IF YOU ARE WELL BRED.
There is No Mistaking the Well Bred and Refined Men and Women.

Good breeding, as that term is applied to personnel, conduct and behaviour, is not a thing which is monopolized by the millionaires or those who pride themselves on being of the aristocracy. Good breeding can as well be found in the cottage of the peasant as in the palace of the king. "High society" does not necessarily mean that good breeding goes with it.

Good breeding, of course, marks the home and the training, though there are people whose rise above their environment and from rough homes find place in the world as being noted for their good breeding, for the excellence of their manners, their behaviour. There is no mistaking the well bred and refined men or women, for they walk in the midst of noise and garb and rudeness and uncouthness with a calmness of demeanor and a perfectness of deportment which gives them a place apart.

Lately we came across a clipping from the Irish World which had in it so many hints for the making of a well bred person that we must pass it along. Of course it does not set out all the requisites, but so many of them that it will be an advantage to read over the list and check it up so as to see where we fail to determine to remedy the matter.

"If you are well bred," says the Irish World:
You will be kind.
You will not use slang.
You will try to make others happy.
You will never indulge in ill-natured gossip.
You will never forget the respect due to age.
You will not swagger and boast of your achievement.
You will not measure your civility by people's bank accounts.
You will be scrupulous in your regard for the rights of others.
You will not forget engagements, promises or obligations of any kind.
You will never make fun of the peculiarities or idiosyncrasies of others.
You will never under any circumstances cause another pain if you can help it.
You will not think that "good intentions" compensates for rude or gruff manners.
You will be as agreeable to your social inferiors as to your equals and superiors.
You will not have two sets of manners, one for "company" and one for home use.
You will never remind a cripple of his deformity or probe the sore spots of a sensitive soul.

LAND 'O DREAMS.

It seemed a thousand years ago—and it was twenty, maybe, And what now seems a fairy tale was but a simple farm; But, oh, the rose-lit rapture, when in dreaming I remember The way the huddled maples held the old house close and warm.

There were doves around the eaves, and cattle on the hillside, And little lambs that nuzzled in the fragrant clover fields. I remember how we watched them in the purple light, together— Strange what a plenteous harvest each deep-sown memory yields!

And then the long, brown, winding road, and you were gone—so swiftly, It seemed the night had settled, though the sun was golden-bright; And I have cried your name aloud—how foolish Youth can suffer!— When all was still and silent on the kindly arm of Night.

It seems a thousand years ago—and it was twenty, maybe, A deathly, deep tranquility of slow years has been born; But, oh, dear Brushwood Boy of mine, I ask; do you remember The way the sunset deepened on the gilded rows of corn?
—Southern Woman's Magazine.

GROWING OLD.

A little more tired at close of day,
A little less anxious to have our way;
A little less ready to scold and blame,
A little more care of a brother's name;
And so we are nearing the journey's end,
Where time and eternity meet and blend.

A little more love for the friends of youth,
A little less zeal for established truth;
A little more charity in our views,
A little less thirst for the daily news;
And so we are holding our tents away,
And passing in silence at close of day.

A little less care for bonds and gold,
A little more zest in the days of old;
A broader view and a saner mind,
A little more love for all mankind;
And so we are faring down the way
That leads to the gates of a better day.

A little more leisure to sit and dream,
A little more real the things unseen;
A little nearer to those ahead,
With visions of those long loved and dead;
And so we are going, where all must go,
To the place the living may never know.

ARRANGING YOUR FATE.

First Say to Yourself What You Would Be, and Then Do What You Have To Do.

Many parents become much distressed upon the question what trade or profession they should select for their boys. Here is a bit of wisdom: "First say to yourself what you would be, and then do what you have to do." The idea is, you cannot plan your life from the start. It will get its scope and direction when one starts his life. What he does is determined by what there is to do and what is attractive at the time he is called upon to act.

The only preparation for life is entirely personal—making oneself faithful, courageous, diligent, self-reliant, thoughtful, unselfish—in fine, to make a true man of oneself, and then he is prepared for the conditions that confront him in the future. If he becomes a farmer, a doctor, a mechanic, a banker, or what not, he will need in all these directions many qualities before special instructions, for the latter takes wings and flies away at the first temptation.

Epicurus has it done fine, "and then do what you have to do," but there is no following that advice wise unless manhood answers the call. Wait and see what the world has for you before you take to a run, but in the meantime recollect that moral quality is far ahead of expert knowledge.—Ohio State Journal.

No man can win success unless he is in love with his work.

Instead of wearing a laurel wreath the modern poet struggles along without a haircut.

Fortune is he who sees the point of a joke instead of feeling it.

To have what you want is wealth; to do without is power.

It is a sign of rain when some one hypothecates your umbrella.

SOME DISAGREEMENT.

A newspaper man was on the witness stand and the attorney was trying to find out something about him.

"Where did you work last?" he asked.

"On the Milwaukee Sentinel."

"Why did you leave?"

"The editor and I disagreed on a national political question."

"Where did you work next?"

"On the New Orleans Times."

"Why did you leave?"

"The editor and I disagreed on a national political question."

This was the reply in every instance, and the judge took a hand.

"What was this national political question?" he asked, "upon which you could never agree with your chiefs?"

"Prohibition."—Albany Press.

THEY OFTEN DO THAT.

A certain politician has the happy knack of being able to parry inconvenient interruptions with some smart retort that immediately squashes the opposition. He was speaking at a rather noisy meeting not long ago and after a short time a big lump of wood was thrown at him. Fortunately the aim was bad, and fell harmlessly on the platform.

The speaker picked it up and showed it to the audience.

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed, in tones of mock anxiety, "one of our opponents has lost his head!" —Exchange.

HIS JOLTED PRIDE.

Owing to the war a wealthy Bostonian, deprived of his summer trip to Europe, went to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in its stead. Stopping off at Salt Lake City he strolled about the city and made the acquaintance of a little Mormon girl.

"I'm from Boston," he said to her, "I suppose you don't know where Boston is?"

"Oh, yes, I do," answered the little girl eagerly. "Our Sunday school has a missionary there."

A DOZEN "DO'S" FOR YOUTHS.

Pastor Sets Out Those Rules Which Young Men Should Follow.

A dozen "Do's" for church going have been prepared by the Rev. C. L. Peck, of Cleveland.

Here are his "Do's" for young men:

Demand a strict account of the little things in life.
Build your fortune in good manners.
Tact and common sense are the secret of a successful life.
Have grit and pluck.
Live within your means. Extravagance is the road to failure.
Make the goal of your life greater than wealth.
Seek first the kingdom of Heaven and make a Christian life your foundation.
Be on time.
Always wear a smile in the home office or factory. You must take your joy to Heaven with you, for you will not find it there.
Be prepared for your job.
Have respect for honesty. —Cleveland Press.

WOMAN HAD NERVOUS TROUBLE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I work nearly all the time, as we live on a farm and I have four girls. I do all my sewing and other work with their help, so it shows that I stand it real well. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINGEBACH, West Danby, N. Y.

Sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, backache, headaches, dragging sensations, all point to female derangements which may be overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

DO YOU intend to continue laboring, burning valuable fuel and destroying high-priced food with that old worn-out stove?

You know that old stove eats up a lot of fuel each year. You know you have trouble in getting it to bake just right, in fact, spoil a batch of bread every once in a while—you know it costs considerable for repairs. Stop and think and figure. Wouldn't it pay you to buy a good range—a range with a reputation—

GREAT MAJESTIC Malleable and Charcoal Iron RANGE

YOU make no mistake in buying the Great Majestic—it's the range with the reputation—ask your neighbors. Then, too, its made just right and of the right kind of material—Malleable and Charcoal Iron—riveted together practically air tight—lined with pure asbestos—parts being malleable can't break—has a movable reservoir and an oven that don't warp—that's why the Majestic uses so little fuel, bakes just right every day in the year (browns bread just right all over without turning) heats 15 gallons of water while breakfast is cooking—properly handled lasts a lifetime, and costs practically nothing for repairs.

Don't buy the range you expect to last a lifetime "unsight unseen;" you'll be sure to be disappointed. Come to our store during demonstration week, see the Great Majestic—have its many exclusive features explained—find out why the Majestic is 300 per cent. stronger than other ranges where most ranges are weakest.

Don't overlook the date. This is a special invitation to you and your friends and neighbors.
