For a cooling and refreshing beverage just before retiring at night, a glass of iced tea is the best thing we wot of these hot nights.

If public opinion is worth anything, yesterday was a hot day. At any rate, everybody said so, and we were too warm to dispute it.

There were six interments in Pine Forest Cemetery during the past week, of whom two were adults and four were children.

Oun"devil" came in rather warm this morning and perpetrated the following:

New Money Order Offices.

Three hundred and ninety-seven new offices are to be added to the list of money-order offices in the United States on the 1st of July, the commencement of the fiscal year, and the National Republican takes this as to a certain extent indicative of the return of business activity. Three of these new offices are located in North Carolina.

High School for Boys.

We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. J. N. Hinton, to be found elsewhere, announcing that he has rented the commodious Davis house, on Second Street, near the Post Office, where the exercises of Wilmington High School will be resumed on October 1st.

Mr. Hinton has had fifteen years experience in teaching and as such is well known to our citizens. r Those who were once his pupils have gone abroad into life and some of them now fill stations of trust and importance.

St. Mary's.

We have received the catalogue of St. Mary's School, in Raleigh, prepared in anticipation of the 73d term of this venerable institution, which begins next September 12th. Bishops Atkinson and Lyman are announced as the visitors. Rev. Bennett Smedes, A. M., as Rector and Principal, and Mrs. Kate DeRosset Meares as Lady Principal. Besides these there are ten teachers on the faculty. St. Mary's seems to be very successful at this time the catalogue before us showing 113 pupils from eight different States.

Blackbeard and the Bones.

We spent a short time, last Tuesday, at the residence of Ex-Sheriff Black, on Middle Sound, and were shown by him the spots in which the human bones spoken of by us some time ago were found. They are turned up by the plow on two different hills in one field, which faces the sea, and in particular places are found in abundance by digging a short distance below the surface. Prof. Kerr should by all means examine these deposits. He made an engagement last Summer to do so and appointed a time but failed to come.

There are some old legends connected with this place which abound in interest Mr. Black's plantation was for several generations in the possession of a branch | who sang it, and whose musical abilities of the Moore family and old Col. Moore father of the late proprietors, is said to have found in the field alluded to skeletons of a man and a horse which he was for many years accustomed to show to visitors. The discovery of the bones is not, by any means, therefore, a recent one, but the fact was never published until last year.

Calendar as the Second 'unday after Trin- Barren Inlet (which makes in just between Wrightsville and Middle Sounds) carried a good draught of water and that it was then about immediately in front of the Moore homestead. In this Inlet it is averred that the pirot Teach or "Blackbeard" would sometimes sail for the purpose of making such repairs as might be lady who has received the largest number necessary to his vessel and some suppose that these deposits of bones are the remains of his victims, captured at sca. is in evidence that these remains are persons, as no Indian tomahawks, arrows or beads have been found. Dr. M. J DeRosset examined some portions of jawbone and he averred that they were of whites and we picked up a piece of a skull there the other day that could have belonged to neither an Indian or a negro besides, the finding of the skeleton of horse goes to confirm this view as we a know that animal to have been imported into this country. The remains of an old live oak (a dead live oak!) are shown in this field (the Golgotha, we call it) under which it is said that "Blackboard" used to rest when his vessel was in the Sound. That these things are not so highly improbable is evidenced by the fact that, as narrated by Dr. Hawks, one who wrote in 1731 alluded to Topsail Inlet (which is only a few miles above Barren Inlet) as "capable of receiving a ship of forty guns, and of containing all the ships in America," and this allusion, as Dr. Hawks thought, was probably meant for the pirate's ship, the "Queen' Anne's Revenge," which carried 40 guns.

We would be glad to have Prof. Kerr come down here and examine these bones and see if he cannot enlighten us all.

Too Often Done.

Do not put your pillows or feather beds into the sun to air, but in a shady place with a clear, dry wind blowing over them. If it is cloudy, but not damp, and the wind is strong, it is all the better. This, if practiced often, will keep wellcured feathers always sweet. Badly cured feathers cannot be made sweet. A hot sun on the best feathers will turn them rancid.

Closing Exercises of Misses James & Burr's School.

The soirce musicale of the pupils of Misses Burr & James' school and Mrs. M E. Cushing's scholars took place last evening at their school room.

The programme presented was one of unusual interest and one which brought forth the best efforts of the young ladies. The exercises for the evening were highly appreciated and enjoyed by the andience and will long be remembered.

Schenck was both neat and graceful and was delivered in a modest and unassuming manner. The Gloria Mozart's Twelth Mass, was highly enjoyed and was rendered in a manner peculiar to those are appreciated.

Misses Anderson and Cowan, both new beginners, performed a Polka Militaire in a satisfactory manner both to teachers and audience. Misses Alice Garrell's efforts were very happy and highly enjoyed. Trio from Overture Tancredi, de Rossini, by Misses Grafflin, Murray and Barlow, was very fine and these young ladies tation.

Col. J. G. Burr delivered the prizes to the young ladies in a happy style and triotic son, who was ever alive to her gave them some sound advice for their honor and welfare; and Wilmington has guidance through life. The excelsior medal, the highest prize of the school, was awarded to the young of golden merits during the school session of nine months. Thirty-six is the maximum. The medal was earned this year by two young ladies, Miss Bessie Ledford and Miss Josie Schenck, there being a tie between the two; each having obtained thirty-four golden merits, each received a

Just here we will state that, owing to the sickness of the little lady who was to have acted the part of the queen, Miss Chaffin learned the role of the queen on yesterday, and acquitted herself very handsomely. Miss Rheu, as teacher, acquitted herself satisfactorily, and was the recipient of compliments from the audience. The calisthenic movements with flowers and banners were easy and graceful, and the little ladies grouped themselves together in beautiful manner, presenting most carming tableaux.

Thursday afternoon the compositions of the young ladies were read, and many of them would have reflected credit upon much older heads. The subject lesson of the young ladies was peculiarly fine and the objects moulded by them with common chill. He seemed in perfect health and them. This feature in a school is a high. y commendable one, and one which should be instituted in all of our schools.

With showers of kisses for their preceptresses, the young ladies left them for their vacation, and the ladies who have so constantly discharged their duties, both for their pupils and parents, were well pleased at the result of their efforts.

Resolved, That the death of William A. Wright, long recognized as "the father of the Wilmington Bar," and universally beloved, as he was, by his brethren of the profession wherever he was known, is a cause of sincere and profound sorrow to us. The removal of such a man from our midst, although at an age when such an event might naturally be expected, is to be deeply lamented. He was a wise counsellor, a learned lawyer and a kindhearted, genial gentleman whose companionship was always a pleasure to his friends, and who, whether administering the law from the bench or practising it at the bar, was always just and courteous to It is said that a great many years ago added fresh laurels to their musical repu- all with whom his duties brought him in contact.

Human Relics of the War.

We have been informed, on good authority, that the remains of some of those who were buried at Fort Anderson during the war are becoming exposed. A gentleman who was there a few days since saw in one place feet, and in another a head, exposed. It is not known positively whether these are the remains of Federal or Confederate soldiers, but it is supposed that For the best performance of the major they are the latter, and, in this case, we respectfully call the attention of the Ladies' Memorial Association to the fact.

We also understand that human bones have recently been exposed at Fort Fisher caused, most probably, by the shifting of the sand there. These are thought to be the remains of some of the Federals who fell in the attack on Fisher, and Col. Brink, whose attention has been called to the matter, has written to the Secretary of War, suggesting that they be removed and interred in the National Cemetery, near

A Famous Bird Dead. ..

We have a note from our good friend. Col. Davis, of the Purcell House in Nortolk, giving us information relative to the death of his famous mocking-bird. "Dick," known to the traveling public from Boston to New Orleans. Dick was indeed a famous bird, and the finest indeed a famous bird, and the finest by odds, we have ever known. He was a Wilmington bird, and was 11 years, 2 months and 26 days old. Before leaving Wilmington Col. Davis had been offered and had refused $100 for him, and even when "Dick" "got adrift," the Colonel cheerfully paid a boy $10 for his capture and return. Dick died on A Wednesday in the Purcell House rotunda in Norfolk, it is supposed of a congestive had been given his usual morning bath and hung up again in his cage when he suddenly dropped dead. His like will hardly be seen again.

The market was well supplied with vegetables of all sorts, this morning, which were selling at reasonable rates.
