HAPPY HOMES.

There Goes Out From Them a Blessed Influence Which Connot Be Overestimated.

There are many happy homes, thank God, in every community, and when they exist there goes out from them a blessed influence, which can hardly be overestimated "A real home with a mother in it," whose hospitable doors are ever open to those not so blessed, is a wonderful power for good. If the boys are made welcome they will not be slow to tell it, and there will be in the sweet amenities of home which will draw them from other and less holy influences. It is not possible in this world so full of care and trouble to be always merry. It is quite possible to be always loving and kind. If the business cares of the father and the never ending struggles of the mother with dirt and disorder, cooking, washing, ironing and mending, cannot be banished, they can be wonderfully toned down by the loving sympathy and help which each member of the household can and should give to the other. A home where the golden rule is lived is the nearest possible approach to heaven. The day comes all too soon when the household is scattered-the boys and girls, alas! girls no longer-are gone to make homes for themselves, elsewhere; when some, perhaps, are laid away from our sight, out of reach of kind words or helpful deeds. Happy are we if no sorrowful thoughts haunt us, of hasty words and unkind deeds, if only pleasant memories remain. We may, if our means allow, make our home beautiful and attractive, and it is well to do so. But without the true spirit of home, it will be but a cheerless and desolate mockery-while the 'humble cottage where love dwells and kindness reigns, may most beautifully exemplify the sweetness and blessedness of home.

A great many people have kidney and bladder trouble, mainly due to neglect of the occasional pains in the back, slight thenmatic pains, urinary disorders, etc. Delay in such cases is dangerous. Take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains and all kidney and bladder trouble. Soothing and antiseptie.

The brain is also clouded, he mind and judgement are objected, and many an evil deed or impure thought was be directly traced to the impurely of the boat Four, impure blood can be made nure by the man of Dr. Pjerce's Golden Medical Discovers. —G. W. Belk, in Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine.

And you've come back again you say? The old, old love is glowing yet; You've tried through all the weary years, You've tried, but vainly, to forget; And now you've come to me once more, When time at last has made you free, And offer me again the heart, Whose earthly hopes are bound in me.

Come, come and let me see your face, Your chestnut hair is touched with snow, But still it is the dear old face I loved so fondly years ago, The same as on that summer's day Bent over me and kissed my brow; Oh, happy years of trusting love; Ah! well, it is all over now.

No, no; you must not take my hand; God never gives us back our youth; The love and faith you questioned then Were yours, dear friend, in perfect truth. A woman's wiles, a woman's tongue, Spoke doubt and anguish to your breast; You left me and my heart is dead, No voice can now disturb its rest.

Forgive, but do not speak the word. I know you never meant me wrong; God sent an anguish to my-heart "To teach me to be brave and strong. Farewell! I think I love you yet. As friend does friend; God bless you, dear, And lead you through the darkest way To where the sky is always clear.

ONE DAY,

Oh, heart of mine, through all these perfect days. Whether of white Decembers or green Mays, There runs a dark thought like a creeping snake, Or like a black thread, which by some mistake Life has strung the pearls of happy years: A thought which borders all my joys with tears.

Some day, some day, you, or I alone, Must look upon the scenes we two have known, Must tread the selfsame paths we two have trod, And cry in vain to one who is with God, To lean down from the Silent Realms and say, "I love you," in the old, familiar way.

Some day-and each day, beauteous though it be, Brings closer that dread hour for you or me, Fleet-footed Joy, who hurries time along, Is yet a secret for one who does us wrong. Speeding us gaily, though he well doth know Of yonder pathway where but one may go.

Ay, one will go. To go is sweet, I wis-Yet God must needs invent some special bliss To make His Paradise seem very dear To me who goes and leaves the other here. To sever souls so bound by love and time, For anyone but God, would be a crime.

Yet Death will entertain his own, I think, To one who stays, life gives the gall to drink. To one who stays, or be it you or me, There waits the Garden of Gethsemane. O dark, inevitable and awful day, When one of us must go and one must stay !
