VOL. 2. WILMINGTON, N. C., MONDAY, APRIL 23, 1877. NO. 79

PLEASE NOTICE.

We will be glad to receive communications from our friends on any and all subjects of general interest but:

The name of the writer must always be furnished to the Editor.

Communications must be written only on one side of the paper.

Personalities must be avoided.

And it is especially and particularly understood that the editor does not always endorse the views of correspondents, unless so stated in the editorial columns.

Don't.

Don't swindle a man out of what you owe him, and then expect him to love you as a brother.

Don't borrow ten dollars from your friend and get mad at him if within ten years he should remind you that you had forgotten to pay it back.

Don't tell a man whom you owe $2.50 that you haven't got it, and then display to his admiring gaze a paste pin that you have just invested $7.50 in.

Don't always be complaining of being "hard up" when dunned, for little bills you owe, and try to run two fashionable tailoring establishments in New York.

Don't compel your washwoman to borrow money to buy soap, because you can't pay, while you spend four dollars a week in bad whiskey and cigars.

Don't tell a man you owe that you will settle "to-morrow" for more than four hundred times, for he will naturally think that you either have a bad memory or that you are lying about it.

Don't beat your washwoman or cook down fifty cents a month and then subscribe what you beat them out of to the next circus.

Don't think there is any particular merit in supplying red shirts to naked savages. The reward would be just as great if you gave them to the naked ones nearer your own doors.

Don't expect to build up a reputation for industry and honesty by loafing four days out of the week and spending the earnings of the other two in acquiring the mysteries of billiards, while your board-bills are unpaid.

Don't go in debt to everybody you deal with, pay nobody, and then wonder that everybody would rather have cash than your word.

Don't live at a two-thousand dollar rate on a six hundred dollar salary. You, your employer, or your creditors will "burst."

Don't part your hair in the middle and swing a gold-headed cane while the "old maids" is at home pulling the weeds out of the potatoes that you expect to winter on.

Don't wear kid gloves to keep your hands soft, as a sign of gentility, for soft hands are as often (in men) a sign of soft heads.

Don't think that lounging about in idleness will make you a little more respectable than your father, who earned an honest and honorable livelihood at the forge or in the forks of the plow.

Don't think that broadcloth will make a "gentleman" out of you, for a sheep wore the same suit before it went through the loom.

Don't ruin yourself with fast living, fast women and fast horses. You can go to the devil fast enough without these.

Don't think that filling yourself with bad whiskey, and carousing about in questionable quarters at night proves you to be a "blood." It only shows, if you are not actually one, how narrowly you escaped being born an idiot.

Don't think it an honor to be a leader among fools. The sheep that wears the bell is not a white superior, to the balance of the flock.

The "Deronda" is the latest agency in collars for gents. It has a mansard roof on it.

A "drummer" was before the Mayor this morning for selling goods without a license.

Before the police court several cases of "Saturday night's trouble" were adjudicated this morning.

Maj. J. A. Engelhardt, Secretary of the State, is in New York on business connected with his department.

Sprinkle, sprinkle, little cart; how we wonder where thou art; come and lay this awful dust, ere we choke or ere we bust.

Gold was last at par on the 1st of January, 1892. The lowest price within this decade was on March 23, 1877, when gold touched $1.04.

"Neither watch nor chain is visible now in the best French society," says an exchange. What a business the pawnbrokers must be doing in that country.

It sounds like a romance to read that over one hundred handsome American girls broke through the ice last winter, were rescued, and have married their rescuers.

UNSCRUPULOUS DEALERS have tried to filch from Dooley Brothers their talent and reputation. DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER is always sold in cans, and is absolutely full weight. Be sure you get the right article and it will be a blessing to the household, and a saving to the purse.

A convention of colored people will be held in Washington City at an early date to adopt some course of policy for the colored people in the Southern States. Geo. W. Price, Jr., is a delegate from this place.

It is announced that pink stockings have been discarded on account of the poisonous qualities of the dye used, it having been found impossible to persuade the Western girls to abandon the practice of untying their garters with their teeth.

The hop at the Opera House to-morrow night is the theme of conversation among the young folks and the "old stagers" are looking forward to it with about as much joyous anticipation as maidens in their teens. It is to be the hop of the season.

The Thermometer.

From the United States Signal Office at this place we obtain the following report of the thermometer, as taken this morning at 7:31 o'clock:

Augusta, 59; Charleston, 60; Galveston, 69; Jacksonville, 67; Mobile, 66; Montgomery, 62; New Orleans, 66; Norfolk, 54; Savannah, 61; Wilmington, 57.

Requisition for Arms.

We learn from the Raleigh News that the Adjutant-General made his requisition on the ordnance department at Washington, on Friday last, for a battery of artillery for the Cape Fear Light Artillery, which was organized in 1875. Henry G. Flanner, Captain. Quite a number of stands of breech-loading muskets were included in the same requisition.

Drunk and Disorderly.

A young man from the country, of black complexion, who is deaf, dumb and carrying a wooden leg, was up before the Mayor this morning for drunkenness and disorderly conduct on Saturday night. Being a scientific pugilist it took six policemen to carry him to the lock-up. It would have been amusing to by-standers to see the man handling himself, though the policemen whom he stopped upon the head with his wooden leg thought there was no fun in it.

The Rite of Confirmation.

The Right Rev. the Assistant Bishop of the Diocese, visited St. Paul's Church Saturday night and administered the rite of confirmation to six candidates.

Yesterday morning the rite was administered to four males and four females at St. James', and in the evening at St. John's to six males and seven females. The services were well attended and many who had never before had the pleasure of listening to Bishop Lyman were very much pleased with him. He displays much more of the orator than is usually seen in the pulpit, and having a deep rich voice, the ceremonies were rendered peculiarly solemn and grand.

Important to Merchants.

From inquiries received at the office of the State Treasury, it is apparent that the merchants of the State do not understand that section 24, schedule B, of the revenue act, in relation to drummers, applies to them. Under the Constitution of the United States, as construed by the Supreme Court of the United States and of this State, a State cannot pass a law discriminating in favor of residents as against non-residents. The Legislature in passing this law conformed its action to the decisions of the courts above mentioned, and to the Constitution of the United States, and resident merchants must therefore obtain license to sell goods in the manner prescribed in said section.

European Carp.

Mr. W. C. Kerr, State Geologist, has induced Col. T. C. McIlhenny, of this city, to experiment in his pond near the city, with the European carp. It is of the soft-finned tribe and is easily reared in ponds of muddy bottom. They subsist principally on insects and vegetable matter.

Cuvier in his Animal Kingdom says of them: a fish universally known, green inclined to olive, yellowish underneath, with the dorsal and anal spines strong and denticulated, and the barbels short; its pharyngeal teeth are flat and straited at the crown. Originally from the central part of Europe, it lives in our cold waters where it attains as much as four feet in length. It is easily reared in vivaries and ponds, and its flesh is generally of an excellent flavor.

A man who wanted to be agricultural editor of a city paper recently wrote saying that he especially loved cows, and, in fact, that he had one in every room in the house.

FAST MAIL SERVICE.

The United States Postal Commissioners to Visit Wilmington—Preparations for their Reception.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade and Produce Exchange was held this morning in the Produce Exchange Building to make arrangements for the reception of the Hons. Dan'l M. Fox, (ex-Mayor of Philadelphia) J. W. Marshall, (formerly Assistant Post Master General) Gardner G. Hubbard and Geo. Basset, who compose the U. S. Postal Commission and who will be in this city to-morrow.

Mr. A. H. VanBokkelen was called to the chair, and after the object of the meeting was explained the following committees were reported. On the part of the

CITY OF WILMINGTON.

W. P. Canaday, Chairman ex-officio, B. F. Mitchell and J. W. Atkinson.

At 11 o'clock to-morrow morning a meeting will be held in the Library Room, Masonic building, at which time the Commission will meet and consult with the business men of the city. The matter of increased mail facilities is of especial interest to our business men, and they hail the coming of the Commission with delight. There are now two fast mail lines from Washington City to New Orleans, one via St. Louis and the other over the Richmond and Danville Railroad via Charlotte. The Commission is out on an investigation to ascertain by which route would the largest number of cities be benefited and which would be the quickest and most feasible. Should the Commission's report be in favor of the Atlantic Coast Line as a route for the fast through mail, Wilmington would then be on the line of direct travel and would be benefited thereby.

Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Marshall, Miss Hubbard and Miss Basset accompany the Commission on their tour. The gentlemen and their wives and daughters are expected to attend the Hop at the Opera House to-morrow evening, and in the afternoon a Sound party will be given complimentary to them.

A Treat.

Messrs. C. D. Myers & Co. spread a lunch table in their store this noon to which their friends were invited to attend. Brougham's celebrated cooked meats, consisting of corned beef, roast beef, boned turkey, pig's feet and tongues were spread upon the table and were pronounced by the many who snacked their lips over them to be excellent. The meats are prepared under an entirely new process, whereby all the natural juices and original solidity are preserved. It is claimed that their mode of preparation renders them superior to other articles of the kind, and they fully equal home-cooked food. They are always sweet and nutritious and are warranted to keep in any climate. Messrs. Myers & Co. have these goods for sale and we think one trial will convince any one of the superiority of these over most canned goods.

The Olive.

We have been shown a branch or limb of the wild olive found growing near this city. Several persons familiar with both the sweet and wild olive pronounced the specimen to be the genuine. Upon inquiry we find that it is found growing in the woods in several places in this vicinity and is usually found growing in very rich sandy loam. There is no doubt but the sweet olive could be grown here, in this semi-tropical climate by grafting upon the wild standard. As it is generally supposed that Cassava will grow where the wild olive is indigenous, and such being the case upon the Gulf Mexico, the probabilities are that Cassava could be made a profitable crop here, not merely for making it into Tapioca, but more especially for fattening of hogs. The yield of Cassava is very great, upon suitable land, is often as much as 500 to 900 bushels per acre, is equally as good or better than sweet potatoes for fattening hogs, and its cultivation is very easy, as the ground has only to be prepared, when the Cassava is planted or sown broadcast.
