Housekeepers who study economy in small things should use DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER, the best, because perfectly pure; the cheapest, as every package is full weight.

Thanks to Messrs. Petteway & Schulken for a New Year's present of a barrel of those nice apples, recently received by them from Western North Carolina. They are a deliciously flavored apple and are now being sold by Messrs. P. & S. very low to close out the balance of the lot.

The New Bridge at Weldon.

The injury sustained by the railroad bridge at Weldon is not a serious one after all, and will not hinder travel or the transmission of mails. We were in error yesterday in stating that part of the bridge had been cut away, but the error was not ours. (We were so informed by a party who was just from Weldon. The bridge has been saved and the mails arrived as usual last night.)

January.

This month, the first of the year, was added with February to the previous ten months of the year by Numa. It was named from the double-faced god, Janus, to whom its first day, which looks back upon the year past and forward to that to come, was sacred. Janus, in the mind of the ancient Romans, presided over the beginning of everything, and was therefore invoked on every occasion before all other deities. He opened the year and the seasons; he was the janitor of heaven and on earth their guardian god of gates and doors. At the dawn of every day the people addressed their supplications to him, and on the first day of every year sacrifices of cakes, barely, incense and wine were offered in his honor on twelve altars. The month which was named for this deity was not uniformly the beginning of the year, among the Latin Christian nations till the eighteenth century, the year being in several countries reckoned from March 1, or other dates.

The Colored Military.

Yesterday's Raleigh News tells us: Companies A and B of the 6th Battalion N. C. S. G. colored, under command of Lt. Colonel Geo. L. Mabson, arrived in the city last night from Wilmington via Hamlet, at 9.30 p. m. The two commands numbered some 50 men, and were accompanied by a band of 15 pieces. A detachment from one of the Fayetteville companies in the same Battalion came in at the same time. The troops were met by the colored commands of this city and escorted to quarters in the court house, which the authorities had kindly placed at their disposal for the night. Four companies will parade to-day, numbering about 155 men, rank and file. Those troops constitute only a portion of the colored military of the State. There are in all nine companies of infantry, armed, equipped and uniformed, and organized into two Battalions. The two companies at Fayetteville, the two at Newbern and the one at Charlotte, were unable to come, owing to pecuniary considerations. The troops present will be reviewed at 10 o'clock this morning by His Excellency Gov Vance and a portion of his staff. After this the troops will take part in the ceremonies of Emancipation Day.

N. C. Troops.

The Association of Officers of the Third N. C. Infantry hold their regular quarterly meeting this evening at 7 1/2 o'clock at Dr. Thos. F. Wood's office on Market street.

The meeting this evening will be a regular business meeting, held in accordance with the provisions of the constitution and by-laws of the Association. But there is another interest to be attached to this meeting of the Association to-night, and it is a matter that ought to engage the attention of all North Carolina soldiers who served their country during the late war, and one that all are alike interested in—the matter we have reference to is a history of the record that N. C. troops made during the war. Each organization is expected to furnish to Col. Winston, who has generously volunteered to undertake the task of compiling and writing a history of the part borne by N. C. soldiers during the war, all the data possible in its own particular record. Dr. Thos. F. Wood, who served as Assistant Surgeon of the Third N. C. Infantry during the last two years of our civil strife, has kindly consented to prepare a history of this regiment, and some action, we understand, is to be taken to-night for the furtherance of this object, and to render all possible aid to Dr. Wood in his laudable undertaking, and we here now make the appeal in behalf of Dr. Wood and the Association of Officers of the Third N. C. Infantry, to all former members of this regiment to forward, to Dr. Wood's address at once, any information concerning the history of this command from its first organization on the 16th of May, 1861, to its surrender at Appomattox on the 9th day of April, 1865, that they are in possession of.

It certainly is the duty of all North Carolinians who bore arms during the four years of terrible war that our people were engaged in from '61 to '65, to put on record the part they acted, so that future generations will not be misled by the willful misrepresentations of prejudiced writers in Virginia and especially do we consider it a duty that North Carolina soldiers owe to themselves and to posterity in view of recent events, wherein a Virginian by the name of Walter H. Taylor, who held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel on Gen. Lee's staff, has sought by misrepresentation in a published book to throw discredit upon the conduct of North Carolina soldiers to the advancement of Virginia troops at the battle of Gettysburg, and this, too, in the face of the fact that prominent North Carolinians, who participated in that struggle as well as other distinguished soldiers from other States (Maj. Gen. Trimble, of Maryland, among the number), have testified of their own personal knowledge to the contrary of Col. Taylor's statement.

Col. Taylor, it must be understood, was necessarily from the position he occupied, precluded from participating in every battle, and indeed we think we may safely say that he was seldom under fire for any considerable length of time, and then only the time that was possibly consumed in going from army headquarters to that of the corps commanders; and when we consider that there were so many subordinate officers ready and waiting to do their chief's bidding, it is natural to suppose that even this occurrence of his being the bearer of orders from the commanding General, was very rare indeed. Consequently, when he writes of the part borne by certain troops in the ever memorable battle of Gettysburg, he does not write of scenes that he participated in, while those who have contradicted his statement do declare of their own personal knowledge, having participated in the events referred to, that Col. Taylor's statements are not correct. It is to preserve this testimony therefore, and to protect ourselves from the injustice of prejudiced statements, that Col. Winston, formerly of Grimes' Brigade, has generously volunteered to undertake the task of compiling and writing a history of the part borne by N. C. soldiers during the war.

In the selection of Dr. Wood, we think the Association of Officers of the Third have been particularly happy in their choice, as well as fortunate in gaining the consent of one so well qualified to undertake the arduous task of writing a history of his regiment.

Dr. Wood is a gentleman of decided ability, and is not unknown to the world of letters. His lecture last spring before the Southern Historical Society received the highest encomiums from press and people. Again we congratulate the gentlemen of the old Third on their selection, and extend to our patriotic fellow-citizen, Dr. Wood, our best wishes and a hearty God speed in his noble undertaking, which is to him only a labor of love.

City Court.

James Collins, whose case was continued from yesterday, was sentenced to day to 20 days' imprisonment on bread and water, and to pay a fine of $5.

Charles Williams and Mike Peden, together with Edward McFarland, alias Pod Hooks, conspirators in the robbery of Messrs. Boatwright & McKoy's store, were to-day ordered by the Mayor to be imprisoned in a cell in the Guard House on bread and water. The term of imprisonment was not stated in the sentence.

The case of this robbery has occupied the attention of the Mayor's Court for two days. The parties concerned in crime are all small colored boys, from ten to fifteen years of age. Two or three of them turned State's evidence and among them Pod Hooks, but His Honor sent him along with the rest to reflect in the solitude of a cell how he shall spend the balance of this New Year which he has so inauspiciously begun.
