QUIT.
We Very Often See "Don'ts" Printed in Papers, but I Think That These "Quits" Are Far Better Than "Don'ts."
QUIT
Saying that fate is against you. Finding fault with the weather. Anticipating evils in the future. Pretending to be your real self. Going around with a gloomy face. Taking offenses where none is intended. Dwelling on fancied slights and wrongs. Talking big things and doing small ones. Scolding and flying into a passion over trifles. Boasting of what you can do instead of doing it. Thinking that life is a grind and not worth living. Talking continually about yourself and your affairs. Saying unkind things about people. Exaggerating and making mountains out of mole hills. Depreciating yourself and making light of your abilities. Prying yourself and bemoaning your lack of opportunities. Comparing yourself with others to your own disadvantage. Lamenting the past holding on to disagreeable experiences. Working once in a while and take time to renew energies. Waiting around for a chance to turn up. Go out and turn them up. Writing letters when the blood is hot, which you will regret. Thinking that all the good chances and opportunities are gone by. Thinking of yourself to exclusion of everything and everybody else. Carping and criticizing. (See the best rather than the worst in others.) Dreaming that you would be happier in some other place or circumstances. Belittling those whom you envy because you feel they are superior to yourself. Dilating on your pains, aches and misfortunes to every one who will listen to you. Speculating as to what you would do in some one else's place and do your best in your own place. Gazing idly into the future and dreaming about it, instead of making the most of the present. Longing for the good things that others have instead of going to work and earning them for yourself. Looking for opportunities hundreds of miles away, instead of right where you are. This means success and happiness, study it, learn it, practice it, and you will become so interested in the other fellow you will forget to be blue.—A. B. Stewart, Centerville, Ala.

IDENTIFYING HIMSELF.
United States Judge Emory Speer, of the Southern district of Georgia, recently had before his court a typical Georgia mountaineer on a charge of illicit distilling. "What's your name?" demanded the judge. "Joshua, judge," drawled the prisoner. "Joshua, who made the sun stand still?" smiled the judge, in amusement at his laconic answer. "No, sir, Joshua who made the moon shine," answered the quick-witted mountaineer. And it is needless to say that Judge Speer made the sentence as light as he possibly could.—Atlanta Journal.

John L. Jones, Saville, Henry county, Virginia, says: "I had a cold with a cough which hung on for two years. They tried everything using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and the cough finally left me and now I am perfectly strong and well." Is best and safest for children and contains no opiates.—A. W. E. CLARK.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure
The Woman Makes the Home
She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

BY THOMAS MOORE.
Oh, the days are gone when Beauty bright
My heart's chain wore;
When my dream of life from morn till night
Was love, still love
New hope may bloom,
And days may come
Of milder, calmer beam,
But there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.
No, there's nothing half so sweet in life
As love's young dream.
Though the bard to purer fame may soar,
When wild youth's past;
Though he win the wise, who frown'd before,
To smile at last;
He'll never meet,
A joy so sweet,
In all his noon of fame,
As when first he sung to woman's ear
His soul-felt flame,
And, at every close, she blushed to hear
The one loved name.
No, that hallowed form is ne'er forgot
Which first love traced;
Still it lingers haunts the greenest spot
On memory's waste.
'Twas the odor fled
As soon as shed;
'Twas morning's winged breath,
'Twas a light that ne'er can shine again
On life's dull stream.
Oh, 'twas light that ne'er can shine again
On life's dull stream.

THE WIDE, SWEET ROAD.

Take the wide, sweet road to the daily toil,
And the road of the sweet dream home,
Where the storm's at rest and the waves asleep
And the soft winds kiss the foam.
Take the wide sweet road to the roaring mart,
And the sweet road home to the loving heart.
Oh, a house is a house and a home is a place
Where living has made life sweet,
And loving has made it a golden goal
And the dream of a glad retreat
Take the wide sweet road to the toil and quest
And the sweet road home to a loving breast.
You may furnish the house with the best effect
And adorn with the daintiest taste.
But without love there it is dark and drear
As night on a desert waste,
Take the wide sweet road to the duty down,
And the sweet road home to her heart from town.
Take the wide sweet road through the golden years,
And make it a way so bright
That the thought and the dream of its pleasant bourne
Will lead to its joy at night.
Take the wide sweet road 'neath the bright blue sky
With a dream of the lips that you kissed good-by,
And home to her heart in the twilight place
Where the home and the heart are a common grace.

HOW COULD YOU, MABEL?
Mabel was visiting her aunt down in the country. One evening she came in the house rather late. "Where in the world have you been all afternoon?" asked her aunt. "In the hammock with my beloved Longfellow." The aunt eyed her sternly. Then she said: "If I hear of any more such scandalous proceedings, I shall certainly write to your mother."
OFFICE ULTIMATUM.
A Fourth avenue business man called his son into the inner sanctum, fixed him with a steady eye, and delivered a few well-chosen remarks. "Son, we have a new typewriter as you may have noticed." "Yes, dad. A blonde." "Just so." "And she's a perfect peach." "I know she is. Now listen carefully." "All right, dad." "I have no objection to your falling in love with her, but that back correspondence must be brought down to date first."—Pittsburg Post.
STRANGER THAN FICTION.
When the doctor says: "You need no medicine." When your wife refuses a new gown. When a magazine accepts your poem. When a summer girl declines to flirt. When you have money after a honeymoon. When a dentist can't find a cavity. When your gold mining stock pays a dividend. When it does not rain on your vacation. When the girl you really love loves you.—Judge.

Profits Doubled With The Benthall Peanut Picker!
If you grow peanuts and do not use a Benthall Peanut Picker, you actually lose money by not using one.
The Benthall makes peanut growing doubly profitable.
The money you pay—the labor from delays in picking your crop early to market—the labor from birds and stealing—cost you more than a machine.
If you own a Benthall, you and your boys can do the work of a hundred hands, and do it better. You send your crop to market early—secure highest prices. You stop the theft of your crop.
Growers now see that hand picking is far too costly.
The folly of attempting to "thresh" them has been plainly shown.
For machines that "thresh" them destroy profits.
They crack the nuts—and cracked nuts will not keep.
They grind the vines to smithereens—and these vines are the equal of alfalfa for feed—worth from $12 to $20 per ton.
Contract with machines with the Benthall.
The vines are fed to the Benthall just as they are to the threshing machine.
The peanuts are pulled off the vine without injury to the shell. The machine picks as delicately as human fingers—hundreds of times more rapidly.
Many buyers give preference to Benthall picked nuts.
The vines are saved in perfect condition for hay.
The receding and lagging attachment makes it unnecessary to run the peanuts over for seed the second time.
This is the picker of proved worth—proved out in the peanut fields of Virginia. Either Spanish or Virginia varieties are picked equally as well.
It is mounted—ready to hitch—as you would a farm wagon. You can easily move it from place to place.
There are models suited for horse or engine power—machines that are made interchangeable.
Every year sees more farmers using the Benthall. It has supplanted all other methods by many persons. And the demand this year promises to be greater than we can supply.
THE MACHINE THAT PAYS FOR ITSELF.
If you don't want to let profits slip thru your fingers—if you want to make money growing peanuts, write us for our folder "How the Benthall Pays For Itself." Sent Free upon request.
