Simply Disgraceful.

A number of boys were on the streets last night ringing door bells and leaving valentines. When their stock of the latter was exhausted they, very much in keeping with some of the valentines sent by them, entertained themselves with the very gentlemanly practice of "chunking" bats at the front doors of residences. We passed the crowd and recognised one or two of the boys and are almost determined to let their parents know of the fact.

The Charity Ball.

We accidentally omitted to speak yesterday of the Grand Charity Ball given at the City Hall on Tuesday night. We regret that we'were not able to be present, but learn from those who were that it which they had ever taken part. The dancing was kept up with much spirit throughout the entire evening and at midnight an elegant supper was partaken of. The success of the ball was due in no small measure to the untiring exertions of the committee, Messrs. Sol. Bear, W. Goodman, Fred Rheinstein, H. Brunhild, A.

As she will play here but one night there is therefore but one opportunity of seeing her. The box sheet is now open at Heinsbergers where seats may be secured.

Scattering The Crowd,

A gentleman who was very much annoyed last night by the "valentine" boys throwing rocks at his front door, quietly slipped out of the house the back way and stole around to the front garden where he proposed to take a hand in the sport. He secured a bat in his hand and presently when the boys slipped along by the fence and threw their rocks at the door he let loose the bat he held in his hand. It flew straight to its mark but alas! it struck on the edge of the fence and missed its aim, and probably cheated Coronor Hewlett out of a job. There was an unusual dodging of heads on the street side of that fence and it is hardly probable that that gentleman's door will be rocked again between this and next Valentine's Day.

St. Valentine.

The origin of St. Valentine's day is involved in obscurity. It has been contended that it has descended from the old Romans, who, during the month of February among other festivals drew the names of young girls from a box; and that the church, finding that the people clung to this practice, gave it a religious dress and placed it under the patronage of St. Valentine. Another theory, and probably the correct one, is that it is a relie of the nature-religion which recognized this time with a very interesting and handsomely as the season of mating among animals, some time back very largely observed in England, Scotland, and on some parts of the continent. Parties of ladies and gentlemen would assemble on the eve of St. Valentine and write on pieces of paper the names of their acquaintance. These were thrown into a box and the names drawn out by those present, each drawing one of an opposite sex. The person whose name was thus drawn became the valentine of the person drawing, and so remained for a year. This relation was a sort of temporary engagement which often ripened into a real one. This amusement was very popular in the fifteenth century among all grades of society, even at many Egropean courts. It, however, fell into disuse, and the symbolic meaning passed away; the era of glaring prints came with their burlesque as well as sentimentality, pearing. It now lingers principally as a harmless sport for the little ones, or is availed of by persons to indulge in coarse burlesques at the expense of others.

Seamen's Friend Society.

The adjourned annual meeting, the 24th, of the Seamen's Friend Society, was held last evening in the Bethel in this city.

The meeting was opened by calling Maj. M. P. Taylor to the Chair and requesting Mr. C. H. Robinson to act as Secretary.

Mr. George R. French, President of the Society, then submitted the following

GENTLEMEN: - Another year, fraught with its hopes and its disappointments, its joys and its sorrows, has passed and we come together again on this our annual meeting, to confer as to the best method of advancing the interests and usefulness of our Society. One of our number, and an officer of our institution, has but recently passed "through the valley of the shadow of death' and rests from his labors. I refer to Mr. Silas N. Martin, our late Secretary and Treasurer, than whom this institution had no firmer friend, nor one more ready to give his time and business talents to its advancement and for its benefit. We shall feel his loss as a councelor in our financial was one of the most pleasant affairs in matters, and his earnest co-operation in all efforts to extend our influence for good. Our acting Secretary and Freasurer will present a detailed statement of the condition of the treasury, to which we invoke your attention. Owing to the continued depression in business we have been unable to rent our property, as we contemplated, and the receipts have therefore advise its completion so soon as the Society can see its way clear to do so after providing for its present indebtedness. We were compelled to incur during the past year a debt of some five hundred dollars in repairing the front of the Bethel, which was so badly cracked and weakened as to be thought unsafe and liable to fall. It has been replaced by a substantial brick front and is now permanent and secure. We would advise some action in devising means to increase our revenue, and looking to a reduction of our present indebtedness. There are about 100 of our citizens who pay the sum of two dollars per year to aid in paying the interest on the debt and insurance on the building. I would suggest the propriety of calling upon the citizens generally to subscribe this small sum annually until business revives and our building and stores can be rented at remunerative prices.

Our claim against the United States gouernment is in the hands of our Repregentative, Hon. A. M. Waddell, who promises to look after it and insure its Friend Society thankfully acknowledges the donation from the parent Society of the Seamen's Friend Society of New York city, of the sum of six hundred dollars, to year. aid in sustaining the Chaplain in preaching and ministering to the seamen who

Mr. Mitchell's report was received and adopted. The Chairman, under a resolution submitted for that purpose, appointed Messrs. H. B. Eilers and R. E. Heide a committee to examine and report upon the books and vouchers of the late Treasurer, with power to make settlement with the Administrator of his estate. The acting Secretary, Mr. Mitchell, was instructed to prepare a statelement of receipts and disbursements for publication.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. L. Keen, submitted his report, which, on motion, was received and ordered spread upon the minutes and published with the proceedings of this meeting.

The following is the Chaplain's report : To the Officers and Members of the W. S. F. Society:

GENTLEMEN: - Time, with rapid flight, has brought us to the close of another year, a year, like all others, made up of sorrews and joys, despair and hope, life and death. Yet amidst all this seeming clash of interest and conditions, there is a Providence in whose hands are the issues of life and death, and who overrules all for

The year now ending has been one of reasonable prosperity, in my work as Chaplain. How much good has been accomplished, how many have been influenced to better lives, if any, I know not. These things will never be fully known while we sojourn in the flesh. God knows. Eternity will reveal.

We trust, however, that all has not been in vain. We have endeavored to preach Christ prayerfully and with earnest simplicity. Errors have been made, for to erris human. Duties may have been slighted, for sometimes we grow weary, sad to tell, even in well doing. Truly, God is good and merciful, as our lives to-day demonstrate. We have cause to be thankful as SOME OF IT VERY CHOICE! goodness during the year, and pray that

His blessings may go with us in the future.

The Bethel has been open every Sabbath for some months and regular religious services held there.

The Cape Fear Marine Total Abstinence Society was reorganized early in Nov. for the benefit of seamen. Its object is clearly explained by its title. Its success, thus far is favorable to its continual existence. The membership is increasing and we anticipate increased prosperity.
