Practical Sorrow.

"Jack," she asked, "was there a girl in France who was sorry to see you go?"

The moon was full, the summer night was balmy, the hammock was built for two and it seemed a shame to break it all up.

"I'd rather you, didn't ask me that question, dear," he said.

"But I must know. We're engaged and you should tell me everything, she insisted.

"Dear, I don't like to talk about it."

"Then you did love her. You did, you did."

"No, I didn't."

"Yes, you did, or you'd tell me all about her."

"I didn't, say."

"Yes, you did. Oh, Jack, how could you when all the time you were engaged to me?"

"Listen a minute and I'll give you the whole story," he said in desperation. "She was."

"Well?"

"She was my landlady. I owed her twelve francs."

FUTILE.

John, snapped Mrs. Gabb sharply, you're the rudest man I know. Here I've been talking and you've been yawning in my face for the last half hour.

I wasn't yawning, my dear, replied her husband meekly. I was just trying to say something.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Sunday School Teacher: Now, boys, there is a wonderful example in the life of the ant. Every day the ant goes to work and works all day. Every day the ant is busy. And in the end what happens?

Willie: Somebody steps on him.

THE SOLUTION.

"Hooray! I've found the secret of solving the high cost of living!"

"Quick, quick, out with it!"

"Make both ends meet and then tie 'em together."

MOST REMARKABLE.

Teacher: If Shakespeare were alive today, wouldn't he be looked upon as a remarkable man?

Bright Lad: He certainly would. He'd be three hundred years old.

KUTTYHUNK BLUE

5¢
At your grocers

The American people are the fairest leaders in the world. They will give any thing a fair trial and that is all we ask for Kuttynunk.

We know what a substance making blue Kuttynunk is, but you don't see it until you try it and you won't know until you see it.

Kuttynunk is a solid stick of pure blue and when dropped in a quart of water makes a full quart of the finest liquid dyeing.

Kuttynunk is packed in an impervious paper wrapper instead of in a tin or box. All the value of the dyeing is in the stick and not on the package. You get blue clothes with a little or ten why buy them?

KUTTYHUNK
"It's all blue but the label."

HOW CAN YOU KNOW?

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

How can you know what's a-comin' along?
Sigh you are sighin' may end in a song,
The world will roll right, though the world may roll wrong—
Look to the bright side forever!

How can you know but a sweet star will rise
In the storm that seems blowin' 'em all from the skies?
A sweet rose is born for each dear rose that dies—
Look to the bright side forever!

How can you know? Daisies deep under snow
Have dreams of the time when the south wind shall blow!
They know the spring's comin', for God wills it so—
Look to the bright side forever!

How can you know? Let us trust to the years
To lighten the burdens of crosses an' cares,
An' 'ever in the desolate rain of our tears
Look to the bright side forever!

WON PLACE BY A WHISTLE.

"I'M GOING TO BUY MOTHER A COAT. SHE IS WEARING ONE YOU CAN SEE THROUGH—IT AIN'T RIGHT."

He was an odd-looking figure as he came merrily whistling down the street the morning after the big snow. His nose was red and his hands were bare, his feet were in shoes several times too large, and his hat was held in place by a piece of paper on the inside; but he piped away like a steam-engine, and carried the big snow-shovel much as a soldier carried his rifle.

"How much?" from an imposing looking man, who was asked if he wanted his walks cleaned.

"Ten cents."

"A nickle's enough."

"It would be if I couldn't do no better, but I've got to do the best I can, and business is rushing. Good morning!" And the merry whistle filled the air as the boy started away.

"Go ahead and clean 'em!" called the man, whose admiration and better nature had been aroused.

"Just see the little rascal make the snow fly!" he said laughingly to his wife, who stood at the window with him. "Why, he's a regular snowplow, and he does it well, too."

"What a little mite! And how comical. I wonder if he's hungry?"

The wife called to the lad as soon as he had finished, but he would not take time for more than a cup of coffee.

"Too busy," he said.

"What are you going to do with the money?" asked the man as he insisted on seating at twenty-five cents, instead of ten cents the boy asked for.

"I'm going to get mother a coat. She's wearing one you can see through—it ain't right."

On he went, with glowing cheeks and his cheery whistle. But they had his name and address. It was the wife who took the coat to the mother, and it was the husband who installed the sturdy shoveler as office-boy, in a bright new uniform, and with permission to whistle when he feels like it.

THE BEAUTY THAT'S HIDDEN.

THERE IS A GOOD DEAL OF BEAUTY HIDDEN IN THIS WORLD, AND IT PAYS TO DIG FOR IT.

There is a little town in Virginia which is now world famous for one of the most beautiful caverns to be found on this planet. Long corridors and spacious chambers are hung with stalactites and studded with stalagmites, glistening when the light falls upon them, till the observer is fain to believe himself in a palace of gems. Massive columns rise from floor to ceiling and cascades of gleaming white falls in stony cataracts over the rocks.

The discovery of the Luray Caverns came about thus: A visitor to the town judged from external indications that there must be a cave somewhere in the vicinity. He searched for many days, and at length discovered in the hillside an opening from which air was escaping. After clearing away the rubbish which choked this aperture, he was lowered by means of a rope, and passing through another opening so small that at first it almost escaped his attention, he found himself in the majestic space which has since been christened Entrance Hall. So overwhelmed was he by the beauty he had discovered that he stood speechless and motionless, till his companion became alarmed and followed him.

There is a good deal of hidden beauty in this world, and it pays to dig for it. There are people shy and constrained in superficial intercourse, who are cordial and kindly when you come to know them. You have acquaintances without any doubt, who are gifted in one way or another, but their lack of self-confidence keeps them from exercising their talent, and you, as well as others, never suspect its existence. There is often a vein of poetry in the matter-of-fact old farmer, and almost romantic chivalry in the ragged newsboy, a saving tenderness of heart in the one whom the world counts beyond the pale. The superficial never suspects these things. Others acknowledge that they may exist, but will not take the trouble to look for them. Comparatively few know how well it pays to dig down to the beauty that is hidden.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

NO MERCY FOR FLIRT.

According to a Dream,
Modern Girl Met With Deserved Condemnation
at St. Peter's Hands.

Courlandt Bleeker was talking at Piping Rock about the modern girl.

"I had a dream last night," he said. "I dreamed that a modern girl died and appeared before St. Peter."

"She wore a gown of filmy, almost transparent tissue. She was very beautiful, and she had a conquering air."

"Let me in, please," she said. "My sweethearts were numberless, but my virtue remained unspotted. Though I skated over miles of thin ice, I never once fell through. I am a modern girl."

"But St. Peter frowned and said, pointing downwards with his forefinger.

"I condemn you to the same flames to which you condemned your foolish lovers."

GET THE FRESH DECK.

It was midnight when the recruit took the wheel for the first time. The officer of the watch pointed out a star and instructed him to lay his course by it. Some time later he returned.

Jones, he asked, are you still on your course?

Please, sir, asked the recruit plannively, can I have a new star? I passed the other one long ago.

Why Suffer?

Cardui "Did Wonders for Me," Declares This Lady.

"I suffered for a long time with womanly weakness," says Mrs. J. R. Simpson, of 57 Spruce St., Asheville, N. C. "I finally got to the place where it was an effort for me to go. I would have bearing-down pains in my side and back—especially severe across my back, and down in my side there was a great deal of soreness. I was nervous and easily upset."

TAKE

CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic

"I heard of Cardui and decided to use it," continues Mrs. Simpson. "I saw shortly it was benefiting me, so I kept it up and it did wonders for me. And since then I have been glad to praise Cardui. It is the best woman's tonic made! Weak women need a tonic. Thousands and thousands, like Mrs. Simpson, have found Cardui of benefit to them. Try Cardui for your trouble."

Worn Down, Out of Heart

Georgia Lady, Worn-out and Tired, Tells How She Was Helped by Ziron Iron Tonic.

"The personal experience of Mrs. Nancy Phillips of Providence, Rhode Island, is a grateful testimonial to her own words:

"I was in a wretched condition. My stomach was not of order. I didn't sleep well. I had tried all the time I could get half rest, and didn't rest well at night.

"I would get out of bed and then I would feel like I was going to be down in bed. Yet I had dragged around.

"We heard of Ziron, and from what I read, I was sure it wouldn't hurt me. It didn't help me. But after taking it, I found it really helped me, and I went back for more. I ate better, felt much stronger. I am sure Ziron is a splendid tonic."

Many people, who are worn down and dejected, due to stomach disorders and nervous life, find relief by toning up their blood with Ziron Iron Tonic. Tell your druggist you want to try Ziron on our money-back guarantee.
