BEATING HIM ROUND STUMP.

The following is sent out from Palm Beach, Fla.: "Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, of New York, is reported to have won $4,000 in one night and $600 and $700 on other nights at bridge. Her winnings are said to be larger than those of any other woman here this season." "Bridge" in this case is "bridge whist," a popular society card game. In some places, where they haven't the nerve to play for money straight out, the society folks "beat the devil round the stump" by giving prizes at card games. In the "higher up" social circles, where they are wealthy enough to do as they please—to defy public opinion and the law—they play for money straight out, and really if they're going to gamble it is better to go straight to it.

NOT IN HIS LINE.

"A tramp at the back door who has already eaten a piece of that pie I made yesterday wants to know if you can do anything for him?"

"Tell him, my dear, that I am a commission merchant, not a doctor."—Houston Post.

A SUMMER IN THE VALLEY.

A summer in the valley, with lovers hand in hand,
The babbling Shenandoah singing ditties to the land;
The green land of Virginia,
That it kisses as it flows
Through the country of the clover
And the Eden of the rose.

A summer in the valley, and it makes the soul so young
To hear the Shenandoah on the soft Virginia tongue;
The dream land of Virginia,
With green fields to the knee
In blue grass bobbing gently
O'er the dead that died for Lee.

A summer in the valley, and it's come up little lad
To the waters of the river that are babbling bright and glad,
The waters of Virginia,
With the sunlight in their net,
And the dreams of daisied meadows
With the dew of Dixie wet.

A summer in the valley, just with love to stroll along,
Or swing within the hammock to the low tune of a song;
The song of Shenandoah,
That is silver to the sea
Sings the golden dreams of summer
In the Dixieland of Lee.

BE NATURAL.

Don't Whisper. Don't Try to Make Believe. Be Just Perfectly Natural.

Be what you are. Don't try to imitate some other fellow, and don't try to buy plumage of some other man. If you think the world is flat, be brave enough to insist that you think so—he honest enough to admit it if you are wrong.

If you are getting bald, don't wear a wig—the wind will some day blow it off and your baldness will become a scandal, whereas, now it is simply a misfortune without offense.

If your whiskers are gray, don't paint them, because the coloring will wear out in spots and you betray your attempt to defeat nature in her royal plans.

If your teeth decay and you want to chew bull beef during the high cost of living, go to a china shop and purchase a set of porcelain—you can't help that.

And above all things if you believe in anything, say so, if it is woman suffrage or prohibition or hook worms or pellagra or cabbage snakes—and if you don't believe in 'em say so in just the same loud tone of voice.

Don't whisper. Don't try to make believe. Be just perfectly natural.

The photographer will tell you to look natural and wink occasionally—and you should not forget the fact that you are always before a camera—before the eyes of other men—and if you try to put on frills you haven't got or conceal frills you have got—you'll be photographed in spite of Fate.—Everything.

USING THE TELEPHONE.

"Are you sure you love your neighbor as yourself?" asked St. Peter, who was cross-examining the new arrival.

"Yes," asked the applicant for a golden crown. "For ten years he used my telephone to carry on his business and I never complained."

"Enter, my good man," said St. Peter, with much feeling.—Life.

COURTESY.

A man met another, and while not remembering who he was, but feeling certain that he was acquainted with him, held out his hand and said: "I am sure I have met you somewhere."

"No doubt," was the reply. "I have been there often."—Kansas City Star.

A Delightful Profession for Young Women

HERE is no occupation for a young woman that is more pleasant or congenial, more suited to her ability and nature, none that can give her more personal satisfaction, and if she be a thoroughly trained professional none that offers bigger rewards than that of music teaching. The supply of competent teachers of piano music is far short of the demand.

Has your daughter ever given this matter a thought; have you ever spoken to her about (some day becoming a teacher of music?) if so—buy her a
