Bridging the Danube.

The Russians seem to have built their bridges and crossed the Danube into the Dobrudscha very quietly. It was a bolder and more briliant undertaking in 1828. The Turks had divined the intentions of the enemy, and had intrenched themselves opposite the point of crossing. The Russians had to make a causeway 7,000 paces in length before they could reach the bank, and were under fire while at work. They had a flotilla on the Danube, and when their causeway was complete they they sent a detachment of infantry and Cossacks across the river in boats and landed below the Turkish earthworks. These troops, carried the intredchments by storm, and the Turks abandoned the attempt to dispute the crossing. Napoleon's passage of the Danube in theface of the Austrians before the battle of Wagram was still more brilliant. He concealed the materials for a floating bridge in the woeds and brushwood; he sent across at nine p. m. two battalions of infantry, who held theio ground till the bridge was completed; he then threw another corps across the the river and by daylight there were 70,000 soldiers on the other side.

Mrs. Mary Mayard Clarke.

Mrs. Mary Bayard Clarke, of North Carolina, well known as a writer, is spending the summer with Mrs. Charlotte Smith, of The Inland Mogazine.

The Inland Club met in its rooms on mines his conduct in receiving Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Mrs. Charlotte Smith presiding, and Miss Harriet L.

The weather for the last few days, with the frequent showers, reminds one of the July flood of 1867. Magistrate's Court.

The case of the white man, Joseph Kelley, arrested in Messre. Alex. Sprunt & Son's office, night before last, was heard before Justice Harriss, to-day and the prisoner committed to jail in default of bail, to await his trial at the next term of the Criminal Court in Freshet in the River. By accounts just received here from Fayetteville, we learn that the river at that place rose 21 feet yesterday morning between daylight and breakfast time, 7 o'clock. The rains in the up country we learn have been quite heavy and consequently we may look for a considerable rise in the muddy waters of the old Cape Fear in a few days.
