LOCAL NEWS.

New Advertisements. Notice to holders of claims against the County of New Hanover. S. JEWETT—New Books. Some prospect of fair weather ahead. The Grand Jury yesterday found 25 true bills. Steamship Raleigh, Oliver, from this port, arrived on Tuesday at Baltimore. Danish brig C. B. Jensen, sailed from Hamburg on the 11th inst for this port. We have put off buying dumb bells for exercise. It will soon be time to slam around at mosquitoes. Sch. John L. Tracy, Meservey, from this port, for Portland, Me, arrived at Vineyard Haven last Tuesday. The Grand Jury have found 112 true bills thus far during this term of the Criminal Court and the cry is, still they come. Our readers will not forget the dime party to be given by the ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in the Lumsden building this evening. There will be a perfect exodus from the city to the Sounds and to Smithville during the next two weeks. Many families have left already. Supreme Court. This court met yesterday morning at the usual hour with all of the Justices present. The case of Samuel Morgan et al vs Adrian & Vollers, et al from New Hanover county, was resumed and the argument continued through the day. E. G. Haywood, Esq., appears for the plaintiffs, and Wright & Steadman and W. N. H. Smith, Esq., for the defendants. Justice Faircloth did not sit in this case. The argument will be concluded to-day. Another Excursion. We understand that the Sunday School children of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church are to have an excursion next Tuesday to Col. McElhenny's plantation, in Brunswick county, a short distance below the city. The steamer North East has been chartered for the occasion, and every arrangement will be made for the comfort and pleasure of those who may attend. How to Get Rid of Warts. You can get rid of a wart by stealing a piece of pork and burying it under a stone. A horse chestnut carried in the left pocket is equally effective. Or get an old piece of string and rub with it the objectionable excrescence, repeating in a soft and appealing voice the invocation, "Ananama monamika, Barcelona bona strike, hare ware from a back halloo, baioco, we wack!" The wart will vanish. Mr. Davis' Lecture. The address delivered last night by Hon. Geo. Davis at the Opera House, for the benefit of the Philomathean Literary Society, drew out the largest audience we have had here for years, and that, too, despite the bad weather. Mr. Davis was presented to the audience by Mr. Wm. L. Smith, Jr., the President of the Society, in very appropriate remarks. The address was a reproduction of that entitled "The Early Times and Men of the Cape Fear," which was first delivered before the two Societies at Chapel Hill in 1855, and which has since ranked as one of the best papers extant relative to the history of the State. This address was published at the time in pamphlet form, but copies of it are now very rare, and hence, we are pleased to learn, it is in contemplation by the Wilmington Library Association to reprint it, as it was delivered last night, provided Mr. Davis consent can be obtained. The Review for the Summer. Persons leaving the city for the various watering places, country residences or resorts, or those going abroad, can have the DAILY REVIEW mailed to any address by ordering the same at this office, at 15 cents for one week, 25 cents for two weeks, 40 cts for three weeks, 50 cents for one month, $1.50 for three months, $3. for six months, payable in advance at this office. United States postage prepaid. The Board of Aldermen will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock to receive the report of the Committee on applications for police appointments, after which the Board will go into an election of officers for the police force. Steamship Raleigh, Jones, three days from this port, arrived at New York on Tuesday. Vegetables and fruit are growing finely and flowers abound in endless profusion.

A Reminiscence.

The battery of the Cape Fear Light Artillery, spoken of by us elsewhere, is the first that we have ever seen on the streets of Wilmington in the hands of a volunteer company. The last time we saw any of the sort here was on the 21st day of February, 1865, the last day of the occupation of Wilmington by the Confederate forces. On that day Col. Jno. J. Hedrick's command, retreating from Fort Anderson, reached the city and in the command was Capt. A. A. Mosely's battery of Whitworth guns. During the forenoon the advance of the enemy came in sight on the causeway opposite the city. They had left their artillery behind them and already left the city, they came gaily on to take possession. They could be plainly discovered, advancing along the causeway with their flag floating proudly in the air, commanded, as it was afterwards ascertained, by a Capt. Bradley, who at the close of the war was of the firm of Bradley & Woehler, commission merchants, who during the year 1865 did a smashing big business in the building now occupied by Messrs. Kerchner & Calder Bros. The Confederates, however, were not in a big hurry about leaving town after all, as our blue coated friends soon ascertained. Col. Hedrick ordered Capt. Mosely to bring up one of his pieces, and the gun was planted at the intersection of Market and Front streets, to the south of the Market House, and a shell was sent out to meet the advancing column. The shot was witnessed by many ladies and children who viewed the scene from Market street, as far up as Fourth, and when the smoke cleared away not a blue coat was to be seen. The shell had fallen some few feet to the left of the column, in the swampy soil and an explosion covered Capt. Bradley and some of his men with mud. It was the first and last fight of the war at Wilmington, and this was the last battery we saw in the old town. The next morning the place was in the hands of the Federals but they did not come from the Brunswick side of the river, but from below the encampments which Gen. Hoke's division had thrown up four miles below the city and which reached clear across the peninsula, from the river to the Sound. That night (the night of the 21st) the railroad ferry boat, the Harlee, the little supply steamer John Dawson and all of the transports in the river were set on fire. The illumination was a brilliant one and anything passing on the opposite side of the river could be seen as easily as in daylight, but there was nothing to be seen. At nearly 4 o'clock A. M. of the 22d we stood at the foot of Princess street and looked eagerly at the houses at the old depot on Eagle's Island for a glimpse of the enemy, but if they were there they could not be seen. An hour afterwards we were on the road and Hoke having at that time effected a junction with Hagood and Hedrick, from Fort Anderson, Wilmington was evacuated. The Confederate column pushed on to the North and burned the railroad bridge behind them over the Northeast river, 9 miles above the city. Here, a few hours afterwards, the Yankee forces came up, but as they could not cross the river they had to content themselves with an artillery duel; and this was the last we saw of Wilmington during the war.

The Forger.

The case of R. M. Walker, alias W. M. Taylor, the forger, spoken of by us yesterday, was concluded last evening in the Criminal Court. The defendant was found guilty and sentenced to eight years imprisonment in the Penitentiary. Walker, or Taylor as his name may be, is from the Western part of the State and is a man of a good education.

The Thermometer.

From the United States Signal Office at this place we obtain the following report of the thermometer, as taken this morning at 7:31 o'clock: Augusta, 73; Charleston, 77; Corsicana, 71; Galveston, 77; Indianola, 72; Jacksonville, 78; Mobile, 77; Montgomery, 75; New Orleans, 77; Norfolk, 73; Savannah, 76; St. Marks, 75; Wilmington, 75.

Unmailable Letters.

The following are the unmailable letters remaining in the city postoffice: Mrs. Edward B. Dudley, Waresboro, Ga.; Mrs. F. W. Potter, Smithville, N. C.; Thos. E. Williams & Co., Richmond, Va.; Miss H. T. Nixon, Winston P. O. Harnett Co., N. C.; Mrs. E. Taylor, Robinson P. O.; Columbus Co., N. C.

City Court.

The following cases were disposed of this morning as follows: Two gay young Lotharios (gemmen of color) were brought before the Mayor this morning, charged with disorderly conduct and threatening or resisting the police officer who arrested them. The evidence given in by the policeman who made the arrest went to prove that these sable youths were on a sort of a lark about the wee hours of the morning, when they were overhauled by officer McMillan, of the night force, and brought up standing at the station house. The Mayor fined them $25 a piece for their jollification and ordered them locked up until the fine is paid. A well-dressed young white man, evidently a stranger in these parts, had a wrestle with John Barley Corn last night on the wharf, and was thrown flat on his back, where he remained until the police came along, picked him up and carried him to the guard house. The Mayor released him with a fine of $5, which he forked over and departed, a sadder if not a better man. Rose Tyler, a colored wench of ill repute, and an old offender, was arrested for disorderly conduct. His Honor, with a long-drawn sigh, ordered her to the cell to be dosed with bread and water.

Criminal Court.

The following cases have been disposed of in this Court since our yesterday's report: State vs. Taylor Woodward, for assault and battery. Case dismissed on payment of costs. State vs. George Evans, for embezzlement. Verdict not guilty. State vs. Prince Kelley, for larceny and receiving stolen goods. Verdict guilty. State vs. Rebecca Kelley alias Bradley, JURY out. Richard Nixon was arraigned for burglary. Messrs. Jno. L. Holmes and Jno. D. Bellamy, Jr., were assigned as his counsel. A special venire of seventy has been ordered, and the case has been set for trial on Monday next, at 9:30 o'clock. State vs. R. M. Walker alias W. M. Taylor, charged with forgery. Defendant found guilty and sentenced to the Penitentiary for eight years. State vs. H. A. Atkins, charged with embezzlement. Left open. State vs. Washington Howard and Solomon Motton, charged with larceny. Continued for the term. State vs. Robert Ellerby and Frank Henry, charged with larceny. Nol. pros. entered in the case of both defendants. State vs. Prince Kelley, charged with larceny. State vs. Robert Ellerby, charged with larceny.

The Light Battery.

The four guns of the Cape Fear Light Artillery have all been mounted and together with the caissons, harness and accoutrements have been stored in the Currie building, on Princess street. The guns are 2-inch rifles and are evidently just from the shops, as the dust from the borings is still in them, evincing, very plainly, that they have never been used. They weigh 816 pounds to the naked gun, and everything is now on hand except the horses and the ammunition. The former will be supplied by the Company and the latter will be requisitioned for (with some hope of being received) and a request enclosed that a few shot and shell will be thrown in "just to fill up" so that a little actual practice may be had by the Company. We understand that the Company will go into immediate drill at the guns with the expectation of a public parade with them on the Fourth of July.

Appleton for July.

Appleton's Journal for July gives considerable space to a noveltie by Christian Reid, entitled "A Work of Retribution." It is given complete, and accompanied by a good illustration by Mr. Sheppard. The illustrated article is based upon Russell's volume, "The Prince of Wales's Tour in India." Colonel Baker's "Turkey in Europe" affords the groundwork for another Eastern paper. There is a pleasing description of the Farne Islands, the "land of gulls and guillemots," off the east coast of England, which is spiced with a love-adventure. An amusing paper on "Osculation" gives the history, philosophy, and poetry of kissing. An entertaining paper, by Wirt Sikes, is entitled "The True Story of Owen Glendower." A very graphic and striking sketch, entitled "Lighting a Match," records some strange adventures in a German inn. Mr. H. M. Robinson describes in an entertaining manner the characteristics of the Blackfoot Indians, and the peculiar methods of trading with them. There are poems, short articles mainly of a humorous character under the head of "Collectanea," and the editor's usual review of books, and comments on current topics.

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 8, 1877.

EDITORIAL REVIEW. Your recent notice of the datura has induced me to send you this plea for the "jimson weeds." Of the ornamental class of datura plants there are four—atrovirens, fastuosa, herberiana, with large double lilac flowers, inside nearly white; wrightii, white with blue borders; humulis, flowers large, double, of a rich nanken yellow, delightfully fragrant. This last I grew in my yard last year and though the plant itself is not attractive the blooms are fine, being large, delicate in color and very fragrant. Of the common roadside datura or Jamestown weed, I know of three varieties—the white, the purple and the white with lilac borders. Although these plants are disliked by every one—as weeds they should be allowed to grow for many excellent reasons. The medical men know well the value of the stramonium plant, and it is strange that a plant so easily obtained in this country, possessing such powerful and peculiar properties, should have so little attention bestowed upon it. Stramonium ointment is so useful no family should be without it; for inflammatory rheumatism, tumors, all kinds of painful ulcers, cancers, and for many other complaints it is very valuable. The extract is almost identical in medicinal virtues to belladonna, is antagonistic to the poisonous effects of opium, is serviceable where opium cannot be given, is useful dropped into the eye previous to the operation for cataract. Combined with quinia, it forms a most invaluable preparation which has been found very beneficial in intermittent fevers, all periodic headaches, delirium tremens, &c., and is used to allay rheumatic and neuralgic pains. The green leaves of the datura, boiled or heated in fresh milk, makes a most soothing as well as curative application for the ordinary inflamed suppurating erysipelas. Ladies preparing specimens of skeleton leaves and flowers will find the seed capsules of the poor despised Jamestown weed make the loveliest, lace-like looking specimens of anything they can collect. DEAR REVIEW.—A complaint column in your valuable paper would prove a convenience to the community at large, for the management of affairs in our city affords abundant grounds for complaint. Among the many things to find fault with at present, is the dangerous amusement of fast driving indulged in on the turnpike. This, Mr. Editor, is pleasing to behold, and very gratifying no doubt to the young "bloods" holding the reins, but there is not a day that some one does not run a risk in crossing the pike anywhere between Fifth and Ninth streets. Two instances came under my observation on Saturday afternoon. Let it be stopped before it is too late. Let the city fathers regulate the rate of speed to be driven within the city limits, and for convenience, require vehicles to keep to the right. I enjoy fine horses and fast driving, but I enjoy my children more, and for their safety I beg that this dangerous sport be stopped, and that racing will hereafter be confined to that part of the turnpike lying beyond the city limits. Knowing your readiness always to contribute to the comfort of your patrons, I beg you will call attention to this matter in your paper. A SUBSCRIBER. June 13, 1877.

Trouble in the Household.

We would advise every one interested not to buy Yeast or Baking Powders, loose or in bulk. They are usually made by unskillful persons, and have frequently proven totally unfit for use. There is no guarantee or responsibility attached to loose powder. DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER is always put up in cans, warranted full weight, and absolutely pure.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue of BOSCHER'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing every one that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.
