MATRIMONIAL MANIA.

The One To Marry is the Woman You Love, and No Other One.

We have just been shown a marimonial journal in which men adtertise for wives the same as they would for a horse. The way in which the majority of men marry, is nothing short of a burlesque upon the "sacred institution." They set about looking for a wife as they. would for a horse. They make an inventory of "her good points," ascertain the quickness of her movements, the state of her digestion, her capacity for economy, the yielding quality of her disposition; if she "suits" they propose partnership, and women are such fools, if we must say it, fools from the force of circumstances and custom, as to say "yes," when with all the thunder of their souls they should say "no." Such offers of marriages are insults to the women who receive them, a shame and disgrace to the men who make them, and rank dishonor to the Lord who created them.

There is nothing in the moral, spiritual or physical universe that makes marriage respectable, but love. Without it there can be no into a loathsome, demoralizing burden. The time to marry is when love demands it, and not head in muslin or silk, or the cubugs on them. The one to marry is the woman you love, and no other one. That, and that alone should decide. Riches may take wings and flee away: beauty may fade: good health is a very excelan hour or a moment may ruin tire best of health. A man who marries from "married considerations," usually gets what he deserves its full equivalent in unhappiness. A man who marries for beauty, learns, as no other It was a flowery sermon, wife one of his very best, man can, how hideous and loathin this matter, remembering that it demands the best and noblest in you that it is sacred and holy,

WOULD FATE BE KIND?

Would Fare be kind, and give our childhood back, All the long years which we have left behind. And bid us walk again the self-same track Which we have followed, ignorest and blind-

Should we be glid the same old path to find, With every sorrow, every loss and lack, And every burden for the heart and mind-Would Fate be kind and give our childhood back?

Would Grief's wild storms, Disaster's Thunder-crack, Be recompensed by all Life's joys combined? Would we toil on beneath Care's heavy pack, All the long years which we have left behind? Fair fruits were bitter, underneath the rind;

Would we rejoice, should Fate her skein rewind, And bid us walk again the self-same track? Why change the dates in Time's grim almanae? Safe with the past fer them remain enshrined; Nor crave the path in Life's cramped zodiac

Which we have followed, ignorant and blind

In bluest skies the tempest gathered black;

We should not be more happy or resigned. Nor suffer less from scourge, and knout, and rack, Briers and thorns with nettles intertwined, If she should send us on the self-same track, Would Fate be kind?
