TATTLERS.

What Punishment They Deserve We Do Not Know, But God

"Oh, could there in this world be found

Some little spot of happy ground, Where village pleasures might go eround:

Without the village tattling How doubly blest that spot would

Where all in ghr dwell in liberty,

Free from the bitter misery

Of gossip's endless tartling! Every community is cursed by a class of people who make it their business to attend to everybody's business but their own. Such people are the meanest specimens of humanity which an all wise Providence permits to exist on this green earth. It is well known that almost every person is sometimes disposed to speak evil of others; and tanling is a sin from which very few can claim to be exempt. But the object of this article is to call attention to that distinct class of taulers who make tale-bearing the constant business of their lives. Fortunately we have but few in this community, but no community is entirely free from them. They pry into the private affairs of every family in the neighborhood, they know the exact state of one's neighbor's feelings toward another; they understand everybody's faults, and no little blunder or misdemeanor ever escapes their vigilant watch- |; fulness. They are particularly well posted on every thing connected with courtship and matrimony; know who are going to marry and can guess the exact time when the golden knot will be tied. They watch every movement of parties suspected of matrimontal intentions, and if there is the slightest cliance to create a disturbance, excite lealousy, or 'break-up' a match, they take immediate advantage of it and do all in their power to keep people in and honeved words of friendship Tattlers are confined to no particular class of society. They belong to all classes, and operate in all. We find them among the rich and the poor-"upper ten" and the "lower million" in the church and out of it. They are people who have no higher ambition than to be well informed in regard to other people's private business, to retail scandal to their neighbors, and exult in fiendish triumph over the wounded feelings and bruised hearts of their innocent victims. Our contempt for such graceless creatures knows no bounds, and we can find no words in which to express its infamy. What punish-ment they deserve we cannot know; but God knows, and as sure as His eternal justice reigns, they will receive a retribution proportioned to the magnitude of their offenses against the laws of God and the in-

That our American rorests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians bad discovered the useful-ness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This informa-tion, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations untio-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cut-off most obtained and fatal diseases if we would properly investigate them; and in sufficiently of this conviction, he points with prime. ROANOKE RIVER SCENE

This beautiful scene can be viewed from Smith's Island, near Weldon. This island is owned by Mr. W. R. Smith, cashier of the Bank of Weldon, and is one of the loveliest pieces of land along the fertile valleys of the Roanoke, and having a delightful, cool, bubbling spring of pure water upon it, it is an ideal spot for pic-nics. This island contains 214 acres
