Clover.

No matter how mismanaged, clover is a benefit, and whatever else he may do, the farmer who grows clover is making his farm better. What, then, might not the result be, if the same care were taken of the clover field as of other crops? It does not need cultivating; the long, deep, reaching roots mellow and pulverise the soil as nothing else can. If the clover grows thriftly, the top acts as a mulch, seed ing the ground and keeping it moist. A crop of two tons or more of clover, whether plowed under or cut for hay, can hardly fail to leave the soil better than it was before. It should be the farmer's aim to grow the largest possible crop of clover. A slight dressing of gypsum—100 pounds per acre Providentia, Ger, 393 tons, Lange, in early spring—often produces wonin early spring—often produces won-derful results. But if a farmer has a little well-rotted manure, the scrapings of barn-yard, fall is the time to apply it. HOPE FOR ALL.

Consumption is generally supposed to be an incurable disease. Why? Because medical men, who of all others should have been the last to encourage such an unphilosophical and dangerous a sumption, have insisted upon and propagated it with a persistency which seems almost incredible in the light of science and of truth. We used the term 'dangerous' advisedly, for what can be more depressing and injurious to the consumptive than brooding over the idea—founded solely upon the fiat of his physician—that his malady is mortal, and that the utmost that can be done for him is to render his exit from this world as easy as possible. Such melancholy and hopeless reflections as this belief engenders among consumptive patients, does as much, if not more, to hasten their departure for the land of shadows, as the tubercles in their lungs. Away with such a hopeless theory. Happily the GREAT MASTERS OF MEDICINE have entered their protest against it and confuted by the most positive testimony the monstrous fallacy. Dangerous as pulmonary phthisis is, its terri-ble ravages may be stayed and the lungs restored to a sound condition even after suppuration has taken place. Every experienced surgeon knows that post mortem examinations of aged persons who have died in the ordinary course of nature have repeatedly disclosed the traces of pulmonary ulcers en-tirely cicatrized. The argument, therefore, against the possibility of healing a pulmonay abscess because the immediate seat of the disease cannot be reached, has not a leg to stand upon. Over fifty instances of the discovery of cicatrized ulcers in the lungs have been recorded by the medical faculty of Paris, and such eminent authorities as Revinus, Malphighi, DuHaen and scores of others, French, English and German, might easily be cited to prove their certain curability. To treat any malady rationally its character and morbid influence must be known.

The dissecting knife has disclosed all the internal characteristics of consumption. We know that tubercles in the lungs vary in size from granules smaller than a pin's head to that of a large bean. These develop into open ulcers technically known as vomical which afterwards spread over a surface several inches in diameter. Their sacs are filled with a yellow, greenish, grayish matter generally very offensive. The membrane itself ts. is greatly inflamed, and the ends of the pulmonary artery and vein connecting with the diseased parts are clogged with vitiated and purulent mucus. Death must ensue either from suffocation or hemorrhage if speedy relief is not obtained. It is obvious that something is required which will enable the sufferer to raise and eject the poison rankling in his lungs, and choking the air passages, and which will also allay the grievous irritation of the inflamed parts. No preparation known to materia medica accomplishes this double object so effectually and speedily as Hollo-WAY'S COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM. That incomparable remedy loosens and liquifies the poisonous and feetid accumulations in the lungs and bronchiæ, subdaes with wonderful rapidity the inflammation of the diseased parts, and prevents the possibility of hemorrhage. At the same time it tones and strengthens the muscles of the threat and enables them to throw off the vitiated matter withoutstraining. The transcendant merit of Holloway's COUGH CURE AND LUNG BALSAM is the thorimmense superiority to the multitude of officinal and proprietary medicines, designed for a similar purpose, which have preceded it, lies in the fact that it is an ABSOLUTE ERADI-CANT of pulmonary and throat diseases, while they at the best were merely palliations. It is not alone that the preparation dislodges the pulmonic virus, it possesses balsamic properties peculiarly adapted to soothe the lacerated lung, while by its tonic operations it greatly facilities and hastens the healing process. As a preventive Holloway's Cough CURE AND LUNG BALSAM is equally efficacious. Coughs, especially the dry hacking coughs which are so common, are terribly fruitful sources of consumption. The sufferer at first has a feeling of rawness in the throat, tightness across the chest, then dangerous inflammation sets in, which may give rise to hem-orrhage or the formation of vemical, if it is not speedily checked and the cough loosened. Holloway's Cough Cure and Lung Balsam accomplishes this with a degree of promptitude and certainty which astonishes the patient. No type of throat, lung or bronchial disturbance can resist its curative influence. It overcomes the most obstinate forms of this class of disorders, and breaks up at once the most violent paroxysms of coughing. All its ingredients are purely vegetable. Some of them are culled from sources entirely new to pharmacy, and all are possessed of properties of marvelous remedial efficacy. The unsolicited testimonials which its proprietors have been constantly receiving since its introduction to the public, from persons who have experienced or witnessed its wonderfully beneficial effects, fully justify the belief that it must, ere long, become the STANDARD AMERICAN SPECIFIC FOR ALL DIS-EASES OF THE RESPIRATORY ORGANS. IMPORTANT CAUTION. None genuine unless the signatures of J.

United States, are found on the wrapper. A handsome reward will be given to any one rendering such intermation as may lead to the detection of any party or parties counterfeiting the medicines or vending the same knowing them to be spurious.
