BLANK ATTACK IS DEADLY

No Stroke More Dreaded by Military Commanders—Abundantly Shown in History of Battles.

The blank attack is one of the deadliest forces known to warfare. An army is, by its nature, a linear thing. Not only is it strong out man by man, its mind and its power of action are also most helplessly one-track.

An army in action usually consists of men breast to breast, all facing one way. Before it is its line of effectiveness, its ending limits, its changing radius, and the ground which it can cover with projectiles. Behind it is its communications, and the widespread of the meal that can never be many miles distant.

While an army is engaged it is very only with great difficulty. It is only a definite quantity of energy to expend, if that goes into maneuvering it cannot generate fighting. An enemy who appears in an army's flank, therefore, finds a foe particularly assailable. The latter's effective line is usually over a portion of the front and the latter's escape before the necessary readjustment can be made. A flanking army knows this. It is therefore usually true that a minor results once an army is flanked.

The history of battles is full of such instances. Caesar's Commentaries frequently note: "Our cavalry appears on their wing, they turn their backs, a great slaughter ensues."

SHE KNEW HIM

Mr. X, a well-known writer and advertising expert, came to lecture before the university class of students who were aspiring to the fame that he had already reached.

A fair young girl was delighted with the lecturer and was evidently an ardent admirer. She turned to a young woman, sitting beside her and gurgled: "Oh, don't you think that Mr. X is just wonderful, and he's so handsome. He simply wild about him." The young woman smiled and agreed that he was "pretty nice." The girl's enthusiasm increased as the lecture progressed, and every now and then she turned to the young woman and asked her admiration. Finally, impatient with the young woman's calm, quiet, reserved answers, she asked: "Don't you think that Mr. X is wonderful? Have you heard him before?" "Oh, yes," answered the young woman, "you see, I'm his wife."

SHE DROVE HOME

The customer always was being served while a young woman was waiting on him at the Hilltop across at the Riverside Golf course. 1836, the hill, out of sight, was an opening foursome, at least one of which was a green player. He shot without waiting for the girl to putt. His ball rolled up and on the green, rolling just in front of the young lady's feet. "No use now. No use at all," said the girl. The girl looked up and around, walked over to the edge of the hill and in a nervous tone that could be heard by the sales around shouted at the waiting-stuffer: "Hey, you big old driver, go back to South Grove where you belong." And then she sank her putt.—Indianapolis News.

To Gain A Good Reputation

The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear. That is precisely the manner in which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has gained its reputation as a cure for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Every bottle that has ever been put out by the manufacturer has been fully up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have found that it can be depended upon for the relief and cure of these ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.

SCENE: COURTROOM.

"How long were you acquainted with your husband before you married him?" demanded the attorney of the fair penitent for a divorce.

"Oh, I didn't know him at all," she replied with emphasis. "I'll say I didn't!"

How Better Than Pills.

The question has been asked: In what way are Chamberlain's Tablets superior to the ordinary cathartic and liver pills? Our answer is, they are easier and more pleasant to take and their effect is so gentle that one hardly realizes that it is produced by a medicine. Then, they not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.

RED CROSS WINNING IN FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Better, Stronger Citizenry Now Emerging Out of Work in United States.

The American Red Cross as an evangelist of better health has looked its problem square in the face. How it accepted the task revealed in it in the nation's physical condition as brought out during the World War, and conscientiously applied its activities to correction forms a vital chapter in the forthcoming annual report. Heretofore, and possibly, nursing is a basic work for the Red Cross. In its public health nursing service, in instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, in health classes, that aid and life saving courses and health centers, the American Red Cross is applying effectively the lessons learned during the war and making for a healthier, stronger and better nourished citizenry.

The task of the Red Cross Public Health nurse is the 1,200 nursing service now operating throughout the country, instructing their communities in health essentials and disease prevention is demonstrating the possibilities of human betterment and the great benefits of enlightenment.

During the last year 318 new public health nursing services were established by Red Cross Chapters, and several hundred services so satisfactorily proved their effectiveness that they were taken over by public authorities. In order to promote this work $30,000 was allotted to provide women to prepare themselves for public nursing. The home visits made by the 1,200 nurses aggregated nearly 1,200,000 visits to schools numbered 140,000, and in six months 1,250,000 school children were inspected by these nurses and where defects were found advised examinations by physicians. In rural communities this service has made a very marked advance and has won thousands of converts to approved methods of disease prevention.

In home hygiene and care of the sick instruction, which fits the student in methods of proper care where illness is not so serious as to require professional service, the Red Cross conducted 3,884 classes during the last year, enrolled 2,334 instructors, 60,448 students and issued 42,536 certificates. On June 30, 1922, nursing service employed 1,194 nurses with a total of 27,523 children and 2,580 enrolled children. Seventy-eight food selection classes graduated 333 who received Red Cross certificates. In general health activities Red Cross chapters maintained 377 health centers serving as many communities, provided 38,901 health lectures for large audiences everywhere, while clinics numbered over 70,000.

Red Cross Gains Strength in All Foreign Fields

In insular possessions of the United States and in foreign lands the American Red Cross scored heavy gains during the last year, paying the previous membership high mark of 1918 by 4,201 and advancing the figure to 126,408. The Philippines take the lead, gaining nearly 100 per cent, now having 115,917 members. In Europe the 1921 Roll Call enrolled 11,125, with the Constantinople Chapter reporting 695, a gain of 39 members. China was 1,782 members, a gain of 500 the little Virgin Islands have 1,000, while the Dominican Republic with 2,907 advanced from its previous high mark by 1,423 new members. Haiti, organized in 1920, now has nearly 1,000 enrolled. Mexico reports 354, a gain of 327 in one year. The American Red Cross has spread its membership over some 70 foreign lands and its Junior membership outside of the United States is close to 700,000.

Red Cross Water First Aid Makes Life-Saving Gain

More than 325 Chapters engaged in life saving or water first aid last year with the result that the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps has set a new high mark for enrollment and the number of qualified life savers developed. The influence of "learn to swim week" in localities is reducing the water fatalities through instruction and the wider dissemination of resuscitation methods demonstrated by the Red Cross representatives. Excellent work has been done in teaching a large part of the American population how to take care of itself in the water. Growing appreciation for this Red Cross Life-Saving Service is shown by the compulsory instruction adopted in many cities for members of the police and fire departments in the proper procedure method of resuscitation.
