

THE ROANOKE NEWS.

Advertising Rates Made Known on Application.

VOL. XLII.

A NEWSPAPER FOR THE PEOPLE.

Terms of Subscription--$1.50 Per Annum

NO. 35.

WELDON, N. C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1908.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

THE GENTZ CO., NEW YORK CITY

See Page 25.

North Pages 24 and 25.

P. N. STAINBACK,
UNDERTAKER,
Weldon, North Carolina.

Full Line of CASKETS, COFFINS and ROBES.

Day, Night and Out-of-Town Calls Promptly Attended to.

H. G. ROWE,

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND EMBALMER.

Seventeen years' Experience. Hearse Service Anywhere.

THE BANK OF WELDON
WELDON, N. C.

Organized Under the Laws of the State of North Carolina.

AUGUST 20TH, 1899.

State of North Carolina Depository

Halifax County Depository.

Town of Weldon Depository.

Capital and Surplus, $40,000.

For more than fifteen years the Bank has been a creditable banking institution for this section. Its stockholders and directors have been showing with the business interests of Halifax and Northampton counties for many years. Money is loaned upon ample security at the legal rate of interest--six per cent. Amounts of all are solicited.

The surplus and undivided profits having reached a sum total in the Capital Stock, the Bank has, by unanimous resolution of 1908, established a Savings Department allowing interest on time deposits as follows: One Deposit Account, three months, 4 per cent.; six months, 5 per cent.; one year, 5 per cent.; two years, 5 per cent.; three years, 5 per cent.; four years or longer, 5 per cent. For further information apply to the President or Cashier.

Further information apply to the President or Cashier.

W. E. DANIEL, Dr. H. W. LEWIS, W. H. SMITH

Jackson, Northampton County.

SEABOARD
AIR LINE RAILWAY

SCHEDULE EFFECTIVE SEPT. 13, 1908.

These arrivals and departures are only as information for the public and are not guaranteed, and are subject to change without notice.

Trains will leave WELDON as follows:

No. 32 for Portsmouth and Norfolk at 4:55 a.m.
No. 38 for " " " at 3:00 p.m.
No. 41 for Raleigh and points South at 12:07 p.m.
No. 33 through train South at 11:38 p.m.

We operate Double Daily vestibule service with through Pullman cars to Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis, Pittsburgh, Norfolk, Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

For further information relative to rates, schedules, etc., apply to

CLEVELAND E. CARTER,

Ticket Agent, Weldon, N. C.

Or write to

C. H. GATTIS,
Traveling Passenger Agent,
Raleigh, N. C.

Sold by W. M. Cohen, Weldon, N. C.

Keeney's Laxative Cough Syrup stops the cough by alaying inflammation of the throat and lungs, and the colds and fevers, which are so common in winter. It is good for colds and fever troubles, and for colds down the bronchial tubes, which are caused by electric batteries and purify the blood, banish the nervousness, impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 39¢ at any drug store.

During courtship a man's word goes about seventeen times as far as it does after marriage.

Keeney's Laxative Cough Syrup stops the cough by alaying inflammation of the throat and lungs, and the colds and fevers, which are so common in winter. It is good for colds and fever troubles, and for colds down the bronchial tubes, which are caused by electric batteries and purify the blood, banish the nervousness, impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 39¢ at any drug store.

Marriage, like salid, is a failure when the dressing is poor.

Get all the good food you like. Quit dieting. You don't have to diet to cure dyspepsia or indigestion that way, but rather you must add strength to the weak stomach by taking something that will digest the food which the stomach cannot digest. That is the only thing known to man that will do this, for Kodol is made of natural digestive juices found in a healthy stomach, and it digests all food completely. Kodol is pleasant to take and is guaranteed to give relief in any case of stomach trouble.

Kodol for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, stomach, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, etc., is a combination of the natural digestive juices found in a healthy stomach with necessary vegetable needs, and is the only thing known today that will completely digest all kinds of food under any condition. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief from any form of stomach trouble. Take Kodol and be convinced. It will cure your dyspepsia.

Sold under guarantee at any drug store. 25¢.

Medicine That Is Medicine.

"I have suffered a good deal with flatulence and stomach complaints lately. I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that is Keeney's Laxative Cough and Cold Syrup, and for colds down the bronchial tubes, I find it is good for colds and fever troubles, and for colds down the bronchial tubes, which are caused by electric batteries and purify the blood, banish the nervousness, impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 39¢ at any drug store."

If you would keep on the safe side beware of people who try to get on the good side of you.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Chas. H. Fletcher

A married woman cares more for dress than a man; a spinster cares more for a man.

This is Worth Reading.

Leo F. Zelinski, of 61 Gibson St., Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I cured the most annoying cold sore I ever had, with Keeney's Aronia Salve. I applied this salve once a day for two days, when every trace of the sore was gone." Heals all sores. Sold under guarantee at any drug store. 25¢.

The New Year's Cake

How the Wonderful Dainty Was Prepared by the Twelve Merry Months

Historic New Year

When the Trent Affair Threatened to Cause War With Great Britain

How Mason and Slidell Were Surrendered by Lincoln and Seward

In Old New York.

First Leaf From the Diary of a Gentleman in 1860.

This is a long-time extract from the diary of a New York gentleman in the year 1860.

"Jan. 1. Awoke early and dressed, wore my blue calico shirt and white satin cravat. Made coffee table, though have been wearing them a week. The mail arrived at 9 o'clock and my copy of my favorite book came better after breakfast. Supperless. Wished to dress, but wife gives no light as usual, neither am I fond of getting up.

"After being dressed, we were expected to be at the Trent. Mrs. and I made each one doing some house work, and my wife, mother, and myself went to see the Trent at 2 P.M. and the ship was anchored in the harbor.

"Colonel E. D. Webster of Nebraska was at that time the private secretary of William H. Seward, Lincoln's great secretary of state. The following story of the incidents which led up to a settlement of that most serious imbroglio came from the lips of Colonel Webster himself:

"When Captain Charles Wilkes of the United States navy sent San Jacinto, returning from an unsuccessful chase of the privateer Sumter, to intercept the Trent, with Mason and Slidell on board, he took off the two commissioners and their attaches and handed them as prisoners of war to Fort Warren, in Boston Harbor.

"John Bull went into an indignant howling rage. He demanded the release of the prisoners and an apology.

"To show that it meant business, he sent troops to Canada and began preparations for war. In addition to his formal demand he sent a little personal note to his minister at Washington directing him to place the United States just seven days in comedy.

"John Bull's ultimatum reached Washington on Thursday, Dec. 31.

"Friday and Saturday passed without action. Sunday was a day of quiet and suspense. The alarm of a big bombing device devolved to affairs of state. The swarm of clerks had melted into a straggling individual here and there; the hum of a noisy, surging public had died away into the hollow echo of an occasional footfall in those reverberating halls. Seizing this period of quiet and freedom from interruption. Secretary Seward called the minister, acting on his orders, would have received his things and left Washington for Europe.

"Years afterward, when John Hay was secretary of marine at Paris and Colonel Webster was counsel of Bradford, I heard that Hay had in the army French, English, and German words about the paper which Lincoln had unmercifully destroyed on that memorable Sunday in Washington. Hay explained that it was a dispatch which had prepared in answer to Great Britain's demand and that it was directly opposed to the proposed terms of Seward's dispatch. Lincoln's dispatch was never submitted to his cabinet.

"Wilkes had prepared for it the next day, but the papers had not yet come in one in time. Without his knowledge, he had written to his wife, Mrs. Mary Hayes, telling her that Sunday afternoon he intended to go to the office of the Postmaster General and change the incoming course of American history.

"The next difficulty was to surround Mason and Slidell to Great Britain without raising a storm of indignation and opposition among the people of the north. The cabinet agreed that it would be wise to do it secretly.

"When the plans had been made Mr. Seward called Webster to his desk and asked how long it would take him to get ready to leave Washington on a secret mission of state. "About fifteen minutes," was the reply of the young man. "You will get ready at once, then, and take the next train for New York," was the order. Webster received his instructions and was cautioned above all things to guard the object of his mission from public knowledge.

"A letter to the commandant of the Charlestown navy yard got him a squad of marines, and at his request they were instructed to obey his commands.

"John Bull went into an indignant howling rage. He demanded the release of the prisoners and an apology.

"To show that it meant business, he sent troops to Canada and began preparations for war.

"In the afternoon, just as Mr. Seward was concluding his paper, President Lincoln came into the office accompanied by John Hay. After the usual greetings the president referred to the Trent affair, and the secretary of state explained what he had been doing.

"Lincoln expressed a desire to know the contents of the proposed exchange, and young Webster was directed to read it to him. The president listened attentively and at the conclusion of the reading said:

"Read it again, please, putting a mark at the end of every several or third sentence."

"As the second reading progressed the president's face relaxed and smiling indicated a feeling of relief. As the secretary neared the end Lincoln drew a document from an inside pocket, quietly snatched it from the fireplace and threw it into the flames without a word of comment or explanation.

"Seward's paper, considered one of the ablest and most eloquent in the country, was unburned, his eyes filled with tears. Even the greatest kindred of men could not have been moved to such a scene as this.

"John Bull refused to go ahead without repeated orders, and two telegrams were ordered to carry him on. One crossed him by the feet and another by the arms. They ignored the orders, which were given from the crowd to the landing and bodily waded into the water. The body of the sailor is still missing, but the boat was dipped into the Bay of Fundy at every step. The day was bitterly cold, and by the time Lincoln escaped his garments and reached the little cabin his clothing was almost frozen stiff.

"Then the tug turned to and towed the boat to Provincetown on Cape Cod, where it was met by a British naval vessel.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.

"John Bull, who had been to the Trent to see the commissioners, was compelled to remain at Provincetown, and the British naval vessel took him to the British port of Boston.</p