A BEAUTIFUL FATHER.

His Children Had No Idea They Were So Poor.

"Tell your mother you have been very good boys today," said a school teacher to two little new scholars.

"Oh," replied Tommy, "we haven't any mother." "Who takes care of you?"

she asked. "Father does: we've got a beautiful father, you ought to see him "

"Who takes of you when he is at work?"

"He takes all the care before he goes off in the morning, and after he comes back at night. He's a house painter, but there isn't any work this summer, so he's doin' laborin'. He leaves us a warm breakfast when he goes off in the morning and we have bread and milk for dinner, and a good supper when he comes home. Then he tells us stories, and plays on the fife and cuts out beautiful things for us with his jack knife."

Before long the teacher did see the home of that father The room was a poor one, graced with cheap pictures, autumn leaves and other little trifles that cost nothing. The father, who was at the time preparing the evening meal for his motherless boys, was at first glance only a rough, begrimed laborer; but before the stranger had been in the place ten urinutes the room became a palace, and the man a magician.

His children had no idea they were so poor, with such a hero as this to fight their battles for them This man, whose grateful spirit lightened up the life of his children, was preaching to all about him more effectually than was many a minister. He was a man of patience and submission to God's will, showing how to make home happy under the most unfavorable circumstances. He was rearing his boys to be high minded citizens, to put their shoulders to the burdens rather than become burdens to society in the days that are coming. He was, as his children had said, "a beautiful father," in the highest sense of the word. - California Voice
