Set Adrift. ,

Michael Priest, the white soldier who gave himself up to the city authorities on ihe 29th of last month, as a descriter from Company K. 18th U. S. Infantry, stationed at Columbia, South Carolina, was today discharged from custody by the Mayor. His honor, Mayor Dawson, telegraphed the fact of his arrest to Col. Pennington, at Smithville and also Col. Black at Columbia, and after waiting a reasonable length, of time and receiving no answer to his dispatch. concluded to set the fellow adrift again and let him paddle his own canoe. So Mr. Michael Priest his vocabulary, when there is a deviis now at large with a reward of $30 ation from the grooves of discipline, offered for him, which amount, however, But instantly smoothing his wrinkled Uncle Sam evidently don't seem to think

Under this caption the Charlotte Observer says :. Col. Jas. Anderson having resigned the superintendency of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta and Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Railroads, it is stated that Maj. John F. Divine, of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad, will succeed him as Superintendent of the Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta, retaining, at the same time, the superintendency of the Wilmington & Weldon; and that Col. John Palmer, President of the Charlotte, long vanished but not forgotten. But Columbia & Augusta, will add to his duties as President those of the Superintendent of this line, thus virtually effecting a consolidation of the two offices. Another rumor is that Mr. W. W. Pegram, of this city, will be called to the superintendency of the Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad. A pleasant gentleman and an able and experienced railroad man, he would discharge the trusts of such a position with credit to himself and with satisfaction to the public and the company." We are glad to be able to state here that the rumors relative to the Superintendency of the W. C. & A. R. As there is no jolting, a slight digres, sion may not be considered "mal apropos". In accidentally referring to the ubiquitous Colonel, ar tear of regret moistened our dust shruded cheek as the Purcell House, like Banquo's ghost, rose to our mind's eye, shorn of its vitality and consigned to the tomb of misfortune. Disagreeable rumor has despoiled the city of this realous and nnrivaled hotel Empresario: He soon departs for Norfolk, Va., there to hoist his banner and add ne. front when gentlemanly couriesy is requisite.

Sixty five minutes were consumed upon the turnpike ere we reached the fishing boat that was to carry Casar and his fortune to the beach.

Having landed, I wandered to the surf shore; regardless of personal discomfiture, I permitted the old familiar waves to embrace my feet as they murmured an ancient welcome to their bantling. What memories of the past came floating on those billows, as I stretched out my arms as if to embrace them, dear old companions of days to the gathering in my rear. The "Grand Yacht Stand" was assuming a gala day appearance, as beauty and grace in all its bright apparel was forming a coup d'acid of exceeding loveliness. On the beach in front of the Stand vachts were clustered a throng of gentlemen of the Club, discussing with nautical earnestness (as if born and bred upon the sea) the various merits of the congregated crafts. The unnamed boat of Captain Granger was particularly the theme of speculative comment. Old Salts assured their juvenile associates that Grainger's luck would dischang one u-1 and his ou-
