THE GIRL TO BE AVOIDED.

She is the girl who takes you off in one corner and tells you a secret you wouldn't repeat to your mother.

She is the girl who is anxious to have you join a party which is to be a "dead secret," and which because people are very free and easy, makes you uncomfortable, and wish you were at home.

She is the girl who tries to induce you, "just for fun," to smoke a cigarette, or to take a glass of wine, and you don't know, and possibly she does not, that many of the sinners of today committed their first sin "just for fun."

She is the girl who persuades you that to stay at home and care for and love your own, to help mother, and to have your pleasures at home and where the home people can see them, is stupid and tiresome, and that spending the afternoon walking up and down the streets looking at the windows and people is "just delightful."

She is the girl that persuades you that slang is witty, that a loud dress that attracts the attention is "stylish," and to be on very familiar terms with three or four young men is an evidence of your charms and fascination, instead of being, as it is, an outward, visible sign of your perfect folly.

She is the girl who persuades you that it is a very smart thing to be referred to as a "gay girl." She is very, very much mistaken. Of all the others, she is the girl who, no matter how hard she may try to make you believe in her, is to be avoided.—Ladies' Home Journal.

"Bee Brand Pepper"

If "Bee Brand" Pepper wasn't superior to every other... we wouldn't ask your consideration of it at all!

It's made from the finest raw product that money can buy! It's ground as all "BEE BRAND" PEPPERS ARE GROUND—exactly right! It's lots more trouble, but it couldn't be "Bee Brand" Pepper, if it wasn't the finest made!

If you think there's no difference in Peppers—make one trial of "Bee Brand!" Packed in an airtight tin with sitting tops. Sold by leading grocers. Here are a few:

WELDON, N. C.

DID YOU?

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man, And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue, And the smile would have helped him battle it through.

Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down hill, And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road, Or did you just let him go on with his load?

Do you know what it means to be losing the fight, When a lift just in time might set everything right?
Do you know what it means—just the clasp of a hand When a man's borne about all a man ought to stand?

Did you ask what it was—why the quivering lip? Why the half-suppressed sob and the scalding tears drip?
Were you brother of his when the time came to need? Did you offer to help him, or didn't you heed?

HER TEARS.

She has her tears, that you may never know; She has her heartaches and has her silent woe; Her little daily worries and her daily care That you have never yet been asked to share; Because, for your sake, she has never told— A woman's love is worth its weight in gold.

She has her tears, her little moments when The old sweet dreams and hopes arise again; And she is often lonely and apart In the sad counsel of her woman's heart; Her battle has its bitter, but so true To help your life, she never bothers you.

She has her tears—in many a silent hour They drive upon her with resistless power; But all her skies are sunny when you come, And her sweet lips of tears and grief are dumb; A sunshine maker, not a shadowy she— What holiness in such a love can be!

Hers is the sacrifice amid the strife, Hers is the little giving-in through life, The sweet forgetting of things that sting; That through your day of care the world may sing, The sun may shine and life be good to you— She has her tears but still the smiles break through.

TRAGEDY OF A CIRCUS.

Rejected Suiter for the Hand of Rider Wreaks Awful Revenge.

New York Tribune.

The romantic story of a clown's love for a beautiful equestrienne, her rejection of his ridiculous suit and his terrible revenge has just drifted in St. Petersburg.

Mlle. Fleurette was the principal horsewoman, as well as the principal attraction, in an obscure wandering circus, which recently appeared in Kasan, a small town on the Volga. She was beautiful, graceful and an exquisite rider. No one dreamed that she would figure in a terrible real tragedy of unrequited love.

Mike Festichek was a clown in the same company. He was a plain, simple-hearted man, who looked seriously on foolery as the means of a living, and he was usually such an orthodox buffoon that no one had the remotest idea that he, too, would figure with the fair Fleurette in the tragedy which has shocked the town-people.

The military officers of Kasan brought Mlle. Fleurette flowers, offered their cheers and their hearts. She graciously accepted all their tributes, save the hearts. To all would-be suitors she was adorable but distant.

Among the worshippers was poor Festichek. The man was too poor to give her flowers, and as it was part of his business to cast loving looks toward Mlle. Fleurette while she was performing no one ever suspected the sincere love which lay behind the motley make-up. His loud applause was never understood—nor even by the equestrienne herself. The little services which he rendered her in the ring were merely regarded as absurd burlesque.

At last he summoned up sufficient courage to propose to her. She regarded his stammering protestations with amusement. "You are a clown," she said, "your business is to joke with everybody; so I take your declaration as a joke."

Just then the bell rang for the evening performance. Poor Festichek, too heartbroken at his failure to notice the gibe of an attendant who overheard his declaration of love, went to the ring—to make the people laugh.

He succeeded. He surpassed himself. There was madness in his brain. Caustic witcisms, such as he had never before uttered, poured out from him. The people cheered him, thinking him a genius. Never had they heard such brilliantly pungent jokes. Never had he smacked the heads of the attendants—especially the head of the one who giped him—with such zeal.

When he approached Mlle. Fleurette and bent as if to whisper in the ear of her horse—the people waited in tense silence for another of his brilliant jokes. But he uttered no word. Instead the horse suddenly plunged forward and became unmanageable even by the accomplished Fleurette.

Three times the maddened animal tore around the ring, then it turned a somersault, burying its beautiful rider beneath it, crushing the life from her.

Men ran to the rescue, but Festichek was there before them. He was laughing and dancing at the side of the dead Fleurette and when he cried, "My business is to joke with everyone—even with horses," people knew him for a madman.

He had placed a lighted cigarette in the horse's ear. It was his last joke, for on the way to the police station he committed suicide.

Stop That First Fall Cough!

Check your fall cough or cold at once! Don't wait—it may lead to serious lung trouble, weaken your vitality and develop a chronic lung ailment. Get a bottle of Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey today; it is pure and harmless—use it freely for that fall cough or cold. If baby or children are sick give it to them; it will relieve quickly and permanently. It soothes the irritated throat, lungs and air passages. Horse's Method of Fighting.

In many cavalry combats we hear of more damage done by the weight of the horses than by the weapons of the riders. Wild horses often fight with their teeth as well as their feet.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I got run down and my appetite is poor and I have that weak, listless, always tired feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It's the only great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ASHLER CAMPBELL, R.F.D. No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Hebron, Mo.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sanative Wash, and find today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my household work, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHABLER ROWE, R.F.D. No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

A GOOD RECORD.

"Before I consent to let you have my daughter," said the grim old gentleman, "there are some questions I would like to ask you. Are you quick tempered?"

"Well, yes, to tell the truth, I'm afraid I am."

"Hm! Ever swear?"

"Sometimes, when I become very angry, I do."

"Smoke?"

"Yes, but I have noticed that it injured me."

"Ever drink any intoxicating liquors?"

"I occasionally take a drink, but I'm not a slave to the habit, I assure you."

"Have you ever been in jail?"

"Once, I took some funds to which I had no right, but I did not do it deliberately, I assure you. It was the result of a misunderstanding."

"Yes, it generally is. How about your family? What kind of ancestors did you have?"

"Do you think it is fair to hold a man responsible for what his ancestors did?"

"Answer my question."

"Well, I can't say that my ancestors amounted to a great deal. My grandfather was—was—in short, he was hanged."

"You've never held a job anywhere very long, have you?"

"I can't say that I have."

"What was the highest salary you ever earned?"

"Nineteen dollars a week."

"Ever jump a board bill?"

"I wouldn't exactly call it that. I owe a lady several months' board that I had three or four years ago but I fully intend to pay her some day."

"Have you ever rocked a boat?"

"No, sir; never."

"All right; you can have her."—Columbian Magazine.

Wentworth, California, writes: "It did wonders for my rheumatism, pain is gone as soon as I apply it. I recommend it to my friends as the best remedy I ever used." Guaranteed 30c. at your druggist.

MEAN BRUTE.

"For the sake of Mike, why do you subscribe for this fool magazine?"

"Why, what's the matter with it?"

"Matter?" yelled Mr. Gabb. "Why, there is a paragraph in a story in it that says a woman was speechless with rage."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

REGULAR FANS.

The superintendent of the insane asylum where I was visiting took the inmates to see a ball game.

"How did they behave?"

"Like insane people. Emitted frantic yells and cut up all sorts of extravagant capers."

"I should think other parsons would have become alarmed."

"Oh, no. Nobody suspected that they were not regular fans."—Kansas City Journal.

WHAT EVERY FATHER KNOWS

"Where," said the land agent, addressing an audience of possible purchasers, "where else on the face of the globe will you find in one place copper, tin, iron, cotton, hemp, grain, game?"

A voice replied: "In the pocket of my youngest son!"—Life.

Dizzy? Bilious? Constipated?

Dr. King's New Life Pills will cure you, cause a healthy flow of bile and rid your stomach and bowels of waste and fermenting body poisons. A Delightful Profession for Young Women

IF there is no occupation for a young woman that is more pleasant or congenial, more suited to her ability and nature, none that can give her more personal satisfaction, and if she be a thoroughly trained professional none that offers bigger rewards than that of music teaching. The supply of competent teachers of piano music is far short of the demand.

Has your daughter ever given this matter a thought; have you ever spoken to her about (some day becoming a teacher of music?) if so—buy her a

Leap's Prolific Wheat.

Most Prolific and Best of Milling Wheats

A report on this wheat from Delaware shows a yield of 3,430 bushels on 74 acres, and 281 bushels on 17 acres.

In Maryland it leads in popularity, has proven its superiority in all parts of Virginia; is the most popular variety in North Carolina; leads the list in South Carolina for profitable yielding; in Georgia ranks far above all others; Tennessee growers disclose other wheat for this; at the head of headless wheats in Kentucky, and equally well suited to West Virginia.

Therefore we are justified in recommending Leap's Prolific Wheat for all sections.

We are the original distributors of Leap's Prolific Wheat. Write for DESCRIPTIVE FALL CATALOG.
