A QUEER PARROT.

The Old Lady Had Reason For Surpriss When the Bird Spoke.

A young ventriloquist, being out of an engagement, decided to pay his widewed mother a visit for a few weeks. On arriving he found she was not at home. A few days after his arrival the appeared, bringing with her a par-rot and cage which had been given fier by a relative. The bird not being able to talk, mother and son spent many tellors hours trying to instruct the parvet. After several futile efforts they gave the job up in despair.

Then a happy idea occurred to the ron. Bringing his ventriloquial powers into requisition, gently at first, be made it appear to his mother that the bird had really begun to talk. The mother not knowing the nature of his avocation, he was successful in decelving her. He had an engagement to folfill which necessitated his departure.

Coming back after the termination of his contract, he was heartly received by his mother and made very welcome Soon after his arrival home he senced and carried on a convercation, as before, wie the parrot. Notenance of his mother, he inquired what was the matter. Imagine his surprise when she replied: "Why, the parrot died while you were away, and I had it stuffed and put back in the cage."-Pearson's
