THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. 2. WILMINGTON, N. C., THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1877. NO. 17

NEWS SUMMARY.

Old Sumner the Sinner has from the vacated his seat in the Senate. The South Carolina regiments favor a new election and the honest men oppose it according to precedent the regiments should gain the day. Germany, Italy, Austria and France; it is said, support Russia's proposals. The Republicans, as a matter of course, carried the election in New Hampshire last Tuesday, but the Democrats elected a Congressman in the First District. President Grant did not like Henderson, the man who prosecuted Joyce and McDonald, and so dismissed him, but Scott thinks him fit to be his Assistant and has offered him the position of Assistant Secretary of the Interior. Numerous men from this State called on Mr. Hayes yesterday and asked "for God's sake and the people's sake" that the infamous McLindsay, the man whom Mr. Hayes whipped out in the First Congressional District last Summer, John Poole's right-hand man and the man who, according to Dick Badger, wanted to take Gov. Graham, Judge Kerr and others out in a boat and "dred" them, be appointed Commissioner of Agriculture; they should have invoked McLindsay's patron saint, the devil, who, if he does get the appointment, will have had a hand in giving it to him. Kellogg has been snowed under and will not be dug out again until next session. If Congress is convened at all in extra session it will not be before the first of June. It will be as some here else about that time in Wilmington, but what does the average Congressman care about heat? He neither likes it—and if he doesn't, had better try and get used to it at once. Gold fluctuates in the fractions between 4 and 5, ready to recede or advance in consonance with Mr. Hayes' action towards the South. Madam Octavia Walton LeVert, an accomplished Southern lady and authoress, is dead. The Pan Presbyterian Council will be held in Edinburg early in July and delegates from all parts of the world are expected. The Elliott Opera House and the Monument House, at Woomsocket, R. I., were burned Tuesday night. Loss $80,000. The new hotel at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, known as the Peyton House, was accidentally burned at midnight of Tuesday. The hotel was finished last June. The loss on the building is $39,000; insured for $25,000 in Baltimore companies. Part of the furniture was saved. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has issued a circular to collectors in the South, that the ordinary means of collecting revenue in portions of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee have failed. He advises collectors that the use of military should be avoided when possible, and assigns three deputies for each collection district. These deputies are specially designed to suppress the illicit manufacture of spirits and tobacco.

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

THIS MOON'S MAIL. N. Y. Herald Correspondent. WASHINGTON, March 13. Mr. Blaine is credited to-day with a new scheme for muddling the Southern question and keeping not only Louisiana and South Carolina, but the whole country in an uproar of politics for at least another few months. It is to hold new elections in the two unfortunate States. All the carpet-baggers like it, and it has the favor of all those who want to keep the Southern question unsettled and who are at their wits' ends to devise some way to defeat, or at least to delay, the President's purpose to settle it. All who sincerely desire the settlement of the Southern question oppose it as a device eminently calculated to defeat a settlement and to keep the people of the two States and of the whole country in hot water. A prominent Republican Senator said about it this evening that it was a plan entirely without merit, without the least color of law, and which could not be carried out without direct violation of the laws and constitutions of the two States. Congress, he held, even if it were in session, would have no authority to command a new election in a State. The laws of the two States do not authorize a new election. The President has patiently listened to all the plans which have been submitted to him by men of all shades of politics, and he has committed himself to none. The carpet-baggers have filled the town and the Senate with stories that the President urgently desires Kellogg and Corbin to be seated by the Senate, but the President desires nothing of the kind, but the reverse. They now assert that this new election scheme is his, but it has not even been considered by him. It can be said on undoubted authority to-night that the President does view with favor one method of settling the Southern question—namely, that of ordering the troops not to interfere in the local governments in South Carolina and Louisiana. This plan has also the favor of several of the most influential members of the Cabinet. It is to be that one which at the Cabinet meeting to-morrow will probably come up for discussion. The President hesitates about adopting it at once for only one reason. He is fearful that if it were done there might arise some disorderly proceedings in Louisiana which, he apprehends, might be used by demagogues in the North to inflame prejudice there against the conciliatory policy toward the South on which he has determined and for the success of which he is very solicitous. He has frankly stated this fear to Southern men with whom he has conversed very freely, and he has asked them to procure him guarantees and evidence which shall satisfy his mind that no such troubles as he fears would arise, if he should withdraw the troops. Such guarantees he will receive to-morrow or at farthest within a few days. The Southern men with whom he has spoken are entirely satisfied with his position, and see that his anxiety on the subject is just and reasonable. Governor Nichols has already telegraphed here to a personal friend that he is ready to guarantee absolute peace and good order, and that not a hair of Packard's or any body else's head shall be hurt if the troops are withdrawn, and he will no doubt very soon make a formal guarantee. Judge Mackey says that he is authorized to speak for Governor Hampton, and to say that he would utterly refuse to agree to a new election, as not only was he elected, but his title has been affirmed by the courts. Moreover, no person could take a title under such new election, because the State constitution provides for a special election only in one contingency, and that is in case of a contest before the Legislature, when the two houses fail to come to the same decision. The State constitution having been ratified by Congress under the reconstruction acts, it has all the force of an act of Congress, and no act of the Executive or of private parties could make a special election legal or of binding force on the citizens unless held in conformity with the constitution. The very first act performed by such an improvised Governor would be called in question in the courts and would result in overthrowing his title. The planters and people all over the State are now engaged in putting in their crops. A new election in April or May would disorganize the labor and sacrifice the entire crop. For eight months the people have been subjected to the greatest possible strain. Business all over the State has been utterly paralyzed, and industry greatly disorganized. To continue and increase all the evils from which the State has so long suffered by ordering a new election would be to put a most cruel loss on the people of the State of both colors, and no one to whom the best interests of the State are dear would even think of so disastrous a scheme. Mr. Butler, Democratic Senator from South Carolina, made uneasy by the false reports spread about to-day, that the President favored the plan of a new election, called on him this evening to ask him if it was true. The President replied that such a plan had been suggested to him, but that no attempt would of course be made to carry such plan into effect unless it were freely accepted by both parties. Mr. Butler assured the President that it would not receive the assent of Governor Hampton or those who support him.

CAROLINA.

The special term of Wake court has adjourned. The revival at Person street M. E. church, Raleigh, continues. Rev. Thomas Wilcox, of the Baptist church at Ringwood, Halifax county, died on the 8th inst. The post-office at Sauratown, Stokes county, has been re-opened with Jacob Fulton as postmaster. Twenty converts connected themselves with Person street M. E. church, in Raleigh, last Sunday night. The internal revenue collections in the Greensboro district amounted to $17,684.91 during the month of February. A hard times concert is on the tapis for to-morrow night in Raleigh, for the benefit of the M. E. Parsonage on Edenton street. Col. W. A. Eliason has received the appointment of Postmaster at Statesville we learn, vice O. M. Barkley resigned. The stockholders of the Raleigh and Augusta Air-Line Railroad will hold a called meeting in Raleigh on the 6th of April. A land-owner in Wake county contemplates experimenting in raising peanuts, believing it to be more profitable than cotton. The first term of the Wake Criminal Court will be held commencing on the third Monday in May and continue for two weeks. Mr. Edmund Jacobs, a highly respected citizen of Northampton county, died on Monday at the age of 70 years, of dropsy of the heart. The Weldon News says: Mr. Samuel Ford died very suddenly near Enfield last Saturday. It is supposed that heart disease was the cause. The Secretary of State's entire force is now on a perfect rush copying the acts of the General Assembly ratified the last three days of the session.

The Elm City Riflemen, 40 strong, under command of Captain R. D. Hancock, excused to Goldsboro on Friday, and the Newburn Nut Shell gives a column report of the day. A rumor is in circulation to the effect that Dr. J. J. Mott, Collector of the 6th District, headquarters at Statesville, has resigned. Dr. J. G. Ramsey, of Rowan, is spoken of as his successor. The Raleigh Observer says: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Partin and daughter, who were reported yesterday as having been severely burned on Sunday night by the bursting of a lamp, are now considered beyond danger. The Wadesboro Herald says: The kitchen of Mr. Manson Liles (near Lilesville) was destroyed by fire a few nights since, together with a quantity of household furniture, cooking utensils &c. Accidentally. But for timely discovery his dwelling must have been burned also. The Raleigh Observer says: Governor Vance yesterday issued a requisition upon the Governor of Georgia for Thaddeus Davis, arrested at Augusta, the supposed thief who robbed the jewelry store of A. E. Welfare & Co., at Salem, and Mayor Fogle, of that town, left the city yesterday evening for Augusta, to bring the man back for trial. The Weldon News says: About two miles from Enfield, on Mr. Thomas Glasgow's farm, a solid wall, built of brick, has been discovered under the ground. Most of the bricks are two and a half inches thick, eight inches long and seven and a half wide. The full length and width of the wall has not yet been determined. An ancient looking sword and axe have been dug out of the ground adjoining. The Concord Sun says: A poor old tramp, from Charlotte, being overtaken in the severe rain last Thursday night, stumbled over the guano shed at the Depot, at this place, where several thousand tons of the stuff is stored away, wedged himself in among the bags and spent the night there. He was run out of town thirteen different times the next day. A barn full of pole cats could not have produced a livelier sensation. The Raleigh Observer says: The bill amending the act of 1873-74, submitting the question of license prohibition to the voters of any township passed its third reading on Saturday last and has become a law. The effect of the amendment to the original bill is that the election occurs on the first Monday in June, instead of May, and includes vinous and malt liquors. The objects of this amendment was, we are informed, to avoid mixing the prohibition question with politics, and to allow it to stand upon its own merits. The Charlotte Observer says: A few days ago the Legislature passed a bill granting a charter to the Statesville and Taylorsville Steam Transportation Company, and many were doubtless unable to understand just what this meant. It seems that Dr. Elliott (well known as the proprietor of the Catawba White Sulphur Springs) and others, have conceived the idea of purchasing a road engine to run between Statesville and Taylorsville a distance of about twenty miles. The road is an unusually level one, there being scarcely a hill between the two places, and only no stream, which is near Taylorsville.

The Newbern Nut Shell publishes a report of a very severe tornado which passed over a portion of Jones county, near Trenton, on last Tuesday. The Nut Shell says that the whirlwind first struck the earth about one mile west of Trenton, covering an area of one fourth of a mile and continuing its course to Trenton river, totally destroying all houses, fences and trees in its path. Large dwellings, barns and out-houses were demolished in the twinkling of an eye, while hickory, pine and cypress trees, of enormous sizes were twisted like pipe stems.

After to-day there will be but five days left in which you can register for the election to be held next Thursday. Isaac W. King, and Jos. C. Hill, colored, are the candidates of the Fifth Ward Republicans for Aldermanic honors. Col. B. R. Moore was on Tuesday commissioned by the Governor as Solicitor of the Criminal Court for this county. If the Democrats in the city will all register and vote they can easily carry the election next Thursday. Fourth Warders will please ponder. The keen Northeast winds were not very pleasant this morning to the early birds who were looking for breakfast. The beautiful flowering moss, peculiar to this latitude, is in more abundance this season than has been known in many years before. The Northern mail is now generally in the office and distributed before 7 1/2 o'clock p. m., which is something of great convenience to the general public. It is a fact that Mr. Geo. Myers has some crackers so small that it takes by actual count nearly a thousand of them to make a mile—a pound we mean. Capt. James W. Lippitt will receive a consignment of fresh bread and rolls from the Goldsboro Bakery, this evening, at 7 o'clock. The bread was baked this noon and is said to be very nice. This is the first shipment of the kind we have heard of. Notwithstanding the fact that we have eight or nine bakeries in the city not one is advertised, and we do not wonder that bakers of Goldsboro think we have no bakeries.

The streets were filled with beautiful women in bright array this morning who glided from store to store with the enquiry, "Have'n't your Spring goods come yet?" One young lady told Mr. Katz that she had been running over the advertising columns of the Review every day for a week past to find a notice of the opening of his Spring stock, and Mr. Katz told her to keep on looking and that she would find it there before very long. Concert. The splendid entertainment given by the Methodist Sunday School to a large and appreciative audience on Tuesday night, is by earnest request to be repeated to-morrow (Friday) night. Changes will, we understand, be made in the programme, and the exercises will be fully as attractive as the other and equally as interesting to all those who were out on Tuesday night. We advise everybody to go who wishes to spend a delightful evening. As before admission will be free, and a collection will be taken for the benefit of the Sunday School. Saturday Night. Duprez & Benedict's Minstrels are receiving the highest encomiums from the press wherever they have been, and we may expect to see on Saturday night something above the ordinary minstrel performance. The Detroit Post, says: Another crowded house last night and the show a big improvement on the one of the previous evening, and that is saying a great deal, for we thought it was immense, but the entertainment last night was the climax of their engagement. Like old wine, they improve. Success to them, for they deserve it. No better troupe travels than this one; and in no four troupes put together can be found such an array of talent as Manager Duprez has in his splendid organization. The Thermometer.
