The things left behind on the Centennial Exhibition grounds are being sold by auction in Philadelphia. A large lot of stuff from the French restaurant, which will be remembered by visitors principally for its high charges, has been disposed of. There were fifty-two cases of Portuguese wine, which the proprietors had not though worth the cost of removal. althought it had figured on their bills of of which there are six, are hugh machines fare at one dollar a bottle. It was sold for a dollar a dozen. Five breech-loading cannons from a French exhibit, were sold for $400.

Mr. Ben Pitman, the husband of the cremated Mrs. Pitman, has been credited with the sentimental idea of planting his wife's ashes under a rose bush, to allow her gradually to exhale into fragrance. But it seems that the remains of cremated people are not reduced to ashes, as popularly believed, but to a substance resembling the cuttle-bone given to birds; at any rate, this is said to be the case with the cremated Baron De Palm. This residue would not, apparently, amount to as much as food for flowers, but, if not capable of developing into fragrance, it might, if used by singing birds, exhale in music, which would have something of the same poetic flavor, at least.

The inquiry into the alleged massacres of Russian prisoners by the Turkish troops at Plevna is being carried on quietly but without interruption, and notwithstanding the military honors which were so readily paid to the commander of the besieged town, Osman Pasha, as being responsible for the discipline of his soldiers, will be tried by a Russian court-martial, together with all his officers. This will, says a correspondent, be no nevel proceeding, and Russia will be only acting upon the same priaciples as were adopted by the German staff during the war of 1870 with regard to the French irregular troops, and more especially the Francs-tireurs,

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

'NEW YORK, Feb. 23, 1878. DEAR REVIEW:

If I remember rightly my last letter to you closed with an attempted description of the magnificent building erected by the Equitable Insurance Company and the Safe Deposit vaults in the basement of that building. From the Equitable our party went a little farther up Broadway and entered the beautiful and imposing structure recently crected by the Western the handsomest of the many handsome structures in the city and a monument of the fact that monopolies may sometimes grow very wealthy, as the Western Union have done, by charging very high prices for very small services. Passing through the offices of the Company, on the first floor, we stepped into the elevator and building. It is within these four walls of this structure that the entire outside world communicates with New York, as every message received from, or sent to parties residing beyond the city passes through this office. To do the work some 3,500 jars of acids are kept continually charged and over 300 operators are constantly at work. The operating room is a very large one, and to those who look on from the little gallery provided for the benefit of the visitors, the continuous struments is confusing in the extreme-This room is connected with every minor office in the city by means of pneamatic remedy. tubes which convey the original messages from long distances and drop them upon a table in front of those whose duty it is to receive them. It is right curious to see the little rolls drop from the tubes, following so closely upon one another, and it is hard to realize that the paper on which the message is written travels almost as fast as the message itself. Among the other wonderful things in this send and receive messages at one and the same time, sending with one hand and re ceiving with the other, one brain, how-Eight well-known thoroughbred broses, ever, directing the operations of both The Leonard Scott Publishing Cc. day. Spring-box brought $2,500, and office at the very small hour of 1 a. m. was purchased by C. J. McGibbon, of for the express purpose of seeing "the machine" at work. I wish that I could discribe to your readers the operations in great paper, but I cannot. I was there in Pierre Lorillard. The horses were sold a faint idea of the modus operandi. The type, you must know, for each page is set but once and this, as soon as it has been properly corrected and arranged in the forms, is sent to the stereotypers who first takes impressions from the type in papier mache and then impressions in type metal from these newly made moulds. The type cools very quickly and is at once taken from the moulds, trimmed and carefully cut to the proper gauge and then placed on the presses. These latter, and run by steam received underground from the Herald steam-generating establishment, a block distant. Each press works independent of the others. The paper is in a large roll and is placed at the rear end of the press. It is about five feet wide and unrolls as it is carried to the press. It passes through the machine and comes out on the receiving tables at the front end, four sheets at a time and printed on both sides, which makes eight impressions, all made simultaneously and almost within the compass of a thought. It is, to me, one of the great marvels of the age.

One of my first visits on arriving here was to Trinity Church, the magnificent structure which fronts | en Broadway looking directly down Wall street and whose steeple rises to an altitude of 280 feet above the pavement. Its interior is to me equally magnificent and grand and cold and cheerless. This, however, is applicable only to the body of the Church. At the lower portion is a magnificent organ, three times the size and five times the compass of St. John's, in your city, and there is another and a smaller organ looking on the Chancel. The most mag- ble for that purpose is limited. nificent feature of the Church, however, is the elegant Astor reredos which has been placed at the back of the Chancel at a cost, it is said, of $40,000, but although I have several times visited this Church, I have never yet been able to see much of this costly memorial, as visitors are not allowed to approach nearer than the foot of the Chancel and there is not light enough to make out distinctly its various beauties. I am told, however, that it is richly jeweled and I am willing to take Chicago that he would very soon feel himself de trop and would make haste to leave the place without waiting to consult the railroad time-tables.

Yours, J.

MR. EDITOR: Having read i your paper reports of the remarkable cures of catarrh, I am induced to tell "what I know about catarrh," and I fancy the "snuff" and "inhalingtube" makers (mere dollar grabbers) Discovery has no equal, as it effects would be glad if they could emblazon a similar cure in the papers. For 26 years I suffered with catarrh. The nasal passages became completely closed. "Snuff," "dust," "ashes," "inhaling-tubes," and "sticks," wouldn't work, though at intervals I would sniff up the so-called catarrh snuff, until I became a valuable tester for such medicines. I gradually of the People's Common Sense Medigrew worse, and no one can know cal Adviser, a work of nearly onehow much I suffered or what a miserable being I was. I prayed for death to relieve me of my suffering. A favorable notice in your paper of Dr. Sage' Catarrh Remedy induced me to purchase a package, and use it with Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, which applies the remedy by hydrostatic pressure, the only way compatible with common sense.
