KISSING HEALTHY PASTIME.

The Dear Girls Seem to Agree With Radical Views of College Professor.

Are American girls opposed to kissing? The illuminating statements on osculation accredited to Dr. Simon Louis Katzoff, A. M., M. D., before a meeting of the Bridgeport Philosophical Society inspire this question. "Osculation is the greatest disinfectant ever discovered. Kisses are dangerous only when cold," says the authority. "Love is the mightiest force for the creation of health and prolongation of life. We are suffering from lovelessness." A composite humorous interview with co-ed and college men obtained by the news department of "Topics of the Day" films via kiss jokes in American college magazines is worth reading. The answers "she" gave "his" questions seem to prove that the girls heartily agree with Dr. Katzoff's claims for osculation.

"What would you say if I kissed you?"

"I wouldn't be in a position to speak."

"I wonder whether kissing is bad for one or not?"

"Let's put our heads together and find out."

"May I steal a kiss—sub-rosa?"

"Don't you think it would be better—sub-nosa?"

"What would you do if I kissed you?"

"I'd call my brother."

"How old is he?"

"Two years old."

"Would it be wrong for you to kiss me on the cheek?"

"Well, it might be a bit off color."

"What would you do if I kissed you?"

She pouted.

"Say, did you ever kiss a girl in a quiet spot?"

"Yes, but the spot was only quiet while I was kissing her."

"What's to prevent my kissing you?"

"Well, my goodness."

"It's a crime to steal a kiss from me."

"Well, you're guilty too for receiving stolen goods."

"I promise you I shall never kiss you!"

"Do you always keep your promises?"

"Well, I keep within the law."

Undoubtedly the girls see no harm in kissing and rather like it, which accords with Dr. Katzoff's theory but, their answers refute the scientist's claim that "We are suffering from lovelessness."

R. F. Erwin Regarding His Troubles.

"A year ago last winter I had an attack of indigestion followed by biliousness and constipation. Seeing Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for sale in the store, I bought a bottle of it and they helped me right away" writes R. F. Erwin, Peru, Ind. "If you have any trouble with your digestion give these tablets a trial. They will do you good."

FORCEFUL ADVICE.

He—What did your father say when you told him that my love for you was like a gushing brook?

She—He said: "Dam it!"

Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Every family should keep this preparation at hand ready for instant use when needed. Severe attacks of colic and cholera morbus often prove fatal before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned. The uniform success that has attended the use of this remedy and the prompt relief which it has effected have made it a staple article of trade.

MODERNITY.

Old Fashioned Bridegroom: "Oh, for the brand of biscuits mother used to make!"

New Fashioned Bride: "Oh, for the brand of cigarettes father used to smoke!"

WRECK!

Dora—What shall I sing for you, Jack?

Jack—Have you a song with a refrain?

Dora—Yes.

Jack—Well, then, please refrain.

Why That Headache?

When you know the cause of a disease a cure may often be effected. This is particularly true of headache. Headache often results from constipation or a disordered condition of the stomach which may be corrected by taking a dose or two of Chamberlain's Tablets. Try it. These tablets are easy to take and mild and gentle in effect.

LIFE'S RESPONSIBILITY.

BY EDGAR A. GUEST.

The following beautiful lines were given us with request to publish. This is a thing I would have you learn—nothing is yours to keep, And never you'll rest from the need of toil till the last, long final sleep; There's never a place or a time in life when nothing you'll have to do, Whatever the post you shall come to here, it shall call for the best in you.

You may dream of riches and all the joy which silver and gold can buy, But the greater the wealth that shall come to you, the greater your care shall lie; For the more that this life shall give to you, the more to life you must give, For this the great unwritten law, no man to himself can live.

Has God bestowed on you talents rare by which you may rise to fame? Then upon your soul He has laid the charge with courage to use the same; Nor skill nor power can bring you ease, for this you shall find is true—He who has much to do with here, shall ever have much to do.

For life and talents and wealth and fame are given to men in trust, And each must work with the gifts he has till his flesh returns to dust, For this is the law which governs all and this is the common test—He that shall come to the best life has, must give to the world his best.

I DOUBT IT.

When a pair of red lips upturned to your own, With no one to gossip about it, Do you pray for endurance to let them alone? Well, may be you do—but I doubt it.

When a sly little hand you're permitted to seize, With a velvety softness about it, Do you think you can drop it, with never a squeeze? Well, may be you can—but I doubt it.

When a tapering waist is in reach of your arm, With a wonderful plumpness about it, Do you argue the point 'twixt the good and the harm? Well, may be you do—but I doubt it.

And if by these tricks you should capture a heart, With a womanly sweetness about it, Will you guard it and keep it, and act the good part? Well, may be you will—but I doubt it.

NO SUBSTANCE IN DREAMS.

Writer Gives Reasons for Her Refusal to Have Any Belief in Common Superstitions.

The mind during sleep reminds me of a naughty child, writes Marion Holmes in the Chicago Daily News. With a normal person during waking hours reason controls it and when it seems inclined to let loose a foolish train of thought rebukes it with "Nonsense! behave yourself!" But when reason goes to sleep and the mind has seasons of wild capering, it makes you do things that when awake would scorch you with blushes. It causes you to go to church dressed in your very best except your shoes and stockings, which you find you have left at home. It makes you marry a dark man with big black whiskers when you already have a perfectly satisfactory husband who is blond and smooth faced. There is nothing that it will not do uncontrolled by reason. Therefore I never have had much faith in the prophetic quality of dreams, although there are persons who pin their faith to those so called warnings. We have heard them say, "I dreamed last night I had lost a tooth. That means bad news," or "I dreamed of walking among ruined buildings. That means that somebody in the family is going to be ill," and, like fortune telling, the predictions that do not "make good" are forgotten.

A recurrent dream is of no importance. I have known the same stage setting with its incidents to be presented over in sleeping visions without ever reaching its counterpart in reality. An uncomfortable position during sleep, or the fact you are not feeling well often occasions troubled dreams.

JUST LIKE A MAN!

Mrs. Binks—What was it I told you a little while ago, John?
Mr. Binks—I don't know, dear, I really wasn't listening.
Mrs. Binks—Now isn't that like a man? It is too provoking! And I can't think what it was I said to him.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. E. A. Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—"

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should be your next suggestion.
