best of our garden vegetables we give the turkeys free access to the orchard and green. This gives them a chance to procure a good deal of vegetable food. We also gather a good many cabbages and other vegetables which are too small to sell and feed them to the turkeys during the winter.
The Molting Hens.
To help molting and tone up the whole system and to clean up part of the feed one tablespoonful of the following mixture: One ounce each carbonate of iron, pulverized gentian root, black antimony, mandarin, ginger and flour of sulphur; three ounces bicarbonate of soda, four ounces flaxseed meal. Start feeding this at the beginning of the molting season and use every other meal until the hens have their new feathers.—American Agriculturist.
Concerning Clover.
A bulletin of the Maine experiment station gives in detail the results of two years' study of red clover obtained from different parts of the world. It was found among other things that the European clovers were invariably smooth and free from hairs on stem and leaves while American clovers were invariably more or less hairy. This may be an important factor in relation to the dustiness of clover hay.
Hints For The Pig.
Wherever roots are used as part of the pig's ration quite remarkable results are obtained, apparently out of all proportion to the feeding value of the roots. This seems to show that the root acts to render grain food more digestible. Although pigs do not like raw turnips, yet when the turnips are cooked and mixed with raw potatoes or cabbages they will eat them readily. When a small amount of bran is fed with this mash, good gains are made.
Feeding The Dairy Cow.
A cow must receive an abundant supply of feed at all times if we expect her to produce a large flow of milk. Spasmodic spurts of feeding count for naught, but it is the evenly sustained yields that produce large records.—Hoar's Dairyman.
Marketing A Horse.
When fitting a horse for the market bear in mind the fact that 100 pounds of fat on the animal will often add $100 to his selling value and sometimes more than that.
Harvesting Beans.
Beans at harvest time are likely to sustain damage if the pods are allowed to be in contact with the soil long as a time.

FIENDISH SUFFERING
is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Bell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklee's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothe and heal cuts, burns and scalds; 25c at all druggists; guaranteed.
Washing Colored Fabrics.
To launder colored cotton fabrics and keep their color bright have ready starch and a large tubful of rinsing water. Have a half tubful of lukewarm water very soap and leave the soap in the water while washing. Turn the garments wrong side out and wash, rinse, starch and hang in the shade, finishing one piece before wetting the rest. Do not rub soap on the material unless it is very much soiled. Let the clothes lie sprinkled a very short time and iron on the wrong side with iron rarely hot enough to dry the goods steely. Turn and press hems and seams on the right side. In this way the little girls' school dresses can be bright and fresh all summer.
Hot Plate Holder.
When the edge of a plate is grasped with anything like metal jaws there is great liability of breakage or of the plate slipping or overturning its contents. An inventor, however, has discovered that by making the jaws of a wire frame plate holder somewhat irregular, so long as they are not too greatly out of balance, and by provid-

HINTS FOR FARMERS
Cure For Hoop.
Hoop in the last stage cannot be cured. When it has reached such a stage the fowl should be killed and buried or buried so deeply that it cannot be dug up.
In the early stages of the disease treatment may be administered that will prove effectual. Dissolve two ounces of permanganate of potash in six and one-half pints of water. Completely submerge the fowl's head in this solution and hold it there as long as the bird can endure it without choking to death. This will cause it to sneeze, thus forcing the solution through the nostrils, when it comes in contact with the diseased parts. Repeat two or three times morning and evening. Next dilute some of the same solution with four times as much water and give the fowl to drink, allowing no other water.—Chicago Inter Ocean.
Mottles In Butter.
Recent investigations made by the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., prove that the mottles of modern dairy methods rest, so far as mottling is concerned, upon securing removal of casein compounds rather than upon distributing the salt evenly. Butter entirely freed from the casein of the milk—that is, butter washed thoroughly enough to get rid of all buttermilk—will not produce mottles, no matter how unevenly the salt be distributed, and butter containing an excess of buttermilk will produce mottles even if the salt is uniform throughout the mass.
The bulletin notes experimentally the effect of many factors upon mottling and shows clearly that only those which prevent perfect removal of the buttermilk tend to produce the defect.
The Farm Horse In Summer.
I make it a practice to give to work horses some grass commencing with the first of May, turning them out as soon as their grain is eaten and putting them in the stable again before dark, says Cyrus Greene in American Cultivator. A little grass, a roll and a taste of dirt afford them much pleasure, and it takes but little time to do it. Between the horse and the barn there is about one-third of an acre, and no stock but horses are allowed in this inclosure, and not even when it is soft enough to injure the grass. At most the horses cannot get far from the stable, and when wanted I catch one, and the rest follow. They soon get used to this and consider it a part of their daily routine. It takes but little time to attend to it, and great benefit is derived from it.
Protects The Hands.
One fine jaw—say the lower—with rubber surfaces at points so that they may hold frictionally, most of the difficulties heretofore met are overcome. The jaws are formed of separate rivet joints to engage and hold the rivet pin upon which they oscillate. A continuation of the jaws reserved from the pivot pin forms the handles, which are generously large and normally held open by a spring. The rubber bosses or knobs on the lower jaw are held in place by loops ending in a point. Fig. 1 shows the holder open. In Fig. 2 it holds a plate.
Washing Glass and China.
Delicate china and glass should first of all be washed in lukewarm water, and then, if the result is not satisfactory, hot water may be employed, for it is not the heat that does the damage, but the suddenness of its application. Even thick cut glass will crack if heat is suddenly applied, and the best way to wash it is in warm suds and then cover with sandpaper.
When the sandpaper is dry brush it off with a soft brush, going carefully into all the little crevices, and finish polishing it with a soft cloth. It will be bright and sparkling after this treatment.
Cucumber For Sunburn.
A wash that is soothing and bleaching after burning or to be used for tan is made of the juice of one large cucumber, to which is added twelve drops of tincture of benzoin or enough to make the mixture milky. This is not to be put in until the juice is cold. Then add ten drops of essence of violet. To use wipe on with a soft cloth and let the juice dry on. This may also be wiped over the face at night.
To Relieve Croup.
Take several good sized potatoes, roast them well in a good oven and when done burst them and apply on a rag or handkerchief to the throat in the same way as a poultice; heat as long as possible, then renew when cold. This is a simple but famous remedy and gives quick relief to the throat, breaking very stubborn croupies. The potatoes hold the heat longer than anything, helping to burst the abscess.
Bread Milk.
If when boiling milk it should happen to burn upon it at once into a pitcher and stand it into a basin of cold water until it is cool, when it will be found to be quite free from the burned smell and taste.
To Clean Nickel.
To clean nickel use pulverized borax. Scour thoroughly, using hot water and very little soap. Then rinse in hot water and rub dry with a clean cloth.

PECULIAR DISAPPEARANCE.
J. D. Royan, of Burlington, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful, symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headache, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at all druggists' price 25c.
The noblest mission in the world is to be a noble man.
