LAYING UP TREASURES.

It Is Good Christian Doctrine to Scatter With Both Hands and Gather With But One.

Reflecting upon the disasters and destruction abroad and the rapidly increasing wealth of a millionaire class at home, leads the week-end moralizer to serious thought upon the childishness, the futility and, perhaps, the selfishness of piling up for one's self not only stocks and bonds and many mansions, but an array of personal possessions that it wears the ordinary brain to enumerate. There is a growing greed for things, we believe, in the make up of many whose dollars covers all their wants, are numerous enough to gratify for them every passing whim, no matter how bizarre and extravagant, and still pile up as "an unused increment."

Women of this class develop cults, as collectors of rugs, rare china, prints, paintings—anything costly beyond reckoning. Men build for themselves houses, we can hardly say homes, as that is a noun of the singular number, only, in its individual application. They hasten from seashore to mountain, from country to city, from hotel to train de luxe. This very hurry of existence kills the simple virtue of contentment, and weakens or destroys the home attachment of the children with which these people are usually meagerly provided. How can childhood burrow deep with the roots of love and possession about a half dozen "vines and fig trees?" And how can any one really love articles of virtue too costly and numerous to make for themselves a nook in the heart of hearts?

This may sound like socialism, but it is Christianity pure and undefiled. Could the Master, who had not where to lay his head, and whom we strive to imitate, have rested at night if we have had homes, and there was one "made in His image" who had not one? And as to possessions, He said, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust doth not corrupt and thieves break through and steal." He knew how hard it was to lay up treasures here and in heaven. It is good Christian doctrine to scatter with both hands and gather with but one. And, too, it is for such a little while. And the things we give away are the only things we can take with us into the presence of the Shining One.

Practical Economy

Baking powders made from alum or phosphate may be bought for a trifle less than Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes.

Alum powders are not only cheap, but they differ greatly in leavening power.

If a cheap baking powder is used for a fine cake and the cake turns out a failure there is a waste of costly materials worth more than a whole can of the cheap baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder produces the finest food, and its use therefore, results in an actual saving.

A PAGAN'S FAITH.

Love's my faith and the golden creed Of my daily life and my hourly need. 'Tisn't a doctrine—I wouldn't say That I'd like to think of it just that way. For it's something sweeter and far more human With its counterpart in the way a woman Will cling and hover around her fate— And whether a matter of love or hate— Faithful still as her heart forgives The blow that embitters the life she lives.

Love's my faith—that it will come true However we trust, whatever we do, It will all come back to the simple creed Of love as the greatest human need. That love is the finest flower of faith, That all else fades, like a morning wraith, That all else weakens and pales and dies But the love we find in a woman's eyes, Of the love we find in a woman's soul— The ultimate flower of the perfect whole.

Love's my faith—and I'll take my way Through life with its creed of the day-by-day. And fight my battle and meet my blows With love as the rose beyond the rose With love for my spring with its gentle dew; With love for my guide to the way made true By the bleeding feet of love alone As they stumble their way to the mystic throne At whose armposts angels of love—love only— Shall welcome us in from our world so lonely.

OPPORTUNITY.

A judgeship is vacant; the ermine awaits The shoulders of youth, brave, honest, and true; Some one will be standing by fame's open gates; I wonder, my boys—will it be one of you?

The president's chair of a great railroad maze Is empty today, for death claimed his due; The directors are choosing a man for his place; I wonder, my boys—will it be one of you?

A pulpit is waiting for some one to fill. Of eloquent men there are only a few, The man who can fill it must have power to thrill; The best will be chosen—will it be one of you?

The great men about us will pass to their rest, Their places be filled by the boys who pursue The search for the highest, the noblest, the best. I wonder who will fill them; I hope 'twill be you.

Silence is sound put to sleep. Told That There Was No Cure For Him.

"After suffering for over twenty years with indigestion and having some of the best doctors here tell me there was no cure for me, I think it only right to tell for the sake of other sufferers as your own satisfaction that a 25c. bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets not only relieved me but cured me within two months although I am a man of 65 years," writes Jul. Grobrien, Houston, Texas. Obtainable everywhere.

MY MOTHER.

May the Peace and the Joy That Passes All Understanding Be Yours Forever.

"For the body you gave me, the bone and the sinew, the heart and the brain that are yours, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the light in my eyes, the blood in my veins, for my speech, for my life, for my being. All that I am is from you who bore me.

"From all the love that you gave me, unmeasured from the beginning, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the hand that led me, the voice that directed me, the breast that nestled me, the arm that shielded me, the lap that rested me. All that I am is by you who nursed me.

"For your smile in the morning and your kiss at night, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for the tears you shed over me, the songs to me, the prayers you said for me, for your vigils and ministrings. All that I am is by you who reared me.

"For the faith you had in me, the hope you had for me, for your trust and your pride, my mother, I thank you. I thank you for your praise and your chiding, for the justice you bred into me, and the honor you made me. All that I am you taught me.

"For the sore travail I caused you, for the visions of despair, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me the peril I brought to you, the sobs and the moans I wrung from you, and for the strength I took from you, mother, forgive me.

"For the tears I gave you, for the alarms and the dread, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me the joys I deprived you, the tolls I made for you for the hours, the days, and the years I claimed from you, mother, forgive me.

"For the times I hurt you, the times I did not smile for you, the caresses I did not give you, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me for my angers and revols, for my deceits and evasions, for all the pangs and sorrows I brought you, mother, forgive me.

"For your lessons I did not learn, for your wishes I did not heed, for the counsels I did not obey, my mother, forgive me. Forgive me my pride in my youth, and my glory in my strength that forgot the holiness in your years and the veneration of your weakness, for my neglect, for my selfishness, for all the great debts of your love that I have not paid, my mother, sweet mother, forgive me.

"And may the peace and joy that passeth all understanding be yours, my mother, forever and ever."—Tom Dillon.

HIS CONSTANT THOUGHT.

They met by chance in the waiting room of a railway station.

"My friend," began the man with the bag full of tracts, persuasively, "have you ever reflected on the shortness of life, the uncertainty of all things here below, and the fact that death is inevitable?"
"Have I?" replied the man in the shaggy overcoat, cheerfully.
"Well, I should say so. I'm a life insurance agent!"—Exchange.

FOR BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING COUGH, CROUP, COUGHS AND COLDS

Make the Best Remedy at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 cents.

If everything was sold in as liberal and fair a manner as the below named druggists are selling Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, absolutely no cause for complaint or dissatisfaction could possibly arise from anyone. These druggists say—"Buy a bottle of this remedy and try it for Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Severe Cough, Croup or any Bronchial Affection, and we will return your money, just the same as we do with Schiffmann's famous Asthmador, if it does not give satisfaction, or if not found the best remedy ever used for any of these complaints." Why not take advantage of this guarantee and try this medicine, and get your money back, rather than buying another purely on the exaggerated claims of the manufacturer or on the strength of testimonials from others and run the chance of getting something worthless and also wasting your money?

In buying this remedy, besides securing an absolute guarantee of its efficiency from these druggists, you also get about eight times as much medicine as you would in buying most any of the old-fashioned, ready-made kinds, which average from 20 to 32 teaspoonful, because 50c worth makes a whole pint (128 teaspoonful) when mixed at home with simply one pint of sugar and one-half pint of water. This remedy positively does not contain chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. You will be the sole judge, and under this positive guarantee absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy. Druggists everywhere are authorized to sell it under the same guarantee as Schiffmann's famous Asthmador of "Money Back" if not perfectly satisfactory. R. J. Schiffmann, Proprietor, Saint Paul, Minn. Guaranteed here by W. M. Cohen.
