FIRST TEACHERS TO CHINA.

Missionaries Followed the Close of the War With Great Britain in 1845.

The first general attempt to introduce Christianity into China dates from April 24, 1845, when the Chinese government, following the disastrous war with Great Britain, granted permission to foreigners to teach the Christian religion. Missionaries from many countries began immediately to flock to China but in most places the "white devils" were received with hostility. The Emperor Taou Kwang, who in the latter part of his reign favored the introduction of European arts and religion, died in 1850, and his son, Heng Fung adopted a reactionary policy. One of the odd results of the introduction of Christianity into China was the appearance in 1851 of a rebel leader who called himself Tien-teh, and who announced himself as the restorer of the worship of the true god, Shan-ti, and derived many of his dogmas from the Bible. He called himself the brother of Jesus, the second son of God and the monarch of all beneath the skies, and demanded universal submission. His insurgent followers called themselves Taepings, of "Prince of peace," but the title was utterly belied by their atrocious deeds.

HE DID SO.

After addressing a woman's cooking club, a famous lecturer was besieged by the members, who questioned him about his own household and about his kitchen in particular.

"Are you satisfied with your cook?" some one asked.
"Yes, indeed," was the reply.
"Is she economical?"
"Very."
"Can she bake pies and bread?"
"The best in the land."
"Is she tidy?"
"As tidy as a pin and as attractive in appearance as one would care to see."
"How about her disposition?"
"I think it is about perfect."
"Huh!" exclaimed one of the matrons, who had been having trouble with her cook. "It's a wonder you don't marry the girl."
With a satisfied smile the lecturer replied:
"That's exactly what I did."

HOW HE WOULD DO IT.

A witty political candidate, after making a speech in an agricultural district, announced that he would be glad to answer any questions that might be put to him.

A voice from the audience: "You seem to know a lot about a farmer's difficulties. May I ask a question about a momentous one?"

"Certainly," replied the candidate, nervously.

"How can you tell a bad egg?" went on the merciful voice.

The candidate waited until the laughter died away, then replied—"If I had anything to tell a bad egg, I think I should break it gently."

He won the place.

What Doctor Pierce Has Done For Humanity!

BY DOCTOR CHIFFS

It has always seemed to me that Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., should be placed near the top when a list of America's great benefactors is written. He studied and conquered human diseases to a degree that few realize. Whenever he found a remedy that overcame disease, he at once announced it in the newspapers and told where it could be bought at a small price. He did not follow the usual custom of keeping the ingredients secret, so that the rich only could afford to buy the medicine, but openly printed the name of each root and herb he used. And so to-day the names of Dr. Pierce and his medicines are widely known, and they stand for better health and better citizenship.

One of this great physician's most successful remedies is known as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are little, sugar-coated pills, composed of Mayapple, leaves of aloes, root of jalap—things that Nature grows in the ground. These Pellets are safe because they move the bowels gently, leaving no bad after-effects, as so many pills do. Very often they make a person who takes them feel like a new man or woman, for they cleanse the intestines of hard, decayed and poisonous matter that accumulates when one is constipated. If you are constipated, by all means go to your druggist and get some of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They may prove to be the very thing your system requires to make you well and happy.

"Your Nose Knows"

All smoking tobaccos use some flavoring. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco, "... on the Continent and in America certain 'sauces' are employed... the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves."

Tuxedo uses chocolate—the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings! Everybody likes chocolate—we all know that chocolate added to anything as a flavoring always makes that thing still more enjoyable. That is why a dash of chocolate, added to the most carefully selected and properly aged burley tobacco, makes Tuxedo more enjoyable.

"Your Nose Knows"

Try This Test: Rub a little Tuxedo briskly in the palm of your hand to bring out its full aroma. Then smell it deep—its delicious, pure fragrance will convince you. Try this test with any other tobacco and we will let Tuxedo stand or fall on your judgment—

THANKFUL.

'Mid all my thanks for gifts of wondrous worth I'll not regret my gratitude for earth On which my God has pleased to give me birth.

A treasury it is of beauty rare, A wealth of golden joys beyond compare, And signs of grace and kindness everywhere

I'm grateful for its flowers and its trees; The grandeur of the mountains and the seas; Its light, its dark, its hours of toil and ease.

I'm grateful for the home it gives me here, And all its loving friendliness so dear; Its gifts of laughter, sympathy, and cheer.

And were it all of life e'en then I'd be Singing my song of thanks right lustily For its uncounted joys vouchsafed to me.

THE SADDEST NIGHT.

The stars over Palestine were dim that night, Not because of any obscuring clouds, Or silvery mist, or plant-refreshing rain, It was the dry season and the atmosphere Was crystal-clear, without fleck or flaw.

The stars were dim because of their own tears— Tears unbidden, which could not be restrained. The dew was heavy on the olive leaves And on the sparse grass were crystal beads of water. For the night wept, as well as the far away stars And the very darkness seemed to groan in agony.

Down in a garden one lone figure bowed. The world has ever since loved the olive trees Because they shadowed His grief, in part only, From the far-dimmed stars and the night. No grief has ever touched a soul that was so keen. So all-powering, as that which reached the Master On that saddest night the world has ever known.

Desertion by friends would be bearable— The shadow of tomorrow's cross could be endured; The cut of the nails and the thrust of spears Could all be borne—but beyond these, Aias! The Master felt a keener grief!

THE BEST TOWN OF ALL.

It Was Home; That Was Why.

He had been "over there," had seen the wizardries of the Old World architecture—great stone palaces, lofty castles and august and inspiring cathedrals. He had trodden streets famed in song and story. He had seen where kings had held forth in splendor, where conquerors, returning from victory, had complacently received the acclaim of the multitudes.

But the grandest, gladdest sight, the best town in the world, was the Old Home Town. To the returning doughboy the little red brick station was far more impressive than Charing Cross Station in London, and Main Street, with its venerable hitch racks, gave him a bigger thrill than ever did the Strand or Piccadilly. Jim Horne's combined grocery and dry goods store had a delightful something about that never was presented by the shops of Paris or Havre. The First (and only) Methodist Episcopal Church inspired in him a feeling of reverence that even Westminster had failed to bring. And there was more pure, unalloyed joy in the flat expanse of prairie south of the depot than in The Hoe at Plymouth or the Promenade at Brest.

It was home; that is why.—Kansas City Star.

HE'D GOT RELIGION.

"Parson," exclaimed Cullen, "I've got 'ligion — 'ligion' I tell you!"
"That's fine brother! You are going to lay aside all sin?"
"Yes, sah!"
"You are going to be a regular attendant at church?"
"Yes, sah-ree."
"You are going to care for your wife and five boys?"
"Ah! yes, sah."
"You are going to pay your debts?"
"Sah? Dat ain't 'ligion; dat's business."
