The Weldon Bridge.

The workmen on the bridge at Weldon, says the Norfolk Virginian, succeeded yesterday in spanning the river with the lower heavy frame work on which rests the immense structure. It is now though that trains will be able to pass over the river on Thursday next. Freight over the road are now being received.

Fine and Nice.

Mr. Kostka, the late baker of the Purcell House, has at his bakery on Front street as fine a display of plain and fancy cakes as can be found any where in the State. His breakfast and French rolls are very fine and in fact Mr. Kostka has or can make any kind or style of cakes, breads, chocolate eclairs and Bavarian cream. Wedding and Christmas parties supplied at shortest notice.

I. O. G. S. & D of S.

S. R. Greenburg, T. J. C. Munds, S. W. H. Chadbourn, C. H. Rev. Geo. Patterson, C. H. G. Flanner, P. S. R. W. Price, R. A. C. D. Greenwald, 3rd V. T. H. Johnson, 2nd V. J. McD. French, 1st V. B. G. Bates, S.

Appletons' Journal.

The leading and probably most interesting feature of Appletons' Journal for January is an illustrated article descriptive of the building of the great New York and Brooklyn suspension-bridge. The paper, by Mr. Charles Carroll, is written in so graphic and charming a manner that it possesses marked interest by virtue of its style, independent of its theme; and, as the creation of the bridge is one of the greatest engineering triumphs of the age, the description of the peculiar methods employed will be studied with profound attention by every reader. Among the other articles in the number we find a very reliable paper by Wirt Sikes, entitled "Christmas in Wales." Mr. Dave Ker tells of an adventure on an Iceland moor; Charlotte Adams has a dramatic sketch of a pathetic incident in an Italian playhouse; there is a good description of the remarkable Portland beach (England); a paper by Eugene Benson, "How I got my Titian;" and one by C. P. Cranch, under the title of "Sermons in Stones." There is a light and a flashing sketch, "Arachne and Penelope," by M. E. W. S.; And an amusing trifle, called "Paragraph Five," designed for a parlor play at the approaching holidays; Mrs. Gage has a story of the so-called Cleopatra Needles. There are the serials, "By Celia's Arbor" and "Cherry Ripe;" short stories, poems, and the editorial departments.

The ladies were abroad in force this forenoon and the new Christmas goods received a pretty thorough overhauling.

Black beaver is one of the favorite furs for trimming outside garments this winter.

Pistols are nice playthings and fond mothers are advise to give them as presents to their offspring.

In our first childhood we want the penny of our papas; in our dotage we desire the dollar of our daddies.

Times are hard and ink is dear, and there is no use writing Christmas out when an X will do the business.

Few people realize the danger involved in turning over in bed. A Massachusetts man broke his leg in that way a few days ago.

There are several engagements ahead for January at the Opera House, and among them are Janauschek and Miss Mary Anderson, the young Southern tragedienne.

The Queen of the Oven.

A breakfast-biscuit or tea-roll made with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER is certainly the queen of the oven—so light, white and delicious. You lift it tenderly, break it open gently, spread it daintily with fresh, sweet butter, waiting to be gracious. After breakfasting on biscuits made with DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, what man would contemplate suicide, or grumble because his wife asked him for money?

Hymenial.

Mr. Geo. W. Kidder, of this city, left here yesterday for Hickory, at which place he is to be married to-morrow evening, to the beautiful and accomplished Miss Florence Hill. Directly after the ceremony, we understand that the newly wedded couple will embark on an extended tour, which will be continued until the Spring. They go first to Europe, via New York, where they will spend several months in travel and will return to Wilmington via the West Indies Islands. May favorable gales and propitious seasons attend them on their way.

Knights of Honor.

At a meeting of Carolina Lodge No. 484, held last night, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: R. G. Ross, D. F. A. L. Cassidy, V. D. Henry P. West, A. D. W. E. Hill, R. William Hankins, F. R. Newton Gillican, T. J. A. Springer, C. J. L. Dudley, Guide. N. Jacobi, Guarisan. J. M. McGowan, W. J. H. Bellamy, G. Rep. N. Jacobi, Alternate. W. J. H. Bellamy, John Haar, Jr., J. L. Dudley, Trustees.

The officers will be installed the first Monday night in January, 1878.

Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for January

Begins its third volume. It is a most admirable commencement. Professor Schaff, of the Union Theological Seminary, the well-known author and traveler, opens with "A Recent Visit to Modern Bethlehem," a graphic article, elegantly illustrated.

Mr. John P. Westery gives a capital article on "Christmas and New Year's" quite learned, yet written in popular style.

An article on "Gossip," ought to be republished in every journal in the land. A story of great power from the pen of Mrs. Amelia E. Barr is entitled "For £50,000."

The Editor has a sermon appropriate to the season on "There was no room for them in the inn." The whole of John Milton's immortal poem "On the Morning of Christ's Nativity" is reproduced. "The Wisdom, and Pathos of Children" is admirably treated, and so is "The Invalid's Portion." The Editor has commenced a series of articles entitled "Popular Exegesis," in which obscure passages in the English Version of the Holy Scriptures are explained. A splendid portrait of the Rev. Dr. Duncan and an excellent one of Archbishop Gibbons are in the body of the number, which is filled with superior pictorial illustrations. The editorials, by Dr. Deems, are entitled "Giving," "The Taint of Politics," "Popish," "Liberality," and "Hush It Up."

A most admirable and striking portrait of the editor, the Rev. Dr. Deems, is the frontispiece of this beautiful number.

Numbers of holly trees for Christmas purposes are being brought into the city.

Judge Moore was in the city yesterday afternoon and left this morning for Burgaw, where he is holding Court.

We have been asked the question if we are to have the time honored John Kooners this Christmas? Will those in authority tell us?

Ladies were engaged this morning in making wreaths and garlands in the Hook & Ladder Hall for the Xmas decorations of St. James' Episcopal Church.

A neat two-story frame dwelling is being erected on the south side of Red Cross, between Front and Second streets, for Messrs. J. H. Chadbourn & Co.
