SATURDAY, JULY 28, 1877.

VIEWES AND REVIEWS.

Mr. Packard has quit fishing. He is now going to visit his mother, who lives in Maine.

Wade Hampton, colored, who was once a slave of Governor Wade Hampton, is lecturing in Southern Indiana on the "Condition of the South."

St. Petersburg exchange in London has been lower during the past two or three weeks than at any time during the Crimean war, or, with one exception, (in 1866,) since.

Suppose a juggler, thinking himself bullet-proof, invites a man to discharge a gun at him, and is killed, can the man be punished for murder? That is the question now agitating an East Indian court.

George H. Pendleton is reported to have changed wonderfully within a year, and now looks twenty years older than a twelvemonth ago. He is gray; and not so careful in his dress.

Gen. Garibaldi has just been extremely ill. He lay for some time, one day, unconscious, stiff and cold, but when restored he gaily remarked: "O, that's nothing you may be sure I shall survive Pio Nono, and attend his funeral."

Respecting the effect on the fibre of cotton subjected to extraordinary pressure in order to reduce the size of the bales, Mr. John Butterworth, Oldham, writes to the editor of Cotton, that he has examples under a microscope magnifying 1,400 times, and found no trace of injury.

There is a shrinkage of values in church property, too. At a sheriff's sale of the Church of the Holy Saviour, in New York, last week, an organ which cost $4,000 was sold for $800. The communion plate brought 85 cents an ounce, the pulpit went for $21, and the baptismal font was knocked down for $50-$700 was paid for it by the church.

There is trouble among the doctors in Indianapolis. The managers of the city hospital have appointed a homoeopathist on the board of consulting physicians, and the "regulars" declare they won't serve with him. The homoeopathist refuses to budge, and the managers are firm.

The large foreign trade of California in fruit and wines becomes no mystery when it is known that the State has 3,800,000 fruit trees and 35,000,000 grape vines, and harvests from 300,000,000 to 500,000,000 pounds of fruit yearly. She produces a large surplus, and foreign trade follows as a matter of course.

In a late London letter M. D. Conway says if Dr. Fairfax, of Virginia; eleventh baron of an ancient house, were to go to England "and take the seat in the House of Lords which is his due, I believe the fuss made over him would become a chapter in the history of England. It is understood that he declines to come on republican grounds, in which case President Hayes should look out for him when next in want of a foreign minister; but all Americans are not so stern in their political virtue."

The new German four per cent. loan is to be issued through a Syndicate of German bankers, who take it at 94, and place it on the market at 94 6-10. The total amount to be raised is $19,450,000. Subscriptions up to be received on the 25th and 26th of the present month, but on the 1st of July offers to take $87,500,000 had already been received. At the same time that this loan is selling at a discount of 3 4-10 per cent., United States bonds command a small premium.

Becher, in his Sunday sermon, scolded at the working classes for grumbling at low wages. He said it was said that $1 a day was not enough to support a wife and six children. It was not enough if the man smoked, if he drank beer, and if he and his family wanted superior clothing, food and shelter. "But," said Mr. Becher, vehemently, "is not $1 a day enough to buy bread? And water costs nothing; and a man that can't live on bread is not fit to live." Mr. Becher gets $25,000 a year.

A letter from Constantinople states that the 100,000 Zeibucks lately emancipated there have left for active service. All were fantastically picturesque in costume, and each man carried two pistols, four yatagans, and two or more cutlasses, the latter being well sharpened and much more keen than the scruples of their wearers, who were most inconveniently disposed to gallantry with the ladies, and to appropriating anything they could lay their hands on. The resources of Turkey in volunteers from Mohammedan countries is very great.

TEST OF POPULAR GOVERNMENT.

European publicists, says the Macon Telegraph, have held a favorite theory that popular government in America would perish by famine. When the country becomes crowded with a moneyless population, like the populous countries of Europe, and periods of trade prostration or crop failures gripe the bowels of the poor, there is no conservative force sufficient to maintain order and the right of property. The hungry and suffering majority will assert their power, and lay hold of the accumulations of capital, and the whole concern go to wreck and ruin like a ship driven on a lee shore before a furious gale.

The reader will recall an eloquent but gloomy prognostication to this effect from the pen of the philosophic Macaulay, and it has been a fashionable view to take of the American future among the English politicians, until the late civil war, which is everywhere assumed to have demonstrated the self-asserting and self-protecting power of the Federal Government.

But this was a shallow and unwarrantable deduction from the premises. The truth is, the civil war proved nothing about the capacity of the Federal Government to vindicate itself against a hostile popular opinion. In that war, it merely put itself at the head of popular passion. It had but to "ride on the whirlwind and direct the storm." It became the representative of a popular fury against slave property, "slave drivers"—a "slave oligarchy." The war to the Northern heart—to mine out of ten—was a struggle against an overmastering tyranny, which insisted on owning its laborers soul and body, and paid for their labor in bloody stripes. It was a police onslaught against thieves, assassins, perjurers and adulterers—for these were the terms applied to the Southern minority; and it had no substantial opposing party in the sections which levied it against a hated foreign minority.

That was no test in the smallest degree of the power of the government against the popular will. It only showed what the government could do as the organ and instrument of the popular will—as in fact the destroyer of unpopular rights and property and not their protector. So then, it is a fact, that now the first test of that kind is in course of application. Now we are not going into a night-mare about the result of this test. We believe order will be restored after time and loss; but the serious point is about the future. The elements of peril grow from year to year. The disparity in popular fortunes increase and widen. The chances for the poor to gain wealth diminish, and the classification into nabobs and peasantry is progressing in extent and universality all the time. To-day we see the trade of the country suddenly put in irons by a small portion of the laboring population and held there day after day and the States and Federal governments powerless to afford a remedy. It has a bad outlook for the future.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM GEN LEACH. Gen. Leach is out again in another card, which we find in the Raleigh News, which is rather more explicit than that published by him some months ago in the Observer, but which is hardly more Democratic than that was. We have always admired Gen. Leach but invariably with a mental reservation.

We would gladly give room for the letter but cannot afford the space to-day. We cannot impugn Gen. Leach's position now because of what he has been, nor would it be wise in us to denounce his sentiments because the wisest of us are liable to error. Still, the letter betrays more passion than prudence, more loyalty to Hayes than love to North Carolina, more of self than self-sacrifice and more of latter-day politics than prudence. This is all we can say of the letter to-day; the comments of the Raleigh News will be able to publish Gen. Leach's letter in full.

SLIGHT SHRINKAGE. Some idea of the terrible shrinkage which stocks have undergone of late may be gathered from the following facts: On the 8th of March, 1876, the stock of the New Jersey Central Railway was worth $107 per share, and on the 23d of June, 1877, it was only worth $6 per share.

On the same date, the stock of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western road sold for $33 per share, against $119, and the stock of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company sold at $30 per share; against $120 in 1876. The total shrinkage in the stock of these three roads, between the dates named above, was nearly sixty-two million dollars.

Captain Kyd Douglas tells this anecdote to Stonewall's memory: "The army of Lee was on its march to Gettysburg, and the commanding General had given strict orders for its discipline in Pennsylvania. An officer riding to camp from Chambersburg, late at night, was halted by the outposts. Having neither pass nor countersign, in his dilemma he bethought him of an old pass in his pocket-book signed by General Jackson, whose recent death hung like a cloud over the army. He found it and handed it with confidence to the sentinel. The trusty fellow managed to read it by the light of a match, and he did go seemed to linger and hesitate over the signature. And then, as the light went out, he handed it back, and looking up toward the stars beyond, he said, sadly and firmly, "Captain, you can go to Heaven on that paper, but you can't pass this post."

SOUTHERN GOLD. The Southern gold mines are rising again to prominence; the product of North Carolina for the fiscal year 1875-6 amounting to $10,335,000, that of Georgia to $7,379,000, and that of South Carolina to $1,381,000—a total of $19,096,000. The product of the year just closed is supposed to be much greater. Eleven stamping mills are now running near Dahlonega, Ga., and Boston capital is the dominant interest. Labor is 75 cents a day, and wood $1 a cord.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY. AA UNRIVALED ILLUSTRATED MAGAZINE. When Scribner issued his famous Midsummer Holiday Number in July, a friendly critic said of it: "We are not sure but that Scribner has touched high-water mark. We do not see what worlds are left to conquer." But the publishers do not consider that they have reached the ultima thule of excellence—they believe "there are other worlds to conquer, and they propose to conquer them." The prospectus for the new volume gives the titles of more than fifty papers (most illustrated), by writers of the highest merit. Under the head of "Foreign Travel," we have "A winter on the Nile," by Gen. McClellan; "Sauter's About Constantinople," by Charles Dudley Warner; "Out of My Window at Moscow," by Eugene Schuyler; "An American in Turkistan," etc. Three serial stories are announced: "Nicholas Minturn," by Dr. Holland, the Editor, whose story of "Sevenson's" gave the highest satisfaction to the readers of the Monthly. The scene of this latest novel is laid on the banks of the Hudson. The hero is a young man who has been always "tied to a woman's apron strings," but who, by the death of his mother, is left alone in the world,—to drift on the current of life,—with a fortune, but without a purpose. Another serial, "His Inheritance," by Miss Trafton, will begin on the completion of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," by Mrs. Hodgson Burnett. Mrs. Barlett's story, begun in August, has a pathetic and dramatic power which have been a surprise to the public. There is to be a series of original and exquisitely illustrated papers of "Popular Science," by Mrs. Herrick, each paper complete in itself. There are to be, from various pens, papers on "Home Life and Travel." Also, practical suggestions as to town and country life, village improvements, etc., by well-known specialists. Mr. Barnard's articles on various industries of Great Britain include the history of "Some Experiments in Co-operation," "A Scottish Lark Factory" in the November number, and "Toad Lane, Kitchdale," in December. Other papers are, "The British Workingman's Home," "A Nation of Shopkeepers," "Ha'penny a Week for the Child," etc. A richly illustrated series will be given on "American Sports by Flood and Field," by various writers, and each on a different theme. The subject of "Household and Home Decoration" will have a prominent place, whilst the latest productions of American humorists will appear from month to month. The list of short stories, biographical and other sketches, etc., is a long one. The editorial department will continue to employ the ablest pens both at home and abroad. There will be a series of letters on literary matters, from London, by Mr. Welford. The pages of the magazine will be open, as heretofore, so far as limited space will permit, to the discussion of all themes affecting the social and religious life of the world, and specially to the freshest thoughts of the Christian thinkers and scholars of this country. We mean to make the magazine sweeter and more useful to all its utterances and influences, and a more welcome visitor than ever before in homes of refinement and culture. FIFTEEN MONTHS for $4. Scribner for December, now ready, and which contains the opening chapters of "Nicholas Minturn," will be read with eager curiosity and interest. Perhaps no more readable number of this magazine has yet been issued. The three numbers of Scribner for August, September, and October, containing the opening chapters of "That Lass o' Lowrie's," will be given to every new subscriber (who requests it), and whose subscription begins with the November number. Subscription price, $4 a year—35 cents a number. Special terms on bond volumes. Subscribers with the nearest bookseller, or send a check or P. O. money order to SCRIBNER & CO., 713 Broadway, N. Y. cc 28

APPLETON'S AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA. NEW REVISED EDITION. Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with several thousand Engravings and Maps. The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA was completed in 1873, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature, and art, have induced the editor and publisher to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition, entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA. Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want. The movement of political affairs have kept pace with the discoveries of science and the progress of the arts, and the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars, and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced. Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorer of Africa. The revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and whose careers every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained; of which the details are not yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, and which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history. In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the lowest possible rates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most famous and remarkable events, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress political and social events have made since the last issue of the work. The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most able resources for carrying it on to a successful termination. None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming, in fact, a new Cyclopaedia, with the same large octavo volume as its predecessor, but with a greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvement in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge. The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than for amusement, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopaedia, and worthy of its high character. This work is sold to subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in six or seven octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps. Price and Style of Binding. In Extra Cloth, per vol. $5 00. In Library Leather, per vol. $6 00. In Half Turkey Morocco, per vol. $7 00. In Full Russia, extra gilt, per vol. $8 00. In Full Morocco, antique, gilt edges, per vol. $10 00. In Full Russia, per vol. $10 00. Thirteen volumes now ready. Succeeding volumes, until completion, will be issued once in two months. Specimen pages of the AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA, showing type, illustrations, etc., will be sent gratis, on application. Circulars Class Conveying Agents Wanted. Address the Publishers, D.
