NEWS SUMMARY.

The lockout of shipbuilders on the Clyde is virtually ended. A third rail is to be laid on the Erie R. R. It is understood that Bishop Lynch of Toronto has resigned his resignation to Rome. His successor will probably be Bishop Walsh, of London, or Father Farrell of St. Patrick's, of New York. The official grand list of the Connecticut tax list, just completed, foots up $14,406,997, a falling off of $7,000,000 from last year. A Berlin telegram confirms the report that the German squadron has left the Bosphorus in the direction of Paris. The laborers of the extensive nail and tack works of Chess, Smythe & Co., at Pittsburgh, who struck last Thursday for an increase of wages, recommenced work at the old rates. This strike, while it has not been a success, has compelled about 500 employees to quit work. Gov. Connor, of Maine, endorsed by Jim Blaine, has invited Hayes to visit Maine, when the brethren will probably dwell together in only again. No further abatement of the mining troubles in Pennsylvania. Women is reported as not much better. A Times Vienna correspondent states that Kossuth has addressed a proclamation to the Hungarians urging Austro-Hungary to come to an understanding with the Porte as to the extent of concessions to Christians which can be made without compromising the integrity of the Turkish Empire. He says on the basis of this arrangement an alliance with the Porte ought to be concluded. Russia should then be called upon to stop the war. An absurd circular has been issued from Hamm, Internal Revenue. His subordinates may only employ one Kinsman. It is supposed this system is instigated by Schurz for the benefit of foreigners. The Times Throplia special says that the British military attaché with the Turkish army telegraphs from Eskidjina that there are 15,000 destitute refugee Muslims there. At the National Convention of the Royal and Select Masters of the United States, delegates were present from nearly every State in the Union. The plan of degrees in the American Masonic rite was discussed. [N. Y. Tribune.] What Led to the Conflict. "Armenia," said Mr. O'Connell, late Consul General to Turkey, in his lecture upon the Crisis in the East last evening, "is the Switzerland of Asia. A portion of the inhabitants of this beautiful land were called Turkomans, because of their handsome appearance. But let us see if they deserved the name according to the proverb, 'Handsome is that handsome does.' Three thousand of these Turkomans formed in a band during the early part of the fourteenth century, and by the most cruel warfare, conquered several millions of people and immense tracts of Armenian land. To the conquered, the choice was given of becoming slaves or embracing Islamism. The poor Armenians suffered the most abject slavery, which soon reduced them from 30,000,000 to a bare 4,000,000 of people." Mr. O'Connell showed how Russia, as a small province growing large, stood in need of a seaport. Peter the Great built St. Petersburg upon the Baltic Sea, and then found out his mistake. That sea was only open to commerce during four months of the year. He then turned his eyes towards the Black Sea, but the Turks held possession of the intervening ground. So then it became, and ever since it has been, the endeavor of Russia to gain possession of Constantinople. England immediately began her opposition to the wish of Russia. Pitt and his colleagues brought their "political ethics" to bear upon the subject. Even Oliver Goldsmith wrote of the danger to Europe if Russia held two great maritime outlets—one in the north and the other in the south. But the British heart, beating with humanity, more than once trampled upon the British Statesmanship, and England joined Russia in destroying the galleys of the Turks. When Napoleon got the assistance of England and fell upon Russia like a highway robber, she could only hold up her hands and say, "Take all I have" and bide her time until she got back to the city, when she would inform the police." Among other things, her fleet was excluded from the Black Sea. She submitted and waited. The Franco-Prussian war brought her an opportunity, and she took a firm stand, which brought her fleet back again. In like manner she obtained other concessions. From Turkey year after year she wrung promises concerning wrongs which should be righted, promises which had never been fulfilled, but Turkey was simply incorrigible. She was a theocracy, ruled by a combination of Church and State, and with the Church holding the mastery over the State. A lady wearing bogus diamond earrings will always take the shady side of a street car, as the "gems" look better in a subdued light.

THE DAILY REVIEW.

VOL. 2. WILMINGTON, N. C., WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 22, 1877. NO. 182

Loss of the Steamship Eden.

PANAMA, August 11.—The details of the loss of the Eden, on the Los Vitas, near Valparaiso, are somewhat amplified, but in substance are those already communicated. The loss of life, variously stated, probably reaches fifty. One sad incident was that whilst efforts were being made to rescue twenty of the shipwrecked, who were grouped on a rock 500 yards from the shore, the boats of the vessels employed found it impossible to reach the survivors, and they, out of pure desperation, threw themselves into the sea to escape further sufferings from famine and thirst.

Love may exist without jealousy, although this is rare; but jealousy may exist without love, and this is common, for jealousy can feed on that which is bitter no less than that which is sweet, and is sustained by pride as often as by affection.

The latest delusion and snare in bar-rooms is a piece of glass cunningly cut into a vraisemblance of ice, which is put into an intoxicated man's cooling draught. This is a money saving dodge. The victim, being drunk, of course does not detect the cheat, but luxuriates in fancied frigidity.

New Looms.

This morning twenty-six looms passed through the city for the Tuckasegee Mills, at Woodland, Mountain Island, in the Western portion of the State. This is the third installment of looms for the Tuckasegee Mills which have passed through here recently.

Personal.

Col. Pennington, who has been stationed at Fort Johnson for some time past and who with his command was ordered to Pittsburgh during the late disturbances, returned to this city on the 12 o'clock train to-day. Col. Pennington will remain here but a short time when he will return to his command which is stationed at Pittsburgh.

Baked Peaches.

Cut the peaches in two, remove the stone, having first wiped the fruit well. With a paste cutter (if you want something fanciful, otherwise, simple squares will do) cut some slices of bread. On each piece place half a peach, skin down; dust well with sugar; put a tiny piece of butter on each, and bake slowly. When done dish them and turn the juice over, if any; otherwise, add syrup of pears and serve warm. Apricots and prunes may be served likewise.

Tobacco in the East.

We saw this morning at Mr. D. Pigott's tobacco store, on Market street, a very handsome twist of tobacco which was raised by Mr. Henry Griffin, a nephew to Mr. Pigott, on his farm in Lenoir county. The specimen has been pronounced very fine and it goes for to prove what many have maintained, that good tobacco can be raised on the eastern belt in this State as well as in the red clay counties in the interior.

Military Affairs.

The Raleigh News says: Orders were issued from the Adjutant-General's office yesterday, assigning the Mecklenburg Rifles, designated as Company H, and the Polk Rifles, designated as Company I, to the second Battalion, N. C. S. G., and the Hamilton Guards, designated as Company II, to the first Battalion.

Charles Haigh, Lieutenant-Colonel of the second Battalion N. C. S. G., having resigned, the commissioned officers of that Battalion are called to appear at Charlotte on Thursday, 30th inst., to supply the vacancy. Each commissioned officer is entitled to one vote, which may be cast in person or by proxy.

His Room.

A few nights ago a young, fancifully dressed buck walked steadily down an alley between an office and a dwelling, on the same property, on Front street, and quietly pulling off his coat, vest and hat hung them upon a wall and placed himself in a recumbent position on the balcony of the dwelling. One of the ladies of the house saw the young man go down the alley and conveyed the intelligence to two of the gentlemen of the house, who immediately approached the worshipper of Bacchus and told him "to git," but the intruder drew himself up to his full height and looking down on them from the pinnacle of dignity, waved them off majestically, asking, "How dare you invade the sanctity of a gentleman's sleeping apartment?" The gentlemen took in the situation at once and tried to convince the man he was not in "a gentleman's sleeping apartment," when to convince them the man pulled out his watch key and tried to unlock the window sash, stating he would show them his clothes hanging in his closet. Finally a feeling of disgust came over him and with a scornful curl of his lips he stated he would rent another room in a more quiet portion of the city where a gentleman could retire without having the presence of obnoxious persons forced upon him, and the young man was seen no more until he was found wound up in a dry goods box the next morning.

The Thermometer.

From the United States Signal Office at this place we obtain the following report of the thermometer, as taken this morning at 7:31 o'clock:

And Still Another Complainant.

A reader of the REVIEW and a taxpayer besides, came to us this morning with a most piteous appeal, begging that we would say something again about the most intolerable nuisance of cows running at large. "Last night," quoth our friend, "there was a very sick lady at our house, and twice did I have to go out and run one of these intolerable nuisances with a great ding dong bell swung around its neck out of my yard, and each time I am certain the gate was made fast, but all to no purpose. The miserable, confounded dog-goned, drif, dong cow, would come back. "Now" says the complainant, "I can't see why people who are quiet, decent, and law abiding citizens should be made to suffer such inconveniences and depredations from other people's cattle. Certainly those people who don't own cows must have some rights that ought to be respected." "Or," adds the complainant, "is it only those who own a certain class of property that have any rights at all?" We were forced to answer that we couldn't tell, that we would have to give it up.

"Well, then," says our friend, apparently in the utmost despair, "I believe I'll just buy me a raving mad bull somewhere, and then turn him loose on Front street and let him rush pell-mell into the first china shop he comes to." "Ah! but then that would be a wanton destruction of property," we suggested; "but then no one would know that I intended the bull to go in the china shop," suggested the complainant. "And just so it is," he continued, waxing warmer and warmer over the subject, "do I believe some of the owners of these cows do; they know very well some people in town have good gardens and they know their cows can open any gate in town, and they know furthermore, I firmly believe, that these miserable cows are going to make straightway for these yards when they are turned out. But you can't prove it on them, of course." We did not attempt to argue the point with our injured friend, because we really did see that there was some justice in his complaint and so we turned to leave him, when an idea seemed to have struck him and he hung out to us as we started away: "I know one way I can get satisfaction. If the Board of Aldermen don't listen to my complaint and prohibit these intolerable nuisances from running on the street to the annoyance of everybody in town except the owners of the cows, I'll never support one of the present Board for any office again as long as I live, nor let any of my friends, whom I have any influence over, support them either." And having thus delivered himself the complainant walked in one direction while we took another, wondering if there was enough sympathy among the Board of Aldermen for this independent Democratic voter and his sick family to make them take any action in the premises.

Planetary Conjunction.

Before the end of the fall season Mars and Saturn will come twice into conjunction, the first time upon August 27 and the last on November 3. At the first conjunction they will rise at about half-past nine o'clock in the evening, and they will be only eleven minutes apart, and can both be included in the same telescopic field of vision, presenting one of the most beautiful sights that the heavens ever afforded. These two planets will come into opposition with the sun within four days of each other, the former on the 5th and the latter on the sixth of September. In that opposition Mars will be nearer the earth than in thirty years before, a fact that the superstitious and imaginative may invest with interest in connection with the Eastern war.

The eclipse of the moon is booked for to-morrow evening and if it is a clear night it will be well worth seeing.

There will be an emergent meeting of the New Hanover County Medical Society this evening in the office of Dr. W. J. H. Bellamy. Matters of great importance will be brought before the body and all members are urged to be in attendance.

The captors of Keeter will get $25 each and this from the city. The reward offered for him by the county was not made public until Tuesday morning, whereas Keeter was captured and lodged in the guard house on Monday night.

Mr. Wm. Bonitz, at his Club House, in Goldsboro, keeps a very good house of entertainment for the traveling public. He gives you an excellent meal for much less than it can be gotten at the hotels. Our travelling friends should bear this fact in mind.

Cornet Concert Club.

This organization, the pride and ornament of the city, we notice by advertisement will give a grand moonlight excursion Thursday night. It behooves every citizen who has any appreciation whatever of music to see that this excursion is a grand success financially to the Club. We as citizens are greatly indebted to these gentlemen for their delightful music, both on private and public occasions. They have given their time and money to equipping and perfecting themselves as a musical body (having spent upwards of $3,000, a good part of which was from their own pockets) and have oftentimes filled the air with music "without price." Their treasury is somewhat depleted and now is the time for us to "show our hand." If you cannot get that is no excuse; buy a ticket and give to your friend. We cannot expect these gentlemen to favor us with those soft, sweet strains that come "floating o'er the evening air" at their own expense. CITIZEN.

SOUTH WASHINGTON, PENDER CO., August 22, 1877.

EDITORIAL REVIEW.

The Commissioners of Pender County met at South Washington on Monday, the 21st inst., and proceeded to establish the county site at Burgaw. There was quite a crowd in attendance anxiously waiting to hear the result declared, which was strongly endorsed by most of the crowd present. An extra train arrived from Wilmington about eleven o'clock with Capt. Divine, the Supt., Judge Russell, Wm. A. Wright and others. Mr. Wright appeared in behalf of Burgaw, and Judge Russell for the land owners of South Washington. The depreciation of property was then taken up which resulted in Dr. W. C. Murphy being allowed six hundred dollars and Mr. J. E. Nivenbank seventy-five dollars. Dr. W. C. Murphy then addressed the citizens in a brief but flowery and very conciliatory manner—heartily endorsing the movement of the citizens in voting the county site to Burgaw—the centre of the county. Mr. Bruce Williams, a young and enterprising lawyer, and attorney for the Board, did much credit to himself and Pender. The day passed off quietly, no fights and very little drunkenness, and every body went to his home in quietness and peace.

The People Want Proof.

There is no medicine prescribed by physicians, or sold by Druggists, that carries such evidence of its success and superior virtue of BOSCHER'S GERMAN SYRUP for severe Coughs, Colds settled on the breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. A proof of that fact is that any person afflicted, can get a Sample Bottle for 10 cents and try its superior effect before buying the regular size at 75 cents. It has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures are astonishing every one that use it. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it.
