The Bachelor Survives in Great Numbers, Despite Attacks of Most Skillful Foes.

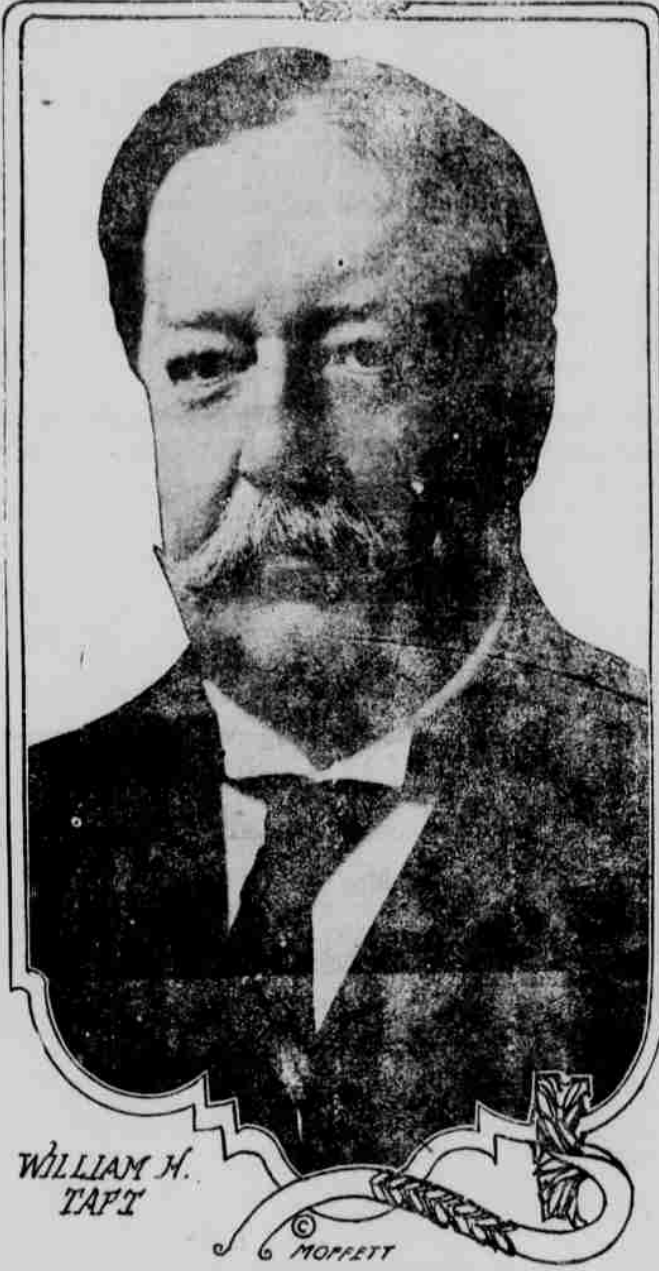

Bachelors, like the poor, we have always with us. They never become extinct. The rising army each year is attacked by an opposing army of females, and each individual is, of course, defeated and led away to the slaughter, yet, in spite of this fact, the bachelor still persists.

Many things conspire to keep him going; for one, there are the cities. Bachelors who live in cities learn to be very comfortable. They can arrange their home decorations to suit themselves, and can at any time bring home a friend to dinner without any criticism from the management.

Bachelors who live in cities can also eat and drink what they please without interference, and so far as all the material comforts are concerned, they can regulate their lives to suit themselves.

On the other hand, the thing that depletes the ranks of the bachelors more than anything else is loneliness. Many bachelors are willing to put up with almost any kind of a hard life so long as they can get some one to share it with. Ease and luxury are, after all, among the minor concerns; after a bachelor has experienced them for a sufficient length of time he is willing to get married, if only to have some one to quarrel with. Man is always looking for trouble.

Pick The Winner.

President Taft, basing his claims for a re-nomination on the record of his administration, has the support of the party organization in many states, and of those Republicans who are opposed to what they consider the too radical ideas of Colonel Roosevelt. Senator Cummins and Senator La Follette.

As soon as Colonel Roosevelt had declared that he would accept the nomination if he were offered him, his admirers in all parts of the country started an active campaign to secure delegates in the convention. The Roosevelt movement is aided by a number of Republican governors and by many persons who formerly were advocates of the nomination of La Follette. The colonel's slogan is that the government must be put again in the hands of the people, and in line with this is his advocacy of a form of recall applied to judicial decisions that affect the people as a whole.

I like to hear 'em laughin'—all the trees an' grass an' things—
The whistling sort of laughin' that's so mellow like it aches.
You start an' look an' listen, an' the which sound word seems still
An' then a sudden, chuckle comes affaith' down the hill
An' drifts across the meadow, an' goes faintly soft an' low.
An' the trees an' grass is laughin'—an' I wonder what they know!

It's something mighty pleasant—an' the witer by the creek
Was the first to get the message, for the witer hears things quick.
It passed the word among 'em, an' they sent it here an' there
Till it was told in whippers that each little breeze could hear.
The blue birds is laughin' as the twigs bend to and fro.
The first the word among 'em, an' I wonder what they know.

The trees out in the orchard, where they've stood as giant an' grim
As if a lot of mournin' had been fastened to each limb,
Woke up the other mornin' an' they murmured something good
An' told it to each other till each other understood.
They picked up like a Jessie that's awfully for her beau
An' nodded mightily gayly—an' I wonder what they know.

The birds' bush that mother has along the garden walk
Is redder than a ruby all along each slender stalk.
The roses still are gloomy, with a frown on every thorn.
But I can hear them laughin', just as sure as I am born.
They've got a word of gladness, but they talk in whippers, though,
An' I wish when I will listen—an' I wonder what they know.

I like to hear 'em laughin'—just to stand an' look around
An' see 'em takin' softly of the secret they have found.
An' something 'em laughs no says the sky is growin' blue.
An' that the dramatic something I've forgotten that I know.
For all the world is laughin' with a laughter soft an' low.
An' I join in the laughin'—an' I wonder what I know.

CORROBORATIVE EVIDENCE.

Day of Excitement.
Mrs. Meddigrass—What was all that crowd doin' down at the post-office today?
Mr. Meddigrass—Why, they got one of these here new revolution' storn doors in the postoffice, an' 'er Mrs. Prewy got to goin' round in it, an' they had to get a rescue party, so's the rest of the town could get their mail.

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own house-work. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 6, Paw Paw, Mich.

"THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. MARGARET MERRITT, R. F. D. No. 3, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were told in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with women's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO., (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

HIS SERMON IN A NUTSHELL.

A popular Irishman, beloved for many a mile around his home town died suddenly. He belonged to several organizations, and the A. O. H. of Bloomville decided to send a representative to his funeral.

The church was packed and the clergyman most sympathetic.

"We will say," he observed in illustration, "that here is a beautiful watch. The case is good and studded with diamonds. It looks like the valuable part of the watch, but you can remove the works and they will keep on ticking."

The delegate returned to his home town and was sounded on the topic of the funeral sermon.

"Well," he reported, "the father said that Pat was no Waterbury."

HAVING FUN.

The brilliant wit of the bar looked at the moon-faced farm laborer and winked at his friends and whispered, "Now we'll have some fun."

"Have you ever been married?" he began.

"Ye-es," stammered the laborer, "once."

"Whom did you marry?"

"A w-woman, sir."

"Come, my good man, of course it was a woman. Did you ever hear of any one marrying a man?"

"Ye-es, sir, my sister did."

A JOKE THAT FAILED.

A farmer drove along the streets of Conway Springs. He had a top on his wagon and over the edge could be seen the heads of several sheep and young stock. As he drove on his way he was accosted by a dude, who, on seeing the "haying," sang out: Say, Noah, your ark seems pretty well crowded to-day.

The farmer looked around, and, unconcerned-like, replied: "Don't worry, I have a place for a jackass, and you can get right in."

The city upstart looked sheepish and the farmer drove on.—Kansas City Times.

J. W. Jordan, a well known dentist of Hopkinsville, Ky., recently had an operation for his kidney trouble, but he says: "The first relief I got was after taking Foley Kidney Pills. They eased the terrible pain in my back and accomplished more good than anything I had tried. I gladly recommend them."

"I am all right now, thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy."

The same relief is ready for you. Are you sure you do not need it? If Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy helped Charles Holmes, why won't it help you?

"I was troubled with heart disease, and after reading about Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I got a bottle. Before I got the Heart Remedy I had to sit up most of the night, and felt very bad at my stomach. Whatever I would eat made me feel worse, and my heart beat very fast. But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I am all right now. I eat good, sleep good, and feel like a new man, although I am about 68 years old. I have been a soldier in the late war of the rebellion, and was badly wounded." CHARLES HOLMES, Private Co.
