To Lovers of Good Bread.

Would you always have thoroughly good, sweet, easily digested bread, biscuits and rolls? The use of DOOLEY'S YEAST POWDER invariably insures perfect success. Your grocer keeps it.

There is an unmailable letter in the Postoffice to-day, addressed to Marshall Mfg. Co., Richmond, Va.

The Concert Last Night.

Some very fine music was rendered at the Temple of Israel last evening at the Concert given for the benefit of the Synagogue. The attendance was not very large, but the music was of the very highest order and those who were present were charmed and delighted.

Military Excursion.

The military excursion to be given by the Veteran Corps of the Wilmington Light Infantry, to that company, which was originally intended for their anniversary, May 20th, but which was deferred, will take place on the steamer J. S. Underhill on Thursday next, the 20th inst. We acknowledge the courtesy of an invitation to attend.

Township Taxes.

We are requested to state that J. G. Wagner, Esq., of Masonboro Township, A. A. Moseley, Esq., of Harnett Township, and A. J. Grady, Esq., of Cape Fear Township, Tax Listers, will devote one day to taking the lists of persons residing in this city who own property in the townships named. The time and place of listing will be specified hereafter.

Overboard.

A colored boy by the name of George Newkirk, aged about 12 years, son of a well-known colored man by the name of William Newkirk, fell overboard this noon from a flat at the foot of Chestnut street and just in front of this office. The boy could not swim and was nearly drowned when a young colored man by the name of George Brown jumped in the river after him and succeeded in saving his life. Brown's conduct was heroic and he received the warm encomiums of those who were present in time to witness the rescue.

Officer Expected.

Justice Harris received a telegram from Governor Hampton, this morning, notifying him that a requisition for the body of L. V. Smith, who is charged with the murder of a colored man in South Carolina, was in the hands of Sheriff Baruch of Darlington county. Sheriff Baruch is expected to arrive to-day, to identify the prisoner and convey him to South Carolina. Smith is represented to us as being nervous and crabbed, and the impression of those who have seen most of the accused, is that he is the man who committed the deed for which he is to be tried for his life.

To-Night—Cape Fear Academy at the Opera House.

This evening, at the Opera House, the prizes will be awarded to the Cadets of the Cape Fear Military Academy for prizes and good scholarship. Mr. Jno. D. Bellamy will deliver the address to the Cadets.

The Cape Fear Military Academy can justly be looked upon as one of the ornaments of the city and Maj. Burgess and his efficient adjutant, Prof. Catlett, have received the thanks of the community for the present high standing of this Academy. Wilmington is proud of her Military Academy and pleased with the able efforts of its founders.

The Colonnade Hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., by its judicious reduction of rates, will maintain its famous reputation as a model first-class house, alive to the demands of the time.

An Eloquent Extract.

We have received a copy of the address delivered by Maj. Jos. A. Engelhard, Secretary of State, before the young gentlemen of the Philanthropic and Dialectic Societies, at Chapel Hill, at the recent Commencement, which it would give us great pleasure to publish entire, were it not for the fact that it is too long for our columns. Still, we cannot forbear giving to our readers the following eloquent extract from its pages, which will apply with force to all of the young men and youths in our grand old State:

I have thus far, my young friends, suggested your duty negatively. Let me now, as your partially has placed me in this position, submit a few thoughts upon your positive, active duty to your country and to yourselves.

We live in a mighty country and in a wonderful period, the period of the greatest development since the world began. We are thirteen millions of people, occupying seven hundred and fifty thousand square miles of territory, in the most favored portions of the earth. We produce the greatest staple used by the human family, and have a monopoly of its production. The great Ocean of Commerce, with its belt of the Gulf Stream, encircles our shores. Every fruit, every live timber, every plant that grows on the globe flourishes in our region. In all the elements of natural, material and physical strength we are unequaled by any other portion of the Universe. With this magnificent country under our control, the duty comes directly up before us to develop it. That development can only be secured by work—and it is called on to declare, in one word, our duty. I would, without hesitation utter the word, the greatest of all words, I mean work of every character, professional, mechanical, agricultural, scientific, artistic, in their broadest sense. It is the great first law of Nature, the necessity for human happiness, the staff of human virtue. I hope the day is not distant when the man who works the most will be known and appreciated as the most honorable among us all, for such he deserves to be. I desire to see him rank above the richest, above the oldest, above all. Let work be the watchword of the South; write it on every banner; inscribe it on every standard. Mental and physical work—labor—the labor that conquers all things—is the first paramount duty of all of us. It is the magic, charm-d link that will restore and redeem us; that will enrich and adorn us; that will purify and dignify us. It is the great mystery that made Newton and Franklin, Morse and Washington, Caesar and Napoleon immortal. It is the one great want of our people. Bountiful Nature has almost dispensed with the necessity for labor here. Moral causes must be the motives and incentives with us for work. The time has come when labor must be the title deed to position. Injustice has too long been done to it. It is the foundation of every value that man possesses.

That Work is the first great law of all achievements is this day happily again verified before us. I trust the proprietors of this occasion will not be offended, when for one moment I allude to the distinguished son of North Carolina and now the eminent citizen of another great State, (Judge Grant) who honors us to-day by his presence, and gives all of us extraordinary pleasure by his interest in the University. Alike eminent for great virtues, great abilities and greater usefulness, he is a living example, standing before our eyes this moment, to illustrate this paramount principle of human action. Ask him and he will tell you that the mystery of his success—the inspiration of his genius—the charm of his fame—the foundation of his wealth—the support of his adversity—the safe-guard of his honesty—the enchantment and happiness of his life—have been work. It is not the magician's wand of genius and fortune, but it is the sacred law of work that has made him illustrious, Stat a grand, humanity glorious.

Intellectual labor has always been esteemed, and has carved the footways to fame. But manual, mechanical labor has never had its fitting compensation. For nearly four hundred years the world has renowned the praises of Columbus as one of the greatest lights in the tide of time, but the skilled mechanics who fashioned the Pinto and the Neptune, and the hardy sailors who sped the vessels in safety from Genoa to San Salvador, are never thought of, if they were ever known. While the name of Newton will fill the corridors of time forever, as we traverse the great Ocean in most perfect comfort and safety, and tread the decks of the magnificent steamers and enjoy the luxuries of their vast saloons, we forget the skill and labor of the mechanic who has utilized the discovery of Newton, and from rude models has fashioned and constructed these floating palaces. The patient sufferer is grateful to the surgeon whose scientific skill relieves him from pain and saves him from death, but has not one thought for the artisan whose deft hands placed it within the power of his benefactor to perform the operation. We behold the maiden in her beauty, and the soul is vanquished with her loveliness, and amidst our enchantment we forget, as she does, the industrious weavers and spinners, whose tasteful mechanism has contributed the drapery and laces which adorn that sweetest figure. The Agriculturist, the Manufacturer, the Lawyer, the Physician, all command much of human attention, but the Mechanic who builds the plow, who tempers the sword, who gives form and shape and usefulness to the crude thoughts of others, is scarcely thought of in human consideration.

I would enjoy it upon the youth of the South to reform this wrong. Justice demands it—policy enforces it—every consideration commands it. In this country all men are sovereigns, all men are by law equal. The Workers, the Mechanics, the Laborers, should be elevated to the highest plane of citizenship. The wisest rulers of France, England and Russia have encouraged the immigration to their kingdoms of skilled workmen. Much of their supremacy is due to this fact. Let the South imitate their wise example, by fostering mechanical skill and labor in all its forms, by dignifying, by honoring, by rewarding and by cherishing labor. The great remedy for disorders between social classes is to raise all, to bring all up, to degrade none. When the Laws and Society do this there will be no cause for, and there will be no disorder between our fellow-men.

Caught From a Spark.

A spark from the long, high chimney of Messrs Colville & Company's mill on Nott street, fell on the roof of the warehouse, situated on the wharf adjoining and recently occupied by Messrs. Vick & Mebane, yesterday afternoon about four o'clock, and soon ignited the shingles, which, but for the timely discovery, together with a bucket or two of water which was conveniently at hand, might have proved quite a ruinous conflagration. We understand that Messrs. Colville & Co. intend running their chimney to a greater height, in order to diminish the danger from sparks.

The New Compress

Captain Perry, President of the New Compress Company which was organized in this city a few days ago, is clearing away the rubbish on the Vick & Mebane wharf, and proceeding to business. Yesterday was employed in tearing down old sheds and houses and to-day the foundation is being commenced by driving piles twenty-five feet in length, on which to lay the stone foundation for the compress buildings and ware house. The new company expect to be in full blast by the first of October.

First Prize.

The yacht Rosa, with full sails set and champion flag of the Carolina Yacht Club at her mast-head, was photographed by Mr. C. M. Van Orsdel, this morning, at the foot of Walnut street. The yacht was lying up in the wind at the time she was "immortalized," with her crew in the yacht uniform.

We have seen the negative, and pronounce it as fine a picture as we have ever seen. When completed, the photograph will be 18 by 22, and a faithful likeness of the yacht. The Rosa is the first of the yachts of the Club which has been photographed and we feel no hesitancy in saying that the first prize of the last race will be more highly appreciated by her owner and crew than any ever yet won by a yacht of the Carolina Yacht Club. Vive la Rosa.

Appleton's Journal.

This work for July opens a new volume with an American novelette by Albert Rhodes entitled "A Bit of Nature." A Bit of Nature is thoroughly of the soil; it is fresh in character and situation, and will be welcomed specially by readers who are wearied of the stereotyped phases of the English novel. A short story in the number, which is almost long enough to be called a novelette, entitled "Sam," is a tale of mining life from a new hand, who ventured upon a domain supposed to belong peculiarly to Bret Harte, with a success that amply justifies the audacity. The name is new, but the story is worthy of a veteran hand. The number opens with an illustrated article entitled the "Rose of New England," which is an eminently interesting paper on Norwich, Conn., which is dubbed by this handsome title. Dr. Coan takes up Ruskin's "For Clavigera," and succeeds in illustrating just what it is that Ruskin proposes in his reform movement to accomplish. Edward King has a charming paper from Paris entitled "Paris and May," Julian Hawthorne continues his "Out of London," series, and there are various other articles.

Familiar in Every Household.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the great "medicine man" of Buffalo, is running for the office of Senator from that city. He seems to be the most popular man on the track, and well he may be, for his name is familiar in every household to the land, and people will vote for him regardless of his politics.—Wilkesbarre News. Correct as the News always is. The Doctor was elected by about 3,000 majority.—Buffalo News.

Knights of Honor.

At a meeting of Carolina Lodge No. 444, Knights of Honor, held last evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

F. A. L. Cassidy, D. H. P. West, V. D. W. M. Hankins, A. D. Geo. N. Harris, R. E. W. Manning, F. R. Geo. M. Crapon, T. J. H. Springer, Chap. H. C. Cassidy, Guide. C. W. McClammy, G. J. M. McGowan, S. Dr. W. J. H. Bellem, Medical Examiner.

Bruised and Overboard.

Mr. Harry Hill, a young gentleman in charge of a pile driver which has been at work at the upper wharves, while walking this forenoon down the track of the wharf at the W.C. & A.R. R. depot, which extends some distance out, slipped and fell, first between the cross ties and then into the river. Assistance was at hand and he was rescued when it was ascertained that he had some severe, but not serious, bruises on his side and arm. He was taken home and received the necessary attention and will, we hope, be all right in a day or two.

Geo. P. Rowell & Co's SELECT LIST

Local Newspapers.

Many persons suppose this list to be composed of CHEAP low-priced newspapers. The fact is quite otherwise. The Catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of the paper is printed in full-face type it is in every instance the best paper in the place. When printed in small type it is the only paper in the place. When printed in Roman letters it is neither the best nor the only paper, but is usually a very good one, notwithstanding. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper. It is not a cheap list. At the foot of the Catalogue for each State the important towns which are not covered by the list are enumerated. It is an Honest List. The list includes 570 newspapers, of which 163 are issued Daily and 807 Weekly. They are located in 825 different cities and towns, of which 22 are State Capitals, 32 places of over 5,000 population, and 114 County Seats. Lists Sent on Application. Address GEO. P.
