THE RIGHT THING at the RIGHT TIME
By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN TO READ.

What do you read?—Shakespeare. A YOUNG bride writes with the following complaint: "My husband's older brother, who is making his home with us, insists on reading his morning paper at the breakfast table. This is annoying to me and I feel that it is an act of discourtesy to me. Although my husband himself does not do it, he says it is quite all right for his brother to do so. What do you say about it?"

It is so usual for our busy husbands and fathers and brothers to read the paper over their breakfast, often because they feel that it is the only thing they have to do so, that it would be unfair to say that they are thereby doing us an act of discourtesy. However, I do agree with you that it is not very good manners. Where one does not have the excuse of reading the paper because it is the only opportunity to do so at breakfast then it is less pardonable than otherwise. If it is quite clear that the reading is simply actuated by curiosity and impatience then there is even less excuse for it. The fact is that with many families meantime is the only opportunity for friendly leisurely intercourse and where one person chooses to put a damper on that spirit he is acting in a decidedly unsocial manner.

If a person breakfasts alone that is another matter. Then he may read the paper for companionship. So in a hotel restaurant when you occupy a table by yourself you are not showing bad manners; to do so though if you must eat at a table with other persons even if they are strangers to you, you are not showing very much politeness if you prop the paper up before you. The practice of paper reading has become so general at breakfast time that there are little metal paper props in the stores for making it possible for one to eat undisturbed and have one's paper held at a convenient angle before him.

There is really no reason why one should not read a paper in the car or train though, of course, the courteous man or woman will contrive to hold the paper or magazine or book so that it does not annoy his neighbors or so that his elbows in holding it do not prod them. It is extremely discourteous to read paper or magazine at a lecture, or any performance, if this does not actually embarrass the performers it is the kind of thing that detracts from the enjoyment of the other members of the audience. And never, never read when some one is talking to you. To be sure, you may be able to attend to what is being said to you and read at the same time, but it is the sort of discourtesy that is almost never excusable.
