RELUCTANT EVIDENCE

Dr. Osler tells the following to illustrate the elasticity of the English language, as used by the Southern negro.

One day there came to the clinic a negro with a broken jaw. The examining physician, intent on discovering the exact nature and extent of the injury asked numerous questions. To all of them the negro returned evasive answers. Finally she admitted that she was "hit by an object."

"Was it a large object or a small object?" asked the physician.

"Tolle-by large."

"Was it a hard object or a soft object?"

"Tolle-by hard."

"Was it coming rapidly or slowly?"

"Tolle-by fast."

Then, her patience exhausted, the negro turned to the physician. "To tell the truth, doctor, I was just simply kick in the face by a gentleman friend."—Everybody's Magazine.

AFTERWHILE.

This little poem brings to mind a little incident in my own life, of one who never came back.

Fourteen years ago there was visiting me a precious grand-child about 6 years old, the only girl in the family and, of course, idolized, bright and beautiful. The time came for her to return home and on the morning of the day she was to leave she came into my room, hugging up in her arms three little wax dolls. She brought them to me and said: "Sweetie, put these away and keep them till I come back." She waited until she saw me put them in my bureau drawer and cover them up; then she left me. She never came back. She went to heaven one day, and our hearts were sad, indeed. Those doll babies are just where she put them. Not for the world would I have moved them. There they sleep, and like the "little tin soldiers" they wonder and wait for their little mother. God help the mothers who wait for those little ones who have promised to "come back afterwards."

"I'll come back afterwards," he said
As he tucked his head in his cap of gray,
And muffling his throat with a scarf of red
He lovingly called to his mother to say,
"I'll come back afterwards."

"I'll come back afterwards," he said
To his father who sharpened his skates that day,
On the old grindstone. Then onward he sped,
Shouting, "Thanks, I'll give kisses for pay,
I'll come back afterwards."

"I'll come back afterwards," he said
To his dog that sounded a lonesome bay,
"Your foot is so sore; you must keep your bed.
If you're good, you may go some other day,
I'll be back afterwards."

"I'll come back afterwards," he said;
But O! 'tis so long he has been away,
Yet oft-times when skies are with stars o'erspread,
Out of the silence they'll hear him say,
"I'll come back afterwards."

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living today." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50c. and $1. Recommended by all druggists.—Adv.

Many a meek and lowly man has ruled the roost—as a baby.

IF ALL DEPENDED.

Pat Rooney, having been to the fair, was driving home when a great drowsiness overcame him and he lay down in the cart and went to sleep.

The horse, finding himself free to do as he wanted, promptly kicked through the traces and ran away.

When Parawoke he found no horse. While he was wondering over the situation a stranger came up.

"Am I Pat Rooney, or am I not?" asked Pat.

"Oim shure I duuno," answered the stranger.

"Well," said Pat, "if Oim Pat Rooney O've lost a horse, an' if Oim not O've found a cart."

LOST HIS OBJECTIVE.

"Object" drawing has brought a new anxiety to the schools. In certain districts youngsters may be seen moving schoolward with hatchets, knives, hammers, chisels and similar things as materials for their drawing lessons.

The other day just as one of these lessons was about to begin, a small boy was found standing tearfully at the teacher's desk.

"I've swallowed my object," he explained with an alarming gulp.

"What was it?" asked the teacher anxiously.

"A banana," replied the would-be artist with a final gulp.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

WHY NOT?

"Madam, you wear too much false hair. It injures the nerve centers and tangles the blood cells of the brain."

"Young woman, what do you mean by such impertinence?"

"Hoity, toity, now I'm the welfare inspector for the city rich!"

—Judge.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do.

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong, well woman.
