Distance of the Stars.

In a recet lecture in Edinburgh on "The Stars," Prof. Grant said that a railway train, traveling day and night fifty miles an hour, would reach the moon in aix months, the sun in two hundred years, and Alpha Centauris, the nearest of the fixed stars, in forty-two million of years; a cannon ball, travelling nine hundred miles per hour, in 2,700,000 years; and light, travelling 185,000 miles per second, in three years. Light from some of the telescopic stars takes 5,760 years to reach the earth; from others 500,000 years. These stars, therefore, may have become extinct thousands of years ago, though their lights comes to our eyes. Alpha Lyra is 100,000,000 of miles from us, and its magnitude and splendor are as twenty to one compared with our sun. The sun is neither greater nor smaller than most of the stars.
