CHARACTER REVEALED.

The character of the creature, whether high or low, is revealed in the things which satisfy him. The bird and the beast are satisfied with food and shelter and kind treatment. Their wants can be satisfied in the world of material things; but when a man has all his physical needs satisfied, when he has enjoyed food and raiment and shelter and the affection of his friends and loved ones, there is still within him a great hunger for the things which are intellectual and eternal. He cannot idle content until he has found God and the hope of life eternal. It is the hunger of the soul that proclaims man's high lineage.

SPOILED HIS "POEM."

The average printer considers poetry a nuisance. Much so-called poetry is all of that and worse. It takes longer to set verse than straight prose and there are more chances for errors. A newspaper versifier recently wrote a few stanzas about his little son, the first one beginning with the line, "My son! my piggy counterpart!" It appeared in the paper, "My son, my pig, my counterpart," and the poet was mad about it.

THE CONVENTIONAL THING.

Romantic youth—"Why do you hesitate, darling? We could easily run away and get married."

His Fancy—"My dear boy, you're too impossible! Why, the only photographs I could leave behind me were taken before I had my hair bobbed!"

A BOAT-ROCKER.

"Only a fool rocks the boat."
"I suppose so," assented Mr. Growcher. "But when the boat contains a couple of guitars and an off-the-key tenor, there comes a terrible tension."

AT THE CROSS-ROADS.

"This road and that road—neither one I know!
Which way is the true way that my feet should go?"
Answered he, the old man, dreaming by the way,
"Blind the road of life is; bide a while and pray!"
"This way or that way—down each road I see Silent hills before me, vales of mystery!"
Murmured he, the graybeard, in a musing tone,
"O'er the hills and far away, go not, lass, alone."
"This way or that way—one may lead to tears;
One to joy and laughter all the happy years!"
Answered he, the old man, smiling tenderly,
"Wait until down the road Love shall beckon thee!"

S. O. S. CALLS.

A druggist recently received these notes from customers:
"My little baby has eat up it's father's parish plaster. Send an antedote, quick as possible by the inclosed girl."
"I have a cute pain in my child's diagram. Please give my son something to release it."
"This is my little girl, I send you five cents to buy two poders groan up adult is sike."

PRACTICE MAKES IMPERFECT

"What crime did you commit to be in here?" inquired the prison visitor.
"I guess it must have been because I attended too many weddings."
"I see! You stole the gifts or drank too much champagne?"
"No, it was just because I was always the bridegroom," answered the arch-bigamist.

NOT WORTH TRYING.

Tip—Why not try a home-brew receipt?
Taps—It's this way. If I met a friend, under the influence of the forbidden, I'm afraid he isn't able to give the receipt correctly, and when I meet a man who has had a few drinks and doesn't feel any happier, I'll be darned if I want the receipt.
